NO. 21,308 ENTERED AS SECOND CLASS MATTER, POSTOFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C. WASHINGTON: THURSDAY, OCTOBER 18, 1934  COPYRIGHT, 1934, BY THE WASHINGTON POST. THREE CENTS

Price of Milk Cut to Assist D. C. Families On Relief List

11 Cents a Quart, Drop of 2 Cents, Fixed as Cost to Needy.

Planned to Provide More for Children

One Dairy Agrees to Slash, Breaking Up Dealers' Accord.

Milk is to be delivered to the doors of the 22,000 District families on relief for 11 cents a quart.

This is 2 cents less than the standard price. The 11-cent milk is to be delivered by the Embassy Dairy, an independent distributor owned by Washingtonians.

Determination of the officers of the dairy to cooperate with District relief officials was reached at a conference held yesterday in the office of Commissioner George E. Allen. The decision marked the first break in the heretofore impregnable front of District milk distributors.

"Officers of the Embassy Dairy deserve a great deal of credit for their public-spirited action," Commissioner Allen, relief administrator, said.

Boon to Children.

"The reduced price of milk to families on relief will mean that the hungry children of these families will get more milk. More milk to these little undernourished bodies will mean better citizens and less cost for relief in the years to come. I can not say enough for the courage and the public spiritedness of the owners of the Embassy Dairy. I'm not much worried about their future because they have had the temerity to buck the prescribed prices. The great heart of the people of Washington will take care of that situation."

District officials estimate the price reduction will mean an increase of 30,000 gallons a month in milk consumption among the relief families in the District.

No contract has been entered into between the Embassy Dairy and the District. Officers of the dairy simply agreed they would deliver milk at 11 cents a quart to any family certified to them as on relief rolls.

Anxious to persuade relief families to give their children more milk, relief officials will start today to supply the dairy with the names of those to whom milk should be delivered at the reduced price.

The average saving to the relief family will be 60 cents a month. Relief workers will try to have relief families spend this extra 60 cents for more milk.

Checks Won't Be Cut.

There is not to be any cuts in the checks given families on relief. Their budgets will remain the same. The object, Commissioner Allen said, is to provide more milk for the needy children.

Pledge of the Embassy Dairy to cooperate with District relief officials was made by James J. Ward, secretary of the company, and Edward L. Koepenick, treasurer.

Miss M. Alice Hill, director of the emergency relief division, has reported the average number of persons a family on relief rolls was 3.7. She also reported a survey showed the average milk consump-

Banks to Slash FHA Loan Rate

$4.15 Per $100 Interest to Be Charged Instead of $5 Allowed.

Confident that the local home modernization drive will be successful, District banks yesterday announced that they would charge an interest rate slightly lower than the maximum allowed by the Federal Housing Administration.

Instead of deducting $5 from each $100 loan as the year's discount, local banks will deduct $4.15, the note to be paid in monthly installments as provided in the FHA regulations.

Frederick P. H. Siddons, president of the District Bankers Association, announced the rate in a letter to Thomas P. Littlepage, general chairman of the Washington better housing campaign.

The decision, Siddons said, was reached "because of the prospect of substantial increases in the volume of modernization loans and because of the favorable experience to date in handling these loans, resulting from the prompt making of payments by property owners.

"This policy, it is felt, is in complete accordance with the policy of the Federal Housing Administration, which has urged financial institutions to adapt their financing plans to local conditions." The letter added:

"One of the important elements in the cost of handling these loans is the necessity of following up monthly payments, and experience in the District has shown this is less than in some other localities, because of the exceptional regularity of income of the qualified property owners here."

One Drowned, Liner Saves 5 In Plane Dive

(Copyright, 1934, by the United Press.)

Aboard S. S. Washington, at Sea, Oct. 17 (U.P.).—The liner Washington steamed toward New York tonight, carrying five survivors of a news reel plane rescued shortly after dawn when the machine dived into the sea 650 miles from land, with the loss of one man.

It circled over the ship, trying to pick up a line to hoist the films aboard the plane and get them back to the United States a day ahead of the liner. As the plane flew low over the rough waters, a wave struck its right side, snapping off a pontoon.

Capt. George Fried, whose rescues at sea have made him famous, ordered a boat put over the side to rescue the men.

Civil Service Rule to Guide Farm Census

By Robert C. Albright.

The Democratic stampede for 25,000 temporary farm census jobs encountered a sharp reversal yesterday, as 1,800 desirable Washington appointments, under Civil Service, were ruled out of the patronage pool as "untouchable."

Armed with an Executive order from the President, Director of the Census William L. Austin met a storm of Congressional requests for the Washington jobs with a flat refusal to consider "political" indorsements for these local plums.

Director Austin is a plain-spoken man. A few days ago he announced the bulk of the 25,000 jobs in the field will be doled out only after consultation with members of Congress. But in the Washington office, he made clear, the merit system will prevail.

Turns Down Job Demands.

Several job-hungry Democratic members immediately bombarded the bureau with demands that the remaining 1,800 appointments in this city be thrown into the pot. It seems the field jobs average only about 60 per Congressional district, and members have five times that number of patronage applications on tap.

The frank Mr. Austin was adamant. He had foreseen just this emergency. So he waved in their faces an order from the President specifically stating that former Census Bureau employes with a good Civil Service rating be given preference on the Washington staff. After they are exhausted, the bureau will go to ten remaining Civil

Woman Gets 2 Years For Defaming Hoover

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 17 (AP).—Mrs. John Duss, former student of Stetson University, has been sentenced to serve two years in the Federal Industrial School for Women at Alderson, W. Va., for sending a defamatory postal card to former President Hoover. The indictment said the card was sent from New Smyrna.

Federal Judge Louie Strum, who pronounced the sentence, was a classmate of Mrs. Duss at the university.

Housing Plan To Be Pushed By President

Expanded Program to Include Clearance of Slums.

Emergency Cost Since July 1 Exceeds a Billion Dollars.

By Leon Dure, Jr.

President Roosevelt yesterday lifted the veil obscuring future relief plans of the Administration enough to disclose that greater emphasis will be put on Federal housing projects, both in rural rehabilitation and urban slum clearance.

He declared that a proposal for a large increase in this type of relief activity undoubtedly will be included in his recommendations to Congress this winter, since the Administration is convinced that efforts in this direction are succeeding.

His remarks coincided with the Treasury's daily statement for October 15, showing that "emergency" expenditures for the 3½ months since July had surged past the $1,000,000,000 point, almost half of it going for relief.

Nearly Two Billion Spent.

All expenditures as of that date stood at $1,828,396,679, the "emergency" disbursements amounting to $1,015,443,339. At the same time the Treasury reported an increase of $267,844,946 in revenue, which left a deficit of $707,033,183—still far behind the estimates.

Expressing amusement over charges of "inconsistency," the President began his discussion of housing by declaring that there was no basis for comparison between attempts to encourage subsistence farming and simultaneous attempts to curtail farm production.

The President mentioned no figures, but it was clear that he had in mind a substantial expansion of the experiments now being carried forward by the PWA, which handles both slum clearance and subsistence homesteads, and the FERA.

These projects were described as important by Mr. Roosevelt as a means both to remove families from relief rolls and to give them a chance to rehabilitate themselves. It was assumed that funds to provide for them will be included in a general public works proposal to be submitted to Congress.

The size of this sum, as well as other features of the Administration's program for this session, still remained the subject of speculation. On one question, however, the President shed a ray of light when he said that one plan for unemployment insurance now being studied provides that the Government contribute only the overhead.

The present housing program, as distinct from the home modernization campaign now being conducted by the Federal Housing Administration, is being directed on three fronts. In addition to scattered loans, the PWA has allotted $150,000,000 for the eradication of slum areas in cities and the construction of low-cost housing.

The Subsistence Homestead Division, meantime, is developing 63 projects, for which close to $18,000,000 has been allotted. Only $4,000,000 has been actually spent, however, and the Administration still has the major portion of the $50,-

Philippines Request Japan to Return 23

Manila, Oct. 17 (AP).—Disregarding the request of Japanese Consul General Atsushi Kimura to "leave the matter in Japan's hands," Gov. Gen. Frank Murphy today filed a request to Tokyo for the extradition of 23 fishermen accused of attempting to slay 3 Filipino peace officers.

He asked Ambassador Joseph C. Grew to make representations in accordance with the treaty of 1887 requesting the provisional arrest of the captain and 22 members of the crew of Kain Maru, now at Formosa.

Accused Jury 'Fixer' Is Given 6-Month Term for Contempt

Louis Palumbo was given a six-month sentence by District Supreme Court Justice James M. Proctor late yesterday on a charge of criminal contempt coincident with an investigation of jury tampering in connection with a gambling case here.

A few hours before the sentence was handed down Palumbo was indicted by the District grand jury on a charge of bribery, an indictment which Federal prosecutors said would be pressed despite conviction on the contempt charge.

Palumbo's attorney, Denny Hughes, saved the defendant from immediate confinement when he persuaded Justice Proctor to permit his client to remain at liberty under a $1,000 bond pending appeal.

A petition citing Palumbo to show cause why he should not be adjudged in criminal contempt to court was issued last week coincident with the beginning of a grand jury investigation of an alleged attempt by the defendant to have Charles William Powers, serving on a jury in the criminal branch of the Supreme Court, "sit tight" and hold out for a not guilty verdict in a gambling case then approaching trial.

Testifying yesterday, Powers said he was approached by Palumbo at Fourteenth and U streets northwest, October 8. He said Palumbo told him he had a friend coming up for trial and mentioned the sum of $50 if Powers would vote "not guilty."

Powers admitted knowing Palumbo for 15 years and also said he had borrowed $10 from him years ago. He denied he still owed Palumbo money, maintaining he had fully repaid the loan.

Palumbo, a short, heavily built individual, denied attempting to bribe Powers. He said that "for some crazy reason" he had told Powers a friend was coming up for trial, but denied he had asked Powers to hold out for acquittal.

The defendant admitted, under questioning by John Fihelly, assistant United States attorney, that he was interested in the case of "Pete Pape," who was awaiting trial on a gaming charge that was scheduled to come up October 8.

Gandhi Extolled Here By Sandaled Disciple

Mirabai's bare, leather-sandaled feet walked in dignity over the deep rugs of the Mayflower Hotel last night threading their way among the stylish high heels of women in evening gowns.

Groomed in exquisite detail, the women frankly stopped to stare at Mirabai, who wore a mannish brown tweed topcoat over her simple white tunic, a shawl around her shoulders, and a sari headcloth over her shining black hair.

The sari was woven by Mirabai in a Bombay prison three years ago, when she endured the rigors of prison life to be near Mahatma Gandhi, master of the faith she has adopted.

It was six years ago, during spring in London, that Miss Made-

U. S. Assesses 100 Concerns For Millions

(Copyright, 1934, by the Associated Press.)

As part of a broad move to close revenue law loopholes, the Treasury was disclosed yesterday to have notified about 100 corporations that they owe the Government scores of millions of dollars in deficient taxes.

A tax deficiency of $17,199,797 was assessed against Fisher & Co., of Detroit, holding concern for investments of the six Fisher brothers, long powerful figures in the automobile industry.

Aiming particularly to curb alleged illegal transfer of profits to surplus to avoid surtax payments by stockholders, the Treasury has levied on five score other companies penalties of 50 per cent of net income for the years concerned.

Challenge in Replies.

Nearly 50 of the companies have replied, denying the allegations and in many instances challenging the constitutionality of the penalty provision, contending it is an executive usurpation of the judicial power.

Among those receiving notices is the Matson Securities Co., of San Francisco, holding large interests in the Matson Navigation Co. and in Hawaiian development enterprises. A total deficiency of $874,377 was asked for 1930.

Assessments aggregating $100,788 have been placed against William De Mille. Others were made against Cecil B. De Mille. Both are Hollywood moving picture producers.

Kingsford-Smith Starts For California Saturday

San Francisco, Oct. 16 (AP).—Arthur H. O'Connor, of the Australian Press Bureau, announced here today he had been informed Wing Commander Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith would take off Saturday from Brisbane on a transpacific flight, and expected to land in California Tuesday.

O'Connor said Kingsford-Smith, who made the westward Pacific flight in his famed monoplane, Southern Cross, several years ago, would land in Suva, Fiji, Honolulu, and either San Francisco or Los Angeles.

Japan to Ask Abandonment Of Navy Ratio

Will Seek Equality, Says Admiral; Would Bar 'Offensive' Ships.

London, Oct. 17 (AP).—Admiral Isoroku Yamamoto, Japanese delegate to tri-power naval conversations here, said today that Japan will demand abolition of the ratio system of limiting naval armaments.

Instead, he revealed, the Island Empire will seek to substitute the global tonnage basis.

These proposals will be made to the representatives of the United States and Great Britain in the talks scheduled to start here next week.

Yamamoto's announcement came soon after authoritative sources had disclosed that the Americans, Norman H. Davis and Admiral William H. Standley, will suggest substantial reduction in general naval armaments and renewal of the Washington and London naval treaties.

Ratio Now 5-5-3.

(Under the terms of the Washington agreement, the United States and Great Britain are granted naval parity, with Japan permitted three-fifths of the armaments each has—the so-called 5-5-3 ratio.)

"Japan wants equality," Admiral Yamamoto asserted. He declined to say whether the plan he will offer proposes actual tonnage equality of the three powers.

Admiral Yamamoto indicated he will propose elimination or reduction of all offensive types of ships, with aircraft carriers and big battleships under this classification.

Tug Fleeing Typhoon, 96 Aboard in Danger

Hongkong, Oct. 17 (AP).—Fears were expressed today for the safety of 6 Europeans and 90 Chinese aboard the Tai-koo Dock & Engineering Co.'s salvage tug Tai-koo, apparently fleeing southward before a cyclonic gale.

The tug was inspecting the City of Cambridge at Pratas Reef, when the typhoon overtook her. The craft wirelessed for help and H. M. S. Adventure was dispatched from Hongkong. Other rescue ships were unable to overtake her.

Hull Brands Tariff Rises Trade Ruse

Germany, Which Seeks to End Treaty, Not Named Specifically.

By Franklyn Waltman, Jr.

Excoriating as "indefensible" the action of some nations in raising their tariff rates for bargaining purposes on the eve of reciprocal trade discussions with this country, Secretary of State Cordell Hull last night threw out a strong hint that the United States was not interested in negotiating with those engaging in such practices.

Mr. Hull at the same time flayed "the policy of a country seeking solely to increase its own exports and to lessen its imports." He took occasion, by implication, to indorse again as a principle of "enlightened self-interest" for the United States an adherence to most-favored-nation treatment in international commerce.

Hull Statement Issued.

The Secretary of State expressed his views in a formal statement handed to the press by Undersecretary William Phillips. Mr. Hull is out of the city on a brief vacation. Mr. Phillips was reluctant to interpret the Secretary's statement and consequently its inspiration remained somewhat of a mystery.

Although Mr. Hull's statement was written in the abstract and without referring to any country, it was believed that he aimed it directly at Germany and, in a lessened degree, at France and other nations recently boosting tariffs and trade barriers. Germany has embarked on a policy of reducing imports and increasing exports and only last Saturday notified this country it wished to terminate the most-favored-nation agreement existing between them.

Coincidentally with the release of Mr. Hull's statement, George N. Peek, foreign trade adviser to President Roosevelt, in an address in Chicago, denounced the establishment of exclusive commercial agreements and barter transactions by other nations.

180 Agreements Made.

Addressing the foreign trade conference, meeting in Chicago, Mr. Peek asserted that 180 of these "exclusive" agreements have been made, covering all phases of international trade, from general tariff adjustment to specific agreements, barter and State trading.

"These mutually exclusive compacts have one common characteristic—that of leaving the United States entirely out of consideration," Mr. Peek said, explaining that such restrictions were "clogging" the wheels of world trade.

Mr. Peek also urged that "in the case of countries exercising exchange controls against this country, the satisfactory solution of the exchange problem should be made a prerequisite to the negotiation of any general trade agreements—particularly in the case of nations enjoying a favorable trade balance with the United States."

He also warned that due to the ignoring of the most-favored-nation treatment principle by other nations "we may be obliged to resort, temporarily at least, to our earlier policy of extending most-favored-nation treatment only to nations which reciprocate in fact."

Secretary Hull said he was "encouraged" by the progress made in carrying out the reciprocal trade agreement program and that under the pact concluded with Cuba

American Claims Win $1,300,000 in Turkey

Istanbul, Oct. 17 (AP).—Turkey will pay American citizens $1,300,000 for property seized during the World War as a result of findings of the Turko-American Mixed Claims Commission, it was learned today. The two governments must approve the decision before it is published officially.

The American representatives, Fred K. Nielsen and John W. Connelly, with their Turkish colleagues examined claims of 400 Americans living in Turkey.

Girl Acrobat Killed in Fall On N. Y. Stage

New York, Oct. 17 (AP).—Mary Larkin De Phillips, 20-year-old acrobat, plunged to her death tonight on the stage of the Roxy theater, crashing to the floor at the feet of her husband, Charles, as he respond with bows and smiles to the applause of the audience.

A moment of silence, then shrill screams of women patrons as many half rose from their seats in horror. Six women fainted and were carried unconscious to the theater's emergency hospital.

De Phillips bent over and lifted his wife's broken body in his arms as stage hands hurriedly dropped the curtain. She had fallen 40 feet rode a one-wheel bicycle.

Physicians hurried her to a hospital, where she died three hours later. What caused the plunge was not known, but the physicians said she either missed her footing or suffered an attack of vertigo.

$250 Payment Given Kelley, Witness Says

Contractor Says He Met Arlington Official's Bill for Services.

Fifty dollars of $250 allegedly paid to Lyman M. Kelley, chairman of the Arlington County Board of Commissioners, by a contractor for "special services rendered" was traced to Kelley yesterday during the impeachment proceedings against him in the circuit court at Arlington.

The money was traced through Roger Daniels, who held contracts with the county and whose performance bond was written through Kelley's bonding office, and through a man and his wife who identified a check for $50, payable to Daniels, indorsed over to Kelley and cashed by the couple at their gasoline station.

Kelley, however, scored heavily at the opening of the proceedings yesterday, when Judge Frederick W. Coleman, of Fredericksburg, who is presiding, ruled that letters allegedly written by Kelley soliciting bond business from firms doing business with the county did not constitute a violation of the law. The judge threw out that part of the presentment which charged Kelley with illegally writing bonds on that type of business.

Hostage's Family Bars Police Help

Kidnap Gang Gives Warning Against Official Aid.

New York, Oct. 17 (AP).—The family of Lewis Esposito, 23-year-old Bronx law student and son of a well-to-do wholesale junk dealer, today barred police and Federal agents from their home as they awaited word from their son's kidnapers.

The kidnapers have warned the Esposito family against seeking official aid in the first two telephone contacts with the family on Monday night.

Doctors Detour Living Skin To Improve Plastic Surgery

Boston, Oct. 17 (AP).—A method of detouring living skin from one part of the body to another to improve plastic surgery was described to the American College of Surgeons here tonight by Sir Harold Gillies, London surgeon.

A steadily rising tide in cures of cancer was reported by a large group of surgeons in a symposium on malignant diseases.

The detouring of skin is one of the latest bits of skill. By its use skin, without ever losing its living connection with the patient's own blood supply, can be taken from virtually any part of the body, even the back, and transferred anywhere else.

By this method skin has been taken from the outside of the body and detoured to interior cavities to save life.

The detour trip across or lengthwise of the body takes six to nine weeks. The method is known to surgeons as the tubed pedicle flap.

To use for detouring abdominal skin to the face a square section of abdominal skin is first loosened along two opposite sides. It is lifted and rolled into the form of a valise handle. Its other two ends remain attached to their original sites.

This handle or flap remains fully alive nourished by blood vessels at each end, until it gets accustomed to its semi-independent form of life.

Next one end of the flap is cut free and grafted to the forearm, which can be placed near the abdomen. Meanwhile the other end of the flap remains connected to the abdomen. Over a period of several weeks the skin gets accustomed to

U.S. Demands Death Penalty For Kidnaper Of Mrs. Stoll

Abductor Still at Large; His Wife Held in Bond of $50,000.

Hauptmann Enters Extradition Appeal

24-Hour Justice Dealt Ford Plotter; Gets 10-Year Term.

Major developments in kidnaping cases yesterday were:

Federal agents concentrated in Indiana, Ohio and Illinois their hunt for Thomas H. Robinson, jr., believed the kidnaper of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll, of Louisville. The Government announced it would demand the death penalty. Mrs. Stoll, having carried out her promise of a 24-hour silence, will support the demand.

Edward Lickwala, 20, who demanded $5,000 of Edsel B. Ford, was arrested, indicted, pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to 10 years, all in the space of 24 hours.

An employment agency head placed Bruno Richard Hauptmann at work in New York on the day of the Lindbergh kidnaping. Hauptmann appealed against his extradition to New Jersey.

(Associated Press.)

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 17 (AP).—The death penalty for the kidnaping of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll was demanded today by the United States Government.

Forces moved swiftly. Federal agents concentrated on their search for the man named as the mad kidnaper—Thomas H. Robinson, jr., of Nashville.

Mrs. Stoll told her husband the former lunatic asylum inmate had shut her up in a dark closet after binding and gagging her.

"I thought I was going to die," she said. He had slugged her before snatching her from home last Wednesday for $50,000 ransom.

Liable to Death Sentence.

Robinson, who once worked for the Stoll Oil Co. here, was held by U. S. District Attorney Thomas J. Sparks as liable to the extreme penalty under the Lindbergh law. As amended, it authorizes execution when the victim is injured.

Kidnaping and conspiracy to kidnap Mrs. Stoll was charged jointly against Robinson. His wife, Frances, and his father, Thomas Henry Robinson, sr., of Nashville, were jointly charged with him.

Mrs. Robinson was arraigned late today and sent to jail in default of $50,000 bond.

"I know of no crime more serious," Sparks told United States Commissioner Eugene M. Dailey, "than a crime of this character. They demanded $50,000 ransom and they treated her cruelly."

Mrs. Robinson sat with her face averted, haggard and worn from nearly 24 hours of suspense and grilling since she was caught. Her face wore a morose expression, but at times she flared in anger. She wore a gray wool suit with white waist, and a close-fitting black hat.

Demands "Decent Attorney."

"I only ask that I have a decent attorney," she cried when the commissioner asked if she had anything to say. "I have none"—her voice rose to a high pitch—"and I demand one!"

Mrs. Stoll had told her family the woman had befriended her in the Indianapolis apartment house, where she had spent six days of captivity.

"That woman saved my life," the Rev. E. Arnold Clegg, Indianapolis pastor, who helped her to her home, quoted Mrs. Stoll as saying.

Mrs. Stoll pledged her abductor she would not tell for 24 hours

One Hand on Rope Averts Fatal Fall

Worker, 150 Feet in Air, Saved; Another Dies.

New York, Oct. 17 (AP).—Clinging to a rope with one hand, 150 feet above the street, and holding on to a 60-pound bucket of waterproofing material with the other, Perry Fast, building trades worker, escaped death today. His companion, Joseph Alampi, 35, plunged to his death when the scaffold collapsed.

While horrified spectators watched, the 21-year-old workman was hauled to safety by two men in a fifteenth-floor apartment.

Fast, hanging to the rope, swung into space, head downward, when the scaffold collapsed. One of Fast's rescuers, Maurice Bauman, fastened the free end of a dangling rope around the workman's feet and held on until aid arrived.

U. S. to Reopen Houde Inquiry, Says Garrison

Head of Labor Board Cites New Evidence by Auto Workers' Union.

Prosecution of the Houde Engineering Co. by the Justice Department as a test of his famed majority rule decision was predicted yesterday by Lloyd Garrison, National Labor Relations Board chairman.

Garrison reported new evidence had been presented to Federal attorneys by the United Automobile Workers' Federal Union, an American Federation of Labor affiliate, since Attorney General Cummings last week announced his department possessed insufficient evidence to institute court action.

"I understand the Houde case has very definitely not been dropped by the Department of Justice," Garrison commented.

Anxious for Test.

While the labor chairman discredited reports of a misunderstanding between his board and the department he gave the impression that he was anxious to obtain a court test of the most important decision in the brief history of the board.

"The department, of course," Garrison explained, "wants to be reasonably sure it will be sustained before it brings suit.'

Officials intimated the new evidence included proof that the Houde company, a Buffalo, N. Y., concern, refused to bargain exclusively with the A. F. of L. union, which was named as the representative of all employes by the labor board after a majority of the workers voted to grant it such authority.

Industry Backs Firm.

Should the court test materialize, it would find the Houde firm backed by most of American industry, as the National Manufacturers Association already has urged its members to disregard the decision.

Labor leaders are equally anxious to have the case decided by the courts because they think the board's ruling would prove a severe blow to company ponsored unions should it be upheld.

Garrison announced he would leave at the end of the week to resume his post as dean of the University of Wisconsin Law School. He added, however, he would withhold his resignation until a new chairman is appointed by President Roosevelt.

One of these was by Frederick C. Holden, M. D., New York City. He did not hold that all cases will live, but that many can be cured by early diagnosis and surgery. He said "there is no cancer age."

Hubert A. Royster, M. D., Raleigh, N. C., read a paper that "Cancer of the Breast is Curable." Hugh Trout, M. D., of Roanoke, Va., told of the rapid advances in curing breast cancers. He said that from 1920 to 1924 his clinic records showed 30 per cent of 5-year cures, and the years 1924 to 1928 a rise to 55 per cent in 5-year cures.

J. Shelton Horseley, M. D., of Richmond, Va., described operations for stomach cancer and predicted that many lives can be saved now given up as hopeless from this form of malignancy. Previously at the present meeting increase in cures of stomach cancer have been reported.

Chicago, Oct. 17 (AP).—Five-year-old Nancy Jane Costigan, victim of a furnace murder, was buried here today with simple rites, attended by her parents, grandparents and three uncles.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard John Costigan, of Forest Hills, Long Island, said they would return immediately to New York to assist in the prosecution of Lawrence Stone 2d, who, police said, confessed putting the body of Nancy Jane in an apartment house furnace at Mount Vernon, N. Y.

Between You and Me

With the Roosevelts Taking Political Stump, What About Sistie and Buzzie?

By Raymond Clapper

RECENT announcement that President Roosevelt would keep aloof from the election campaign was not intended, apparently, to stand for the entire family.

Mrs. Roosevelt has thrown New York Republican women into a panic by announcing she will go into the State to campaign for her old friend, Mrs. Caroline O'Day, Democratic candidate for representative at large. In Massachusetts, Son James has become so active that one frantic candidate is begging Father at Washington to call off the boy.

Roosevelt families always have been good American newspaper copy and never better than now. The stage has its Barrymore family, the circus its family of Flying Codonas. Politics never has seen a greater family troupe of artists than the happy Swiss Family Roosevelt, which is having such a full life in its great adventures among the Neanderthalers who live by tooth and claw.

Republican politicians look on with a cold and disapproving eye. Having no Republican White House family to play against the Democratic headliners, they are coming to feel about the Roosevelt family in politics, as professional authors do about the unending stream of books rolling from the presses under signatures of New Dealers—that it is carrying amateur competition a little too far. They wonder where it will stop, and, in view of the box-office pull of Shirley Temple and David Holt, whether, at the last moment, Sistie and Buzzie will get into the campaign.

After all, in politics as with acrobats, you can't begin training the young too early. One Maryland political leader showed remarkable results in his 8-year-old daughter. He took the little lady to Annapolis one day and she held court in the House of Delegates. As members came up to speak to her, she always said: "I'm so glad to see you again."

"Oh, I know how to meet people," she explained. "My father told me how to do it. When you meet anyone you must always say, 'I'm so glad to see you again.' If you have met him before he is pleased that you remembered it. If you haven't ever seen him before, it makes him feel good anyway."

* * * *

Even Mr. Roosevelt is not keeping as aloof from the campaign as he had expected. Candidates crowd the White House doorstep every day. They want PWA money, or something that will help them even if it is only a five-minute audience so they can return home and tell their constituents they have just conferred with the President and he is interested in their problems.

Political callers yesterday included Democratic Senatorial Candidate Guffey, of Pennsylvania; H. W. Kramer, editor of the Ohio Democrat; Senator Duffy, of Wisconsin, Democrat, and Olin D. Johnston, Democratic candidate for Governor of South Carolina. He was listed as Governor-elect on the White House calling list, which is not the fact but is a safe assumption.

Cheering news for private business came out of TVA the other day. It is buying 6,000,000 barrels of cement from commercial producers. Earlier, TVA considered manufacturing its own cement. It still believes the Government could make cement more cheaply than it can be bought. TVA was willing to pay the difference rather than build a new cement plant in an already overbuilt industry.

Soviet Russia is attempting to open its icebound 4,000-mile northern coast line to merchant shipping. The purpose is to tap a vast territory rich in minerals, timber and furs.

Until recently only three ships had ever gone through this frozen northeastern passage. Recent expeditions have convinced the Russians they can use this route for shipping three or four months a year. The plan is to send ships in flotillas headed by specially constructed ice-breakers. This route is a short line between northern Europe and Pacific ports.

It is an epic enterprise which takes a place in the development of modern Russia like that of the pioneer American railroad builders who plowed through the great American desert and spanned the continent. But it still is in the Oregon Trail stage. Kit Carson had no more stirring adventures in pioneering one of America's Western trade routes than the heroic voyages of the ship Cheliuskin, which sank in an ice jam near Bering Strait. All except one of the 105 aboard were rescued from the ice by airplane.

The complete motion-picture record of this expedition, shown privately at the Soviet Embassy Tuesday night, is history to make your hair curl, expertly cranked out through disaster and triumph by two daring camera heroes, one of them a nephew of Soviet Ambassador Troyanovsky.

President Roosevelt's trip into Virginia tomorrow will be by train, which is good news to the gentlemen of the press, who find that it helps to pass the time while traveling to play bridge.

They ran into trouble on the trip to the Newport races a few weeks ago because they had to ride ten hours in an automobile. Secretary McIntyre and three correspondents played bridge anyway, though under difficulties. They placed the ancient White House chess board on their knees. After the sun went down they stopped at a roadside hotel to beg safety pins with which to construct a shield about the driver so that the inside lights could be used.

As Courtenay Terrett is quoted in Stanley Walker's book, "City Editor," nowhere except in newspaper work can you have so much fun for so little money.

pose neutralization of the Philippines, the Japanese delegate replied:

"That is a matter which concerns only the United States."

He said Japan was not alarmed that Great Britain is strengthening her naval base at Singapore, as she feels Britain is acting entirely within her rights.

Aleutian Treaty Cited.

The Aleutian Islands, however, are not similarly regarded back home, he indicated.

"This Aleutian area is a restricted area under the existing treaty," he pointed out, "so unless the treaty is revised or terminated I do not believe the United States would undertake fortification of them."

Britain today named Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald to head her conferees, as Admiral Yamamato, in conferences with Japanese Ambassador Tsuneo Matsudaira, whipped Japan's plan into final shape.

It has not yet been decided whether the conversations will be bilateral or informal round table discussions.

4,000 Bankers Will Consider Aid to Recovery

President and Morgenthau to Speak at Convention Here Next Week.

Closer cooperation between the Administration and financiers is expected to result from the convention of the American Bankers Association here next week. The organization probably will discuss means of aiding in the Government's drive for recovery and of encouraging resumption of friendly relations between Federal officials and the banking community generally.

President Roosevelt will head the list of speakers. Among his associates to be heard will be Secretary Morgenthau; Jesse H. Jones, Reconstruction Finance Corporation chairman, and Leo T. Crowley, Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation chairman.

Under a system of automatic promotion annually, the race for election of the association's second vice president is likely to be outstanding. Tom K. Smith, president of the Boatmen's National Bank of St. Louis, has been prominently mentioned for that post. His election next week would virtually assure his promotion to the presidency in 1936.

"It is a particularly fortunate circumstance, to my mind, that the convention will be held this year in Washington," declared Francis M. Law, of Houston, Tex., association president.

"It should prove of inestimable value in carrying forward the era of cooperation between the National Administration and the banker that is so essential to the National well-being.

"I am convinced this convention will be one of the most serviceable and constructive in the history of the association and from which any banker can ill afford to remain away, and I therefore urge every bank enrolled in our membership to send at least one representative so that it can avail itself of the unusual benefits which this year's meeting will offer."

More than 4,000 delegates, including about 1,000 from Washington, Maryland and Virginia, probably will attend. Sessions will be held in the Willard Hotel, the National Theater and Constitution Hall.

The bankers will be welcomed to the Pan-American Union quarters Tuesday from 8 until 11 p. m. Five local golf clubs also will be placed at their disposal.

Bladensburg Democrats Will Reorganize Club

Permanent reorganization of the Bladensburg (Md.) District Men's Democratic Club will be effected at a meeting Monday at 8 p. m. in the Tuxedo firehouse.

Judge Henry H. O'Neill has been elected temporary chairman. Plans were made to have a large delegation in the country-wide parade and rally to be held October 28 in honor of the visit of Gov. Ritchie and other State candidates.

Hull Assails Tariff Rises As Trade Pact Stratagein

"trade between the two countries has already shown an appreciable increase." He said at present 11 countries were listed on the trade agreements calendar, and that preparations for negotiations with these nations were "well advanced."

Mr. Hull said the readiness of so many nations to cooperate with the United States to remove barriers to trade as "extremely gratifying" and as indicative of a belief that such agreements constitute "an effective method to reduce the economic ills of the world."

But he found it "highly regrettable that we have still from time to time encountered in some quarters the same narrow attitudes which led to the condition which we are endeavoring to correct."

"I refer," he continued, "in general to the policy of a country seeking solely to increase its own exports and to lessen its imports. One of the most indefensible practices whereby such a policy is introduced into trade agreement negotiations is that of artificially raising the tariff rates or other restrictions against the importation of goods which are to be the subject of forthcoming or early negotiations, shortly before these negotiations are to be undertaken."

"It should be obvious that no bargaining program, based upon a sincere effort for an all around reduction of trade barriers, can succeed in the face of such practices."

Mr. Phillips said the department had information that certain nations with which negotiations had been planned were going to raise their tariff rates to "beat the gun." He declined to name those nations covered by his statement that the department did not favor proceeding with nations that undertake such a policy.

Pair Seize $10,468 In St. Paul Holdup

St. Paul, Oct. 17 (AP).—Two armed men robbed a messenger of the Hancock-Nelson Wholesale Grocery Co. of $10,468 in cash and checks today.

The robbers accosted Dana Parshall, the messenger, on University avenue, a main thoroughfare between Minneapolis and St. Paul, as he was on his way to the First National Bank in Minneapolis. The loot included $4,202 in cash the bandits fled southward in an automobile.

County Set to Hold Dinner for Red Cross

The annual Red Cross roll call dinner for Montgomery County will be given Tuesday evening in Hungerford Tavern at Rockville. The Rev. Guy Cook, Poolesville, will be present to organize the county roll call, of which he is chairman.

Nazi Cries Halt Congressional Inquiry in N. Y.

New York, Oct. 17 (AP).—Cries of "Heil, Hitler" by 200 members of the Friends of the New Germany, broke up the hearing of the Congressional committee on un-American activities today.

Fist fights between Jewish and Nazi sympathizers were narrowly averted by police as the audience poured out of the hearing room.

Jeers and laughter had interrupted the proceedings several times at the afternoon session, but trouble broke out when Ludwig Werner, a witness, testified he was "kicked out" of the Friends of the New Germany because "I was too smart to obey orders blindly."

"Heil, Hitler," Rings Out.

Immediately the hearing room resounded with cries of "Heil, Hitler" from a bloc of Nazi followers. Representative John W. McCormack, of South Boston, Mass., chairman of the committee, adjourned the meeting and said:

"I desire to ask the people not to construe this action as representing Americans of German blood. Actions of this kind reflect discredit on the friends of New Germany."

McCormack had said in the course of an earlier outbreak, he had been informed that Antone Heagele, New York leader of the Friends of the New Germany, had advised his followers to attend today's session and create a disturbance.

Representative McCormack said no more hearings will be held in New York, but the committee will resume public hearings in Washington in December.

Bares Nazi Militarism.

Werner, who was jeered the moment he appeared in the witness chair, said the storm troop unit of 120 members to which he belonged held regular military drills in a Brooklyn hall.

Werner said 2,000 rounds of ammunition were ordered for target practice at a pro-Nazi camp in Boonetown, N. J.

At the morning session Kurt Georg Wilhelm Ludecke, who described himself as "an embittered former Nazi," admitted being an accredited political agent of the Nazi movement in the United States, Canada and Mexico for some months.

Alcatraz Guards Fire At Invaders in Boats

San Francisco, Oct. 17 (AP).—Twice in the last two weeks guards on Alcatraz Island, new Federal prison for incorrigibles, have fired on speedboats that cruised within the 300-yard deadline. This was disclosed today by Warden James A. Johnston, who added, "We mean business."

"The occupants might have been either persons attempting to communicate with prisoners, or they may have been some one trying to find out what would happen," he said.

Job With PWA Was Being Sought By Robinson, Sr.

T. H. Robinson, sr., of Nashville, Tenn., father of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll's accused kidnaper, was seeking an appointment with the Public Works Administration at the time of the Louisville socialite's abduction, it was learned here last night.

Robinson, sr., first designated in the ransom note to act as intermediary with the Stoll family, filed his application with PWA for "engineering inspector" and had political indorsements from prominent Tennesseeans, it was authoritatively reported. He has been a Nashville bridge contractor and engineer of standing.

Guessing Roosevelt Too Tough for Press

By Elliott Thurston.

Several times, including yesterday, Mr. Roosevelt has remonstrated mildly with the press for attempting to forecast what he will say in a forthcoming speech. This time it was speculation over his address next Wednesday to the American Bankers Association that drew a very gentle rebuke, sugared with the Rooseveltian smile.

Mr. Roosevelt remarked that he has not yet written the speech; that he has no idea what he is going to say; that if the forecasters predict that he is going to say this or that, they get themselves out on a limb; that the trouble with getting out on a limb is the tendency of the prophets to explain that his speech was a disappointment or that he changed his mind if he fails to say what the diviners predicted he would say. He reiterated that he hasn't the faintest idea what he will say, and that the speech may be nothing more than a greeting.

Penalty Illustrated.

Besides reflecting Mr. Roosevelt's insight into the craft (meaning profession) of the Washington correspondents, and his accustomed velvet touch in dealing with reporters who cover the White House—none of whom are bankers—the incident illustrates a penalty which Mr. Roosevelt more than any other President has to pay.

For it is part of the business of the White House correspondent to forecast as nearly as he can what a President is likely to say—or not to say. The difficulty of forecasting these days has reached an acuteness never dreamed of in the past. The Coolidge era was the apex of simplicity for the forecasters. Mr. Coolidge had a well-known and fixed philosophy of government. He was the antithesis of surprise.

Any newspaper correspondent who was patient or diligent enough to do a bit of research into the writings of Mr. Coolidge could hardly go wrong in guessing what Mr. Coolidge would be likely to say upon almost any given subject. One could not predict with precision, of course, but the broad outlines of a Coolidge speech could be forecast with a quite deadly accuracy.

Hoover Not So Easy.

Mr. Hoover was not so easy to guess because he presided over the era of collapse, and yet Mr. Hoover's general philosophy was so well understood that reasonably shrewd reporters could tell, fairly accurately in advance what a Hoover speech would not say, even if they could not be sure of exactly what it would say.

Both Mr. Coolidge and, to a greater degree, Mr. Hoover suffered from the inexactitude of the forecasting science as practiced by the Washington newspaper corps. However, Mr. Roosevelt has completely shattered the crystal.

No correspondent can peer into the glass of the past, let alone the future, and tell with assurance what Mr. Roosevelt is going to say. Doubtless the sane thing to do would be to conform to Mr. Roosevelt's smile-sweetened suggestion and abstain from prophecy.

This would be asking more of the customers of the press, than of the reporters. For at no time within memory of the living has there been so much public curiosity over what a President is going to do next—or is going to avoid doing next.

The phenomenon of perhaps countless, certainly uncounted, millions of Americans avidly listening to Mr. Roosevelt's "fireside talks" by radio is evidence enough of the unprecedented curiosity.

Some of the New Dealers like to think that this vast interest is in the nature of a tribute. Yet it is hard to belive that Mr. Roosevelt could compete with Eddie Cantor or Ed Wynn if he were not President. Mr. Roosevelt is a radio favorite because the country is agog to know what is coming next. For nearly a year it was breathless trying to keep up with new dispensations.

Curiosity—not to say wonder or anxiety—is not noticeably abated. With all its sins, the press can hardly be condemned for making the effort, however foolish or feeble, to guess what Mr. Roosevelt will say next. After all, if the guess is completely wrong it is the guesser who is made ludicrous. His alibi that the President disappointed expectations is too thin.

Much more might be said—not usefully, possibly—on this subject. For instance, there might be more guidance. Or there might be more continuation, or even consistency, in the New Deal. Most of the real trouble is that the seers are just about reduced to peering into tea leaves. If the result is grotesque it isn't altogether their fault.

NewSuper-Fuel Mystery Cargo

Armored Truck Coming From Miami Ship With Powerful Liquid.

Miami, Fla., Oct. 17 (U.P.).—The two-masted schooner Storm, carrying a cargo so valuable that an armored truck has been chartered to transport it to Washington, was anchored in the bay here tonight.

The waterfront heard rumors that the vessel guarded the secret of a new motor fuel which may revolutionize the motor industry, or may be only a fantastic experiment.

Aboard the Storm, Howard M. Bell said flights into the stratosphere are being considered as part of the experimental work.

The motor fuel, which will be taken to the Patent Office at Washington, according to reports, is expected to propel automobiles 300 miles per gallon and make possible a transcontinental airplane flight without refueling.

Production cost of the new fuel is said to be far below that of gasoline in proportion to the energy it provides.

Branch Denies Air Mail Firms On Blacklist

Calls Lindbergh 'in Error' Regarding Testimony to Commission.

Existence of a black list of air-mail operators was denied yesterday by Harllee Branch, Second Assistant Postmaster General.

He took issue with testimony on Tuesday of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh before the President's Aviation Commission that operators whose contracts were annulled last winter had not been given an opportunity to prove their innocence.

Branch declared Lindbergh was "in error" when he spoke of a black list and contended Congress at its last session made ineligible for mail contracts companies with officers or employes performing managerial duties who in the past entered into "any unlawful combination" to prevent making of bids.

"This prohibition of the law," Branch said, "is directed and applies to companies seeking air-mail contracts and is one of the conditions affecting their eligibility to hold such contracts.

"It has been and is now the policy of the Postoffice Department to hold hearings and take evidence to determine the status of any individual desired by a prospective air-mail contract bidder for an officer, a director or an employe with general managerial duties whose status the company may regard as uncertain or doubtful.

"Contrary to the impression held by Col. Lindbergh there is a procedure by which the status of individuals desired by companies to perform executive or general managerial duties may be determined."

Improvement Appearing In Mortgage Loan Field

Philadelphia, Oct. 17.—Evidence of improvement is appearing in the mortgage loan field, according to M. A. Linton, president of the Provident Mutual Life Insurance Co. of Philadelphia.

On mortgages held by the company, which are 6 per cent smaller than last year, the interest collections for nine months have exceeded by 2.8 per cent the figure for the corresponding period of last year, Mr. Linton states.

3,000 More Strike In Hungary Mines

Funfkirchen, Hungary, Oct. 17 (U.P.).—A new strike in the coal mines near here was started tonight by upwards of 3,000 miners.

The strike came on the heels of a "mass suicide" starvation strike of 1,200 miners in the Pecz properties, about 12 miles from Funkirchen. This group came to the surface yesterday, after agreeing to accept compromise terms offered by the employers.

The 3,000 miners who walked out today did not repeat the entombment process, although the hunger strikers of the first protest joined the movement. The miners expressed dissatisfaction with settlement of the earlier strike and demanded immediate restoration of an 8 per cent wage cut.

Military Order Renames Ijams

Smith, Bettelheim, Blair, McCallum Also Elected at Miami.

Miami, Fla., Oct. 17 (AP)—The Military Order of the World War closed its annual convention here today with election of a slate of officers headed by Lieut. Col. George E. Ijams, of Washington, D. C., who was renamed commander in chief.

Other officers selected were Capt. John Parker Hill, of Philadelphia, and Rear Admiral Reginald R. Belknap, of New York City, vice commanders in chief, and Lieut. Col. F. E. Drake, of Paris, France; Col. E. N. Wentworth, of Chicago; Lieut. Col. Pierpont L. Stackpole, of Boston, and Col Oscar E. Engler, of Omaha, as junior commanders in chief.

The position of judge advocate general went to Capt. John Lewis Smith, of Washington; treasurer general, to Lieut. Col. Edwin S. Bettelheim, jr., of Washington, D. C.; surgeon general, to Lieut. Col. William Jason Mixter, of Boston; chaplain general, to Capt. Arlington A. McCallum, of Washington, and historian general, to Maj. Gist Blair, of Washington.

The convention adopted a resolution opposing the proposed child labor amendment to the Federal Constitution on the ground that "child labor has been abolished under the NRA. thereby showing that no amendment to the Constitution is necessary."

Board Assails False Claims In Radio "Ads"

Trade Commission Asks Samples Be Submitted for Scrutiny.

(Associated Press.)

A second attack on false and misleading advertising in radio broadcasts was initiated last night by the Federal Trade Commission.

Stations in the Middle Atlantic zone were directed to file with the commission copies of the advertising matter to be sent over the air between November 15 and November 30. This will be scrutinized to ascertain if it contains anything improper.

Once before—for last July—the commission took similar action. Of the 180,877 continuities received, 161,466 were found subject to no criticism. The remaining 22,411 are still being studied to determine whether legal or other action is warranted.

While the Trade Commission was sending out its call, the Communications Commission heard William S. Paley, president of Columbia Broadcasting System, oppose proposals for Congress to allocate to educational, civic and religious organizations part of the Nation's broadcasting facilities.

Paley said the commercial stations are doing a much better job of disseminating this type of program, and reaching a far larger audience, than could the proposed new stations.

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 17 (AP).—F. A. Derby, of Topeka, Kans., was elected president of the Grain and Feed Dealers National Association at the closing session of the 1934 convention today, to succeed George E. Booth, Chicago.

Otto F. Bast, Minneapolis, was elected first vice president. W. J. Moore, Covington, Ind., was re-elected second vice president.

Wife Who Helped Slay Mate Freed Because of Cancer

Moundsville, W. Va., Oct. 17 (AP).—Near death from cancer, Mrs. Ida May Shaw, 35, serving a life term for the slaying of her husband, Arthur A. Shaw, was freed from the State Penintentiary today on a "mercy" pardon from Gov. Kump.

Warden C. F. McClintic said that in the last few weeks Mrs. Shaw has twice been saved from death by prison paychians.

Shaw, a railroad machinist, was shot to death in front of his home in June, 1933. Harley Lemmon, the actual slayer, is serving a life term and Eddie Crouch, a friend of Mrs. Shaw, is serving five years as an accomplice.

The State charged Mrs. Shaw participated in the death plot.

Wall St. Finds Cheerful Signs In Bank Trend

Encouragement Is Drawn From Leaders' Visits to White House.

New York, Oct. 17 (AP).—Bankers feel that they are emerging from their eclipse, and the banking community has taken on a distinctly brighter aspect because of it, it was asserted in authoritative circles tonight.

Conservative Wall street men have drawn encouragement from the visits of several prominent Wall street bankers to the White House in the recent past.

Although the bankers in question are reticent about their conversations with the President, the mere presence of bankers of this type in Washington's inner sanctums has been enough to produce a brighter feeling.

New York bankers who have visited the President recently include William C. Potter, chairman of the Guaranty Trust Co.; Jackson Reynolds, president of the First National Bank, and Russell Leffingwell, of J. P. Morgan & Co., in addition to Governor George L. Harrison of the New York Federal Reserve Bank.

It is generally understood these visits have been in line with the President's policy of consulting with leaders of industry and finance. Some observers feel that the seemingly rapproachement between Washington and Wall Street marks the end of the alleged "clamping down" attitude of the Administration toward the banking world.

While this viewpoint may contain some measure of wishful thinking, banking quarters find something more tangibly indicative of an attempt to revive banking leadership in the first meeting in Washington this week of the so-called system committee on legislative program formed by the Federal Reserve System last July.

The committee expects to make a detailed study of structural changes in the banking system, it was learned here, and to prepare proposals to lay before Congress next year. This new group is complemented by a similar committee of the American Bankers Association, now being formed, and another investigating body in the Treasury Department, under the lead of Dr. Jacob Viner.

Wall Street observers see in the work of these groups a concerted effort from within the banking system itself to seek for reforms and improvements of a drastic nature, and to assume responsibility and and leadership on its own account rather than wait for Congress to take legislative action.

'Sinclair Boom' Sends Wave Of Jobless to Sunkist State

Daily Influx About Half of Gold Rush in '49, Says Official.

Sacramento, Calif., Oct. 17 (AP). The influx of unemployed to California has reached a daily average of about 100 persons, or aproximately half the proportions of the famous gold rush of 1849, Russell Bevans, State registrar of motor vehicles, announced today.

Bevans attributed the growing migration to hopes of the newcomers that Upton Sinclair, Democratic nominee, will be elected Governor of California and inaugurate his "end poverty in California" plan.

"All base their hopes of relief on the election of Sinclair," Bevans said in a statement, adding that many told of being urged in other States to continue their journeys westward because "California has the best economic conditions."

Bevans' conclusions were based on a study of traffic flowing through two of the largest seven motor vehicle checking stations which dot the eastern and northern borders of California. The survey covered the first ten days of October.

In addition to counting arrivals at the stations of Fort Yuma and Dunsmuir, Bevans said clerks asked each person questions bearing upon whether he was employed, why he came, where he was from, his occupation and where he was going.

Bevans' figures showed an average of 88 unemployed men and women passed through the two stations daily, the greatest number of them coming from Oklahoma and Texas. His summary of answers to questions of why they came read:

"1. All base hopes of relief on election of Sinclair.

"2. Plenty for all if Sinclair is elected.

"3. Dunsmuir estimates 90 per cent are indigents.

"4 Coming to California because all have heard how easy it will be in California after first of 1935. Everybody will be taken care of, work or no work."

Clerks at the Dunsmuir station were quoted by Bevans as reporting incoming traffic during the last three months as being on a par with the heaviest of such movements in history.

Quake, Storms Hit California, Closing Schools

Long Beach Safety Tents Shut, Many Flee From Homes.

Los Angeles, Oct. 17 (AP).—A sharp earthquake and a heavy rain visited Southern California today.

The tent schools of Long Beach, temporary safety structures erected after the disastrous earth shocks of March 10, 1933, were closed for the day because of the storm.

Many streets in Los Angeles and surrounding towns were flooded. Slippery pavements caused many traffic accidents.

No loss of life was directly attributed to the earth shock or the storm.

Long Beach, where several scores lost their lives in the 1933 quake, was severely shaken again at 1:45 a. m. today. Virtually the entire city was awakened by the shock, which lasted only 2 seconds. Many citizens dashed into rain-lashed streets in their night clothes.

The quake also was felt at various communities south and west of Los Angeles, including Huntington Park, Lynwood, San Pedro, Inglewood, Redondo, El Segundo and Venice, where several windows were cracked.

Adult Project, School Survey Plan Approved

10-Year Construction Program Will Be Laid Out Here.

Plans for adult education in health and child care and for a survey to determine a ten-year school-building program were approved at yesterday's meeting of the Board of Education.

After a report of the buildings, grounds and equipment committee, made by Mrs. P. S. Smith, the board directed the Commissioners be informed that repair work had caused the closing of three schools for short periods.

The board expressed the belief the District Repair Shop should do all such work during vacations, or that the work should be let on private contract so schools would not have to close.

Although assured that no liquor would be sold at the Cotton Club, Tenth and U streets northwest, before 10:30 p. m., the board refused to alter its stand against granting of a license.

The adult education program, to be financed by FERA funds, will be along three lines: A course at Webster School for parent-teacher leaders and Board of Public Welfare case workers; informal discussion groups at the Webster School for parents and parent-teacher leaders, and a series of health talks by Dr. Evelyn Rider, FERA tacher.

The building plan survey also will be made with FERA funds to provide white-collar employment. Plans will be completed by Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools.

The board also authorized Dr. Ballou to permit the United States Public Health Service to continue study of health conditions of local school children.

School enrollment as of October 11 was 3,905 more than at the same date last year, Dr. Ballou reported. He also reported an increase of 1,972 in night school enrollment over last year.

The Delaware-Olmsted Co., of Wilmington, indirectly holding large investments in the Empire Power Corporation and the Long Island Lighting Co., was assessed $1,464,877 for 1930.

Fisher Penalties.

Fisher & Co. was assessed $13,076,319 for 1930 and $4,121,478 for 1929, most of these amounts consisting of 50 per cent penalties.

The Government charges the company sold 617,150 shares of General Motors stock in 1930 at a profit of $24,253,462. The company, through its counsel, Newton D. Baker, has asserted it sold only 479,650 shares, with a profit of $9,125,725.

The Treasury has emphasized its program is not intended to embarrass business corporations who wish to lay by funds against actual future needs or contingencies.

Instead, officials said, it is part of a gradual attempt to tighten up the application of revenue laws which has been given especial impetus by emergency needs created by the depression.

Abolish Profit, Dewey Exhorts

People's Lobby Announces Its Newly Adopted Program.

A balance between consumption and production can be struck by eliminating profit, Prof. John Dewey said last night, announcing the newly adopted program of the People's Lobby.

A Nation-wide campaign for members is being launched, he said, and bills will be introduced in Congress to carry out the program's four points, which are:

"Increased taxation of the rich, socialization of ground rent, and reduction of interest rates as steps toward the elimination of profit.

"Government marketing and Government housing corporations.

Tropical Plant Cures Burns, Leaves No Scar

Baltimore, Oct. 17 (U.P.). — The jelly-like content of the leaves of the tropical plant "aloe vera" has been used successfully in curing severe burns without leaving a scar, it was announced here today. Dr. Creston L. Collins, of Crisfield, Md., told the Roentgen Ray division of the medical and chirurgical of Maryland University that he had experimented successfully with the treatment and predicted his discovery might revolutionize the treatment of X-ray burns.

The "aloe vera" plant grows wild but sparsely in southern Florida where the Seminole Indians have used the content of its leaves for treatment of burns for years.

Federal agents said he sent a note threatening Hoagland and his recently married daughter with death unless the money was left in a driveway to an abandoned factory near his home. The note was turned over to the Department of Justice.

Mirabai Pays Gandhi Homag On Visit Here

Disciple Calls Mahatma 'Phophet of World'; She Flies to City.

line Slade, daughter of the British admiral, Sir Edwin Slade, read Romain Rolland's book, "Mahatma Gandhi."

"I saw the truth shining through the pages of that book," she said. "I became a convert at once. I began to understand many things. I sought out Gandhi. His beliefs and teachings became my faith, my life. I believe, as do the 350,000,000 members of the sect in India, that Gandhi is a world prophet."

She speaks with deep sincerity, this tanned, black-eyed Englishwoman who renounced the comforts of her London home and the pleasures of civilization to sit at the feet of her teacher in the tropic heat of India. She is 42 years old, and a woman whose wide education stamps her speech with the conviction of authoritative knowledge.

Reveals Present Situation.

"The campaign of 'civil disobedience,' of course, is off at the present time," she said. "Much depends on the outcome of certain negotiations with the British Viceroy of India, Lord Willingdon. However, India's complete independence, which we seek, will come in time."

The millions controlled by Gandhi do not want the English driven from India, she explained.

"We desire only that the English and the Indians work together as partners in the service and molding of a free India," she said.

Her face shone with pleasure when she was greeted at the hotel by Maj. Kanwar Shamshir, Bahadur Singh of Dehera Dun, the United Provinces of India, with whom she conversed in a native dialect.

Extols Gandhi's Sincerity.

Before she hurried to address a group at Howard University on Gandhi's spiritual message to this country, she paused a moment to describe the gentle, 66-year-old little man whom the world watches.

"You may say he is the personification of nonviolence," she smiled, "a nonviolence not simply of the body, in refraining from striking back, but a nonviolence of the mind that proves his sincerity in his announced purpose to try to make the world more moderate, more temperate."

Another Englishwoman, also a friend of Gandhi, Muriel Lester, of London's East End, pacifist, advocate of voluntary poverty and author, arrived in Washington yesterday for two talks on the working class philosophy of world brotherhood.

Miss Lester is the founder of Kingsley Hall, London's social service center, where Gandhi stayed while in London in 1931 attending the British Round-Table Conference. A Socialist who bases her beliefs on 25 years of experience in London slums, she states her doctrine as, "We have no need of superfluities while others lack necessities."

Miss Lester addressed the Women's Guild of the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church yesterday and will speak before the National Council for Prevention of War tonight, before leaving for another speaking engagement in Rochester, N. Y.

Hoover Assails 'Sob Sisters' Who Would Spare Kidnapers

Demands Death Penalty for 'Most Dastardly' of Crimes.

Swift justice, such as has characterized the work of the Justice Department since the passage of the Lindbergh law, is the greatest deterrent to kidnaping, despite recent prevalence of the crime, in the opinion of J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Bureau of Investigation.

"Certain and speedy apprehension, a quick trial and severe penalties will do more to minimize the crime of kidnaping than anything else," he said yesterday.

"Kidnaping is the most dastardly of crimes and should be punishable by the most severe penalty—death. I have no patience with the sob sisters who oppose capital punishment for such criminals.

"All criminals are afraid of death as of nothing else, our experience has shown. And most of them are rats. I use 'rats' rather than dogs because I have a great respect for the courage of dogs."

Discusses Cause and Cure.

Hoover sat in his handsomely appointed office in the new Justice Department Building and discussed informally the cause and possible cure of kidnaping.

Meanwhile, his agents had spread a dragnet which Hoover confidently predicted would ensnare Thomas H. Robinson, jr., suspected kidnaper of the beautiful Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll in Louisville.

The solution of this case and the return of Mrs. Stoll, effected within less than a week, set a new high mark for the Justice Department, already credited with solution of 32 out of 33 kidnaping cases and the apprehension of the kidnapers in all but three of the cases.

There are two general classes of kidnapers in the files of the Justice Department. One is the gangster and his mob, who may kidnap each other or go after a wealthy individual, purely as a professional, while the other is the lone wolf, usually a man of paraonic tendencies, who thinks he can outwit all organized law enforcement.

The Super-Egoists.

Several of the most sensational kidnapings since the passage of the Lindbergh law have been perpetrated by individuals of the super-egoist type, such as young Robinson.

This type of kidnaper is the most difficult for Justice agents to deal with because of his abnormal reactions to circumstances. Whereas Hoover's men can predict fairly accurately what an ordinary gangster may do after an abduction, they are far less confident when dealing with such a man as Robinson.

"Of course, kidnaping has been practiced since biblical times and before," Hoover said, "so we aren't expecting a millenium with no kidnapings."

Despite the concentration of the Justice Department on kidnaping cases within recent months, it has no special detail designed to kidnaping cases.

A summary of the Justice Department's work in 31 of the 33 kidnaping cases, the other 2 cases being open, follows:

Seventy-four persons have been convicted, receiving sentences of 1,186 years, 11 months and 2 days.

Sixteen were given life sentences, 2 death sentences, while the others got 30 years of suspended sentences and 20 years of probationary terms.

Of the individuals participating in the kidnapings, 2 were lynched, 3 committed suicide and 2 were murdered; 15 are in custody awaiting trial.

The only case as yet unsolved, but on which some announcement is expected shortly, is that of the abduction of 6-year-old June Robles, who disappeared from her Tucson, Ariz., home April 25 and was later found in a desert pit.

Hauptmann's Alibi Sustained By 2 Witnesses

Say He Was in N. Y. Day of Kidnaping; Appeal on Extradition Filed.

New York, Oct. 17 (AP).—The Daily News says tonight that a boss carpenter and an employment agent have definitely placed Bruno Richard Hauptmann in New York City from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. on March 1, 1932, the date of the Lindbergh baby's kidnaping.

The first-born son of the famous flier was abducted that night from the Lindbergh home at Hopewell, N. J.

E. V. C. Pescia, head of an employment agency, told the News that he sent Hauptmann on February 27, 1932, to the Majestic Apartments (West Seventy-second street, New York) where a carpenter was wanted.

Joseph M. Furcht, construction superintendent at the apartment hotel, was quoted by the newspaper as saying that Hauptmann reported to him on that date and was hired to begin work the following morning, Tuesday, March 1.

Puts Hauptmann on Job.

Testifying on his own behalf in the hearing on his habeas corpus writ against extradition to New Jersey, Hauptmann said he either had worked at the Majestic Apartments on the day of the abduction, or that he had waited at an employment agency to get a job. He was not certain of his whereabouts.

Both Furcht's records and those at the agency, the News said, showed Hauptmann had worked at the apartment building until 5 p. m., at least three hours before the abduction.

Hauptmann carried to the appellate court today his fight to avoid extradition to New Jersey for trial on the charge of murdering the Lindbergh baby.

Further Delay Looms.

With New Jersey seeking a swift denouement of the Nation's most sensational kidnap-killing, further factors of delay loomed with a declaration of Defense Attorney James M. Fawcett.

"It is very likely that if we are unsuccessful in preventing extradition by this effort," he said, "we will carry our case further to the court of appeals at Albany.

"If unsuccessful there, it is further likely we will go to the United States Supreme Court."

On Fawcett's petition, presiding Justice Edward R. Finch of the Appellate Division set 2 p. m. Friday for a hearing on the appeal.

To speed a final decision in the case, the usual rules relating to notification of the prosecution were set aside.

Will Review Evidence.

The Appellate Division will review the evidence presented at the hearing before Supreme Court Justice Ernest Hammer and will pass on Hammer's decision terminating a writ of habeas corpus, thus allowing New Jersey to extradite Hauptmann.

Justice Hammer, after deciding that Hauptmann had not presented sufficient evidence to support his claim he was not in New Jersey the night of the kidnaping—March 1, 1932—granted a stay of extradition until the appeal was taken.

Meanwhile, Hauptman remained in the Bronx County Jail.

New Jersey officials hoped for a trial within three or four weeks, but the date was problematical.

New Community Glee Club.

Organization of a community glee club will be completed at a meeting tonight in the Hyattsville First Baptist Church. All residents of Hyattsville and vicinity, particularly the younger group, are invited. Mrs. Ethel Manning will be director. Claude N. Davis is chairman of the organization committee.

P. E. Budget Set At $2,315,000

Church Settles Principal Issue at Convention in Atlantic City.

Atlantic City, Oct. 17 (AP).—The outstanding problem before the fifty-first triennial general convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church was solved today with adoption of a budget of $2,315,000 for 1935.

Both the House of Bishops and the House of Deputies—the bishops unanimously, the deputies by viva voce—voted to accept the financial schedule offered by the committee on budget and program, after a minimum of debate.

The National Council, which administers the church's affairs between conventions, specifically was instructed not "under any circumstances to incur debt should revenues fail to meet expectations."

W. C. T. U. Head Asks For Total Abstinence

Total abstinence by individuals and a law prohibiting the sale of liquor are two things most needed today, Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith, of Evanston, Ill., national president of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, declared yesterday at the officers' meeting of the District union.

The meeting was held at the local headquarters, 522 Sixth street northwest.

U. S. Demands Death Penalty For Kidnaper

Abductor of Mrs. Stoll Still at Large; Wife Held in $50,000.

of anything that might hamper his flight. She kept this pledge, her husband said today.

It was expected her next move would be tell the Department of Justice men eveything she could that would lead them on the right trail for the former asylum inmate.

"I don't want her to talk until she goes on the stand," Harold Nathan, head of the Government investigators, said today. "We want her testimony a surprise for the defense."

Press Hunt for Robinson.

Sparks told the commissioner he had no authority now to provide an attorney for the accused woman. That would be arranged later, he said. Commissioner Dailey approved the heavy bond. Mrs. Robinson, who had spent part of last night in a hospital, was sent to jail. She had no way of making the bond.

The hunt for Robinson was pressed.

In Toledo, Detective John Mullen announced that a man answering the description of Robinson, bought a ticket for Cincinnati, Ohio, early tonight.

Mullen said Lima police searched the train when it reached that point, but were unable to find anyone answering Robinson's description.

Mullen said the suspect may have bought a ticket for Cincinnati to throw police off the trail and then boarded a train for another point.

In Indianapolis, Melvin H. Purvis, chief of the Chicago office of the Bureau of of the Investigation of the Department of Justice, and a group of agents checking various clews.

The small furnished apartment in which Robinson is alleged to have held Mrs. Stoll a prisoner for six days was located here this morning. He had rented it under the name of Thomas W. Kennedy, one of his alleged aliases.

It is located on the main road between Louisville and Indianapolis. Only two blocks away is the Governor's mansion.

While the hunt for Robinson grew into a Nation-wide one, there was an investigation in Chicago of a mysterious telephone call, a special delivery letter and the slaying of a woman. A call from Louisville was traced to the flat of Albert Annan, 49, at 8 o'clock last night, prior to announcement of Mrs. Stoll's release. Police traced it to Miss Ruth Annan, of Louisville. A policeman who took the call quoted her as saying:

"This is Al's sister. When he comes in will you tell him I called and tell him Mrs. Stoll has been found? You'll be sure now you won't forget."

In the flat where Mrs. Griffin's nude and beaten body was found was a special delivery letter. It was postmarked Louisville, October 13, and purported to come from Miss Annan. Its message was: "Dear Al: Your letter arrived today. Mrs. Stoll hasn't been found yet."

Lieut. William Reed, of the Gresham police, said Annan denied any knowledge of the Stoll kidnaping, but said he was interested in the case because he once knew of the family. Reed said there might be some connection betwen the death of Mrs. Griffin, the telephone call and the letter, with the abduction. Reed said Annan had confessed beating Mrs. Griffin before police found her body.

Mr. Clarke served as secretary of the Home Savings Bank from the time of its founding until it merged with the American Security & Trust Co. in 1919 and then became a member of the latter's advisory board.

Born in Washington, Mr. Clarke was educated at Gonzaga School and completed his scholastic studies at Georgetown University. He was a member of the Association of Oldest Inhabitants.

Ruling Blocks Census "Grab" Of Democrats

Civil Service Regulation Will Be Invoked on 1,800 Jobs Here.

Service files for their Washington employes.

"They are not going to get any of these jobs here in town," the census director told The Post. "It not only is in the law that such appointments remain Civil Service, but the President's order clinches the thing."

There may be even a hitch or two so far as the 25,000 patronage appointments in the field are concerned, it also was learned. Although members of Congress will be consulted on field employes, three definite "conditions" are being laid down to Democratic patronage seekers.

The Administration doesn't want to hand Republican Congressional candidates any more campaign ammunition than it can help, so a clear course is being steered away from "vote-buying" charges.

"I do not intend to have this mixed up in the election in any way," Austin insisted. "And for that reason I am not making any appointments before November 15."

On the other hand, Republican critics are charging the mere prospect of jobs to be distributed is bound to influence election voting.

1,800 Will Compile Data.

The 1,800 or so Washington appointments to be made compares with about 7,000 employed here during the general census of 1930. This staff will be put to work compiling and analyzing data collected in the field by enumerators, and will not get actively under way until several weeks after the January 1 census—probably not before February or March.

Austin interprets the President's order to mean that former employes of the Census Bureau who passed a Civil Service examination with an average of 80 per cent or better must be given preference in appointments to the Washington staff.

Merit System in Peril, U. S. Employes Warned

Luther C. Steward, president, National Federation of Federal Employes, last night warned Washington Federal employes "it would be impossible to place too much emphasis on the danger that confronts the Federal personnel at this time," when concerted attacks are being projected against the merit system.

Speaking to the annual meeting of the District of Columbia Federation of Federal Employes, of the NFFE, Mr. Steward declared: "If those who now preach and practice the placing of the Federal service on a political basis have their own way, our very institutions upon which this country has built are jeopardized, if not in grave danger of being destroyed:

'If the present menacing movement is not checked the Federal service is destined to sink to a parity with the worst governed municipality in the United States, and that is pretty low."

24-Hour Justice Deals 10 Years To Ford Plotter

Youth, 20, Tried to Extort $5,000 From Son of Magnate.

Detroit, Oct. 17 (AP).—A youth of 20, who admitted in Federal Court he had written Edsel B. Ford that "you are on the spot, and if you want to live it will cost you $5,000," was indicted, arraigned, pleaded guilty and sentenced to 10 years in the Federal Penitentiary at Leavenworth in one of the speediest cases in United States District Court records here today.

Arrested Last Night.

The youth, Edward Lickwala, was arrested last night, but the fact was kept secret until this morning, when William Larson, chief of the Department of Justice Investigation Bureau here, announced he had confessed after his handwriting had been found to correspond with that in the extortion note.

The sentence imposed by Federal Judge Edward J. Moinet was under the recently amended "Lindbergh law," and was just one-half the maximum provided by that statute.

Although Lickwala told Larson "I never meant to kill him; I just wanted to scare him; he's got lots of money, and I wanted some of it," he received his sentence in Federal court with an air of braggadocio. He boasted to the court of previous offenses, mainly charges of tampering with automobiles, and when sentence was passed he turned to the audience in the courtroom with a smirk. He was to be taken to the Federal detention farm at Milan, Mich., tonight to await transfer to Leavenworth.

Note Sent October 8.

The letter addressed to Ford was written on October 8 and demanded that $5,000 "in $5 and $10 bills" be placed on the porch of a house in Medbury avenue, on Detroit's East Side, about 10 miles from the Edsel Ford home. Ford turned the letter over to the Department of Justice despite the threat "if you let police know you will be killed."

Federal agents placed a dummy package at the designated spot, but it was not called for, and last night, Larson said, Lickwala approached one of his agents saying he had information which might help them. He was immediately arrested and confessed. Larson said, when his handwriting was shown to correspond with that in the letter.

Fatal Auto Injuries Declared Accidental

Walling's death was the seventh traffic fatality this month.

Charts Tracing Insull's Stocks Shown to Jury

Each Defendant's Place in Maze of Corporations Diagrammed.

Chicago, Oct. 17 (AP).—The Government sought by charts, diagrams and expert testimony today to put the mass of figures already introduced in the mail fraud trial of Samuel Insull and 16 codefendants into an equation which would return an answer of "guilty."

While Carl A. Herring, a Government accountant, occupied the stand, two huge charts were placed on an easel before the jury.

One traced the formation of the Corporation Securities Co. of Chicago and the transfers of money and stock which brought about its organization.

"Interlocking" Stricken.

Through the second chart the Government sought to classify each defendant's place in the maze of Insull corporations.

On the 3-by-7-foot board were 15 squares, 13 of them labeled for the various Insull companies, one for Halsey, Stuart & Co., and 1 for the Insull Family Trust.

Starting with Samuel Insull, sr., Herring pointed out to the jury the position each defendant held in the set-up of each organization.

The introduction of a smaller chart, from which the larger one was made and which was presented first, brought an objection from Floyd E. Thompson, chief of the defense counsel.

"Let me see the chart," said Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson.

He glanced at it and ruled:

"Let the word be stricken."

The caption of the chart was "interlocking officers and directors." The objectionable word "interlocking" was removed and the larger chart, as yet unveiled, was sent out for repairs. It was brought back with the upper left-hand corner removed.

Figures Barred.

"I will show that the offices were interlocking," shouted Leslie E. Salter, special Government prosecutor. Defense attorneys cried that he had violated the spirit of the ruling by disclosing the banned word.

Testimony by Herring that securities for which the Insull family had paid something over $5,000,000 were entered on the books of Insull Utilities Investments, Inc., at a value of $14,264,442, was barred by Judge Wilkerson when the defense objected that the figures were not properly authenticated.

Herring testified that at no time did the book value of the securities of the five major Insull companies held by the Corporation Securities Co. exceed 62.3 per cent of the total holdings of the company. The Government charges that in selling stock in corporation securities the organizers claimed that 90 per cent of its holdings were in the five major concerns.

Dr. Wirt Sued For $400,000

Miss Schneiderman Says 'Brain Trust's' Foe Libeled Her.

Dr. William A. Wirt, the middle-aged Gary, Ind., educator, whose charges that the "Brain Trust" was seeking to overthrow the Government startled the Nation in March of this year, now is being sued for $400,000 libel damages by Miss Rose Schneiderman, president of the Women's Trade Union League and member of the NRA Advisory Board.

Miss Schneiderman's suit, filed in a Bronx court two months ago, was transferred yesterday to the Federal court in New York City.

Dr. Wirt, in a speech made in Chicago on May 5 before the Advertising Men's Post of the American Legion, called Miss Schneiderman "The Rose of Anarchy," according to the plaintiff.

Dr. Wirt, according to Associated Press dispatches, denies that he called Miss Schneiderman the term except indirectly, in that he stated that radicals present at the famous dinner at the Virginia home of Miss Alice Barrows on September 1, 1933, applied that name to the feminine trade-unionist.

"I can't imagine why she's suing me," said Dr. Wirt. "I'm not worth anything, not to say the sum of $400,000."

Cowardly And Inept.

The decent people of this country will unanimously repudiate all "tea parties" of the type reported yesterday from Minneapolis.

Acting secretly and at night, as is the custom with cowards, a group there broke into a "Workers Book Store," stealing and destroying several hundred dollars worth of radical literature, and not hesitating to pilfer a small amount of cash. A sign was left reading: "Modern Boston Tea Party—No Communists Wanted in Minneapolis."

The ineptitude of the analogy is shown by the fact that the Constitution, emanating from the Revolution which the Boston Tea Party helped to inaugurate, is supposed to safeguard the people of the United States from just such outrages as this. The stupidity of the action is demonstrated by the countless precedents of failure in attempts to stamp out unwelcome doctrines by destroying the printed word. Its viciousness lies in the evidence of belief that some constructive purpose can be served by the forcible suppression of an idea.

Those who favor communism should welcome "tea parties" like this. They are so prone to strengthen the revolutionary cause that one might almost suspect the Communists of Minneapolis of framing the incident in order to reap the advantages which always accrue to martyrdom.

Subsidized Cooperatives.

Believing that milk prices are far too high in the District of Columbia, the Consumers' Council of Washington is considering plans for a farmer-consumer cooperative which would have the double objective of reducing milk prices to consumers and assuring better returns to producers. The president of the Consumers' Council is quoted as suggesting that an ideal basis for such a cooperative would be provided by a municipal pasteurizing plant, built with FERA funds.

As a matter of fact, such a plan would provide the worst possible basis upon which to develop a cooperative marketing enterprise affording a fair test of the claims of its sponsors.

A sound, healthy cooperative organization can not be built upon Federal subsidies or other public grants. If the proposed milk cooperative had to depend upon FERA funds, for example, it would merely be taking money from the taxpayers of the country at large in order to confer unjustifiable benefits upon local milk consumers. Furthermore, it would rightly be regarded as an unfair competitor of existing distributive agencies, unable to drain their expenses from the public till.

Cooperatives can perform highly useful services both to their members and to the public if they are efficiently organized, with a view to eliminating wasteful outlays and avoiding payment of excessive profits to middlemen. They must, however, justify their existence by proving that they are capable of standing on their own feet. Otherwise alleged benefits are merely secured at the expense of the public. A cooperative organization which intimates that it needs subsidies to cut current prices is doing rather less than nothing to demonstrate that the protested prices are unreasonable.

Profits And Wages.

In accordance with an Executive order, the Federal Trade Commission has undertaken to determine the labor costs, profits and investments of about 4,000 textile mills. The findings are to be made the basis for deciding whether the industries in question can support further wage increases. The commission will doubtless be able to show the range of profits within the textile industries and to throw much needed light upon the probable effect of wage increases upon the net profits of the establishments concerned. However, when this preliminary work is completed, other problems will arise, by no means easy of solution.

For example, competing industrial establishments paying the same rate of wages may report losses, moderate profits or high profits. The wage increases that would mean ruin for one mill may be borne without difficulty by another establishment. The present-day tendency to speak vaguely of what an "industry" can afford to pay instead of considering the situation of the individual units that constitute the industry leads to much loose talk and unsound theorizing.

When wages are determined by free bargaining, they may and often do exceed what individual concerns can afford to pay. The result is constant elimination of marginal establishments that can not meet going market rates. When outside agencies intervene to decide what an industry can afford to pay its labor, it becomes necessary to establish more or less arbitrarily a dividing line between concerns that show a capacity to survive and those that appear to be permanently below the margin of profitable utilization. Otherwise, the wages that the least efficient employers could pay would become the test of what the industry as a whole could be asked to pay.

The necessity of exercising judgment in cases of this sort imposes a serious responsibility upon those entrusted with the task of determining whether an industry is in a position to stand a blanket wage increase. A knowledge of the facts does not supply a final answer to the question.

How About The Air Mail?

Col. Lindbergh calls attention to the fact that many prominent leaders in the aviation industry remain under proscription by the Postoffice Department, and that no effort is being made to convict them or clear their names from this "blacklist." These men, he said, "don't know what their status is." They have been condemned without trial, apparently without recourse.

Nearly eight months have passed since Postmaster General Farley dramatically canceled all the air-mail contracts held by domestic aviation companies. The basis of his action was alleged fraud and collusion in the distribution of air-mail subsidies. No such charges have ever been proved. In fact, no effort has been made to prove them. Apparently conscious of a blunder on his part, the Postmaster General has let the whole matter drop. With intolerable disregard for either equity or justice, he has left on the "blacklist," as Col. Lindbergh says, some of aviation's ablest leaders.

If the air mail upset of last winter was based upon valid charges former Postmaster General Brown and the operators who met in conference here at his invitation are guilty of a serious crime against the Government. Why have there been no indictments against them?

It does not seem possible that the politically-minded Postmaster General would forego such an opportunity to prosecute an official of the Hoover regime, if he had a case worthy of presentation to the courts. Of course, Mr. Farley might excuse this laxity on the ground that his numerous vote-catching tours as chairman of the Democratic National Committee have interfered with his duties as Postmaster General. But that does not appear to be the actual reason for this resort to the medieval practice of condemning individuals without trial.

Col. Lindbergh's request is so simple and direct that it can be neither misunderstood nor lightly brushed aside. "The charges should be brought," he told the President's Aviation Commission, "and carried through to the proper courts. If not, they (the blacklisted aviation executives) should be cleared." His appeal is merely for justice as any American schoolboy understands it.

By failing to prosecute those who have been publicly condemned, and in some cases punished, on the mere suspicion that they conspired to defraud the Government, Mr. Farley has put the Administration in a most embarrassing position. The longer prosecution is delayed, the stronger will be the feeling that there is no basis for prosecution, and the more embarrassing the position of the Administration will be.

Strange Advice To Debtors.

We are certainly living in a strange and topsy-turvy world, when lenders begin to urge borrowers not to pay their debts. Yet that appears to be the desire of Chairman Jones, of the RFC, who is trying to discourage too rapid repayment of loans made by that Federal agency.

Hoping to check this unwelcome development, offers are being made to extend advances for a period of five years, and regional loan agencies of the RFC have received instructions to show leniency to borrowers. "Forced liquidation," Mr. Jones says, "is not in the interest of recovery"—a remark which implies that RFC borrowers have repaid their debts by sacrificing opportunities to expand their business operations.

In view of the abundance of unused credit resources awaiting profitable employment, and considering the limited response to Government offers of direct loans to industry, it seems highly unlikely that sound loans needed by borrowers are being repaid in unduly large amounts. Undoubtedly financial institutions and railroads are eager to reduce the volume of RFC indebtedness as rapidly as possible when it is large enough to give the Government substantial influence in management. Liquidation speeded for such reasons, however, will not be halted in response to pleas. In other cases, sound business sense dictates repayment of interest-bearing debts that are not producing profits over and above interest charges.

The RFC can not keep borrowed money in use merely by urging debtors not to repay. Borrowed funds will be retained if they can be profitably utilized at the present time, but they will not be held indefinitely on the chance that a later business improvement will ultimately justify their employment. Credit, like money, circulates in response to demands for goods and services, and will expand naturally if and when recovery proceeds.

Strength In Unity.

Confederation of the citizens' associations in Southeastern Washington, which was effected at a meeting Tuesday night, is in line with the awakened community spirit of that section. Too often the influence of small groups is dissipated in petty differences or failure to agree upon a central program. The Joint Conference of Southeast Citizens Associations, representing six civic groups, will be able to speak authoritatively for this part of the city and with far more influence than the separate units could hope to command.

The disfranchised inhabitants of Washington are especially dependent upon citizens' associations to make public opinion articulate. Nowhere in the country have groups of this sort such an opportunity for constructive leadership. And within the city no associations have a more important task of this kind than those representing the Southeast. It is generally recognized that this section has been neglected and that various improvements there are now imperative. By unifying their own efforts citizen groups will be able not merely to work more effectively for the necessary appropriations, but also to crystallize opinion as to the type of schools, bridges, parks, etc., to be recommended.

Citizens in other parts of the city where a plethora of small associations are now functioning might well consider the example set in this matter by the Southeast.

A Happy Precedent.

Appointment of John Ihlder as executive officer of the Alley Clearance Authority, and of James Ring as his administrative assistant, gives the District's low-cost housing project an auspicious beginning. The various agencies interested in this undertaking had already been coordinated, through appointments to the authority board. Washington's most important campaign against unhealthful, squalid and demoralizing living quarters can now go forward with full cooperation of all interested groups and with assurance that the work is in competent hands.

Mr. Ihlder has undertaken a formidable responsibility. He was chosen for this post as an acknowledged expert in low-cost housing and the elimination of slums. Enthusiasm which he has already manifested through investigations and drafting of legislation must now be translated into action. His work will require tact, executive ability, a capacity for organization and indefatigable energy, as well as technical knowledge. From both the social and economic viewpoints his will be one of the most important positions in the District government.

Of no less importance than the actual selection of local experts to carry on this work is the attitude of the Alley Clearance Authority thus manifested in its first major decision. The board has demonstrated that it takes its work seriously. It has asserted complete independence from the influence of patronage hunters. It has kept the slum-clearance enterprise on the basis of a community enterprise that should enlist the cooperation of all local residents. These appointments constitute an excellent precedent for the District Commissioners as well as the Alley Authority to follow.

On The Hopeful Side.

The happy outcome of the Stoll kidnaping outrage will lighten but not entirely relieve the feeling of depression which seizes the entire Nation whenever one of these hideous assaults upon life and liberty occurs. In this particular case, the danger to the victim was doubtless heightened by the fact that the criminal is mentally unbalanced. The public, however, is glad to learn that it was apparently a somewhat haphazard outrage rather than a systematically planned abduction.

Crimes of violence taking many different forms will always occur, and with kidnaping plots engrossing public attention, it is not surprising to find unbalanced individuals moved by a desire to emulate other kidnapers. Neither local police nor Federal agents, however efficient, can guarantee immunity from this kind of isolated attack. But it should be possible to suppress the racketeering aspect of the crime by ruthless pursuit, followed by speedy trials and maximum penalties.

The Stoll case also directs attention to numerous instances in which persons suspected to be of unsound mind, often former inmates of insane asylums, are permitted to roam at large. Their presence is only too often made known by murderous attacks and assaults that strongly indicate laxity in our methods of dealing with the insane. The ease with which the kidnaper eluded capture also calls for an explanation, although the police were no doubt handicapped in their search by a desire to assure the safe return of Mrs. Stoll.

There is no need to feel discouraged, therefore, because kidnaping has not yet been entirely suppressed. An aroused public opinion can be counted upon to reinforce the efforts of the authorities to make it more and more evident to potential criminals that the racket does not pay. When the underworld realizes that fact the social menace of organized kidnaping will be terminated.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY.

A GERMAN DASH toward Calais brought on big battle in Belgium; both sides suffered severely, rushed new troops into the field; England avenged the cruiser Hawke and sank four destroyers of the enemy.

NO BRITISH FLAGS were lost in the war because none were permitted to go into battle. The Germans deeply resented Lord Wolseley's orders that all flags were to be left at home because that command prevented the capture of the flags by the enemy.

Making Law A Farce.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Last evening the members of the public speaking class of the Central High night school were surprised to find a new teacher in charge of the class. It was explained that the change was made because the former teacher's husband was holding a position with the Federal Government and his wife was therefore barred from accepting a position on the Federal pay roll. The new teacher of the class is at present a teacher in the day schools of this city. Apparently it is considered all right to allow one person to receive two salaries but wrong for two persons in one family to receive one salary each.

It would appear that in this instance the letter of the law is observed while the spirit is ignored. To my notion the law or ruling is absolutely just, but it is extremely unjust to make a farce of it. Can it be possible that those who have charge of the employing of teachers for the night courses are opposed to the ruling and are taking this method to make it appear ridiculous?

The whole affair would be amusing were it not for the tragic side of the situation. There are hundreds of men and women, tramping the streets of this city, trying to eke out a bare existence. Many of them are capable, and if given an opportunity could qualify for the position mentioned.

This is in no sense a criticism of either of the teachers the class has had. Both are undoubtedly capable and sincere. But isn't it altogether likely the New Deal could be more helpful if some of those in authority would give rulings of this kind a "Square Deal?" CURIOUS.

But He Can't Spell 'Omitted!'

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Renewing my plaint that no one connected with the editing, production and publication of a newspaper ever knows anything about figures above the amount of his weekly stipend, The Post, on October 11, carried the Associated Press condensation of the condition of crops of October 1. As the figures appear in The Post, stocks of grain on farms October 1 are given as follows: "Corn (old crop), 264,873 bushels, compared with 316,108,000 bushels a year ago; wheat, 234,284 bushels, compared with 309,651,000 bushels a year ago." Three ciphers were evidently ommitted from both the current corn estimate and the current wheat estimate.

I think it is only just to permit the establishment of an alibi. Reading, writing, spelling and arithmetic are in no sense adequately taught in the grade schools. Probably 50 per cent of the time of the pupils in the lower grades is taken up with trivial fads and fancies. Reading aloud, either singularly or in unison, seems to have disappeared. Spelling and syllabication are lost arts. Arithmetic is relegated to the clay tablet period of existence. I doubt if one-half the children prior to reaching the eighth grade can name the capitals of the States, the boundaries and relative locations of the States, or the general courses of the principal rivers. The country is expending some six billion dollars a year, of which at least two billions is wasted on superficial education.

Cheers for the Wanderbirds.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I wish to express my gratitude for the Sunday hikes sponsored by The Washington Post under the excellent, commendable and truly capable supervision of Mr. Robert Shosteck.

Ever since the Wanderbirds' inception I have wanted to join the group on their Sunday hikes, but had not found it possible until about three weeks ago, and now I shall not let anything but the severest weather interfere with my taking advantage of such healthful exercise with congenial, lively and appreciative folk.

Balanced Diet for Bookworms

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In sympathy with your editorial of October 15 on "The Library Program," the idea presents itself that the amount of fiction purchased by a public library should be limited, in relation to solid reading, so as to provide a properly balanced diet for bookworms. In this connection, it is pleasing to note that, according to the report of the board of library trustees, the percentage of fiction called for has steadily declined until it now represents only 49 per cent of the total.

If the power were mine, I would limit the fiction expenditure to books which have survived the winnowing process of a term of years. The market is well stocked with cheap editions of all kinds of fiction. The newspapers furnish it in sufficient quantity from day to day. In fact, such a thing as a surfeit of fiction is possible. And, at least for the present, if not permanently, the supply of the fiction fans should be cut off for the benefit of the thousands of men and women who, as The Post says, are now going to the library for technical volumes, study books, and discussions of public affairs.

Christianity Is Liberty.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am opposed to Socialism, although I fully agree with the Socialists in their condemnation of all the terrible evils, crimes and excesses of the capitalistic system. But I do heartily condemn the Socialist plan to remedy the existing chaos. I assert that it is a quack remedy and I congratulate The Post upon its progressive opposition to it as a false and deceitful nostrum.

It is clear to all thinking men that our society will be Christian or anti-Christian. Christianity is liberty. Socialism is slavery.

We must make a heroic attempt, first of all, to cure the spiritual disorders of society. We must strive to reestablish lasting Christian principles of value, justice, order and certainty. Unless we do that, we labor in vain. There must be a new attitude of Christians toward each other and society—the attitude of Christ. There must be a religious renewal of all mankind. That is the direction true progress must take. JOHN J. O'CONNOR.

Anacostia.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir:

Uniontown its former name was,
Later changed to Anacostia,
Latinized from Nacotchtanke,
Nacotchtanke, Indian village,
Where papoose, squaw, warrior flourished,
Long before the Federal City
Had been dreamed of, hunting, fishing.

Place of hills, ravines and hollows
With a picturesque commingling
Of the up-to-date and timeworn,
Anacostia skirts the river
Topographically fitted
To develop rare attractions,
Added shady streets and parkways,
Blooming yards, vine-covered porches,
Velvet lawns and verdant vistas.

'Tis indeed a pleasing prospect,
Anacostia, thriving suburb,
Suburb much too long neglected
Eastward year by year extended,
Topographically fitted
To adorn the Federal City.

We Regret the Distortion.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In yesterday's issue of The Post, before quoting excerpts from the sermon of Father Ignatius Smith, O. P., preached at the diamond jubilee of St. Aloysius' Church, your reporter in summing up the substance of the sermon in his own words gives a wrong impression of what Father Smith said—in fact, makes him say what he did not say, viz: That the nations of the world today are following the example of the Catholic Church when they are centralizing authority by regimenting the masses and suppressing individualism.

Father Smith rather drew a contrast between the modern tendency to establish dictatorships by the suppression of individualism and the church's method of establishing and sustaining the individualism of the parish as the fundamental unity of her organization and the effective means of perpetuating her as a spiritual democracy and insuring the vitality of the individual souls in that democracy. In brief, the Rev. Dr. Smith might have said: "Save the family from disintegration and you save the state of which it is the unit; save the parish in its integrity and you perpetuate the church."

Dross Into Gold.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I would like to make a remark, apropos the letter of W. A. Woodward, jr., particularly about his question as to the ability of "human minds, in the infant stage of development . . . to preserve peace." It seems to me that it is not so much "infancy" as the very nature of man possessed of a will. Plainly speaking, it is the very big problem of neutralizing the self-will in man, "a changing of base metals into gold."

Nature has endowed various nations with distinct ideas and ideals of culture and languages, so that, by friction, the light of wisdom may be produced and its blessings enjoyed by mankind.

Paradoxical as it may seem, one of the ways to convert base metal into gold is to become like "infants," casting away human sophistries or sophistication characteristic of our day. In this radio age, the mighty "power of the word" could do it. HOPEFUL.

A British Reaction

(From the Labor Press Service, London, England.)

It appears that at least one person engaged in the traffic in death had qualms of conscience. A letter was read from a Mr. Frank Jones, representing the Remington Arms Co. The letter was written from Argentina to an official of the Curtiss-Wright Export Co., whose business is to sell military planes to foreign countries. It stated:

> Paraguay and Bolivia fracas appears to be coming to a termination. So business from that end is probably finished. We certainly are in a hell of a business, where a fellow has to wish for trouble in order to make a living.

In connection with the export company's activities in Bolivia it was stated that the firm insured the sale of planes by employing a high government official as a "silent partner," and that a British and Dutch firm had offered gifts to the official to try to oust the American firm.

A selling agent of the company was sent to Mexico on a special mission. He reported that he had offered a saloon car to the chief engineer in charge of the shops of the Mexican government if the firm got the order for planes. "This country has been neglected," he added, "and I wish I could remain here a little longer."

In view of the nature of these disclosures it is not to be wondered at that other governments are stated to have tried to gag the inquiry. But the facts already brought to light are more than sufficient to justify the demand for the abolition of the private manufacture and trade in armaments.

The Post Impressionist

Pretty Puss.

Postoffice, Thursday.

SOME TIME ago the Post-Impressionist published a Column on cat-fear, and Katherine Bryan Chase thought him unfair to feline creatures. She wrote, from her home in Ballston, Virginia, and told him so. Whereupon, being nothing if not open-minded—at least on this subject—he offered her the Column for their defense. And now, after some delay, she sends what follows—

* * *

"Although Milton failed to mention it, the cat was originally a denizen of Heaven. In those times, he neither went out nights nor came home chewed to rags after keeping the neighborhood awake until daybreak. He was entirely angelic. He was always gentle, solemn, wise and kind.

"But eventually he did commit a grievous sin. When Lucifer planned his revolt, the cat remained friendly to Lucifer. And for this he was cast out of Heaven.

"It was during his sojourn in Hell that he became a mouser, and it was there that he learned to love hot places, to see in the dark and to despise dogs. In fact, he found Hell a very pleasant place for cats until the keeper of the adamantine gate—that old hag Sin—gave birth to the Hounds of Hell. After that, there was no peace in the place. So when Satan finally persuaded his daughter, Sin, to open the gate, the cat stole nine lives from the other keeper, Death, and escaped through Chaos to the Earth.

* * *

"Science may say that the antipathy some feel for cats is nothing but the cat-hair reaction. It may say that the shivering fear which takes possession of them at the sight of a cat is caused by sensitization to cat-hair producing its particular paroxysm, just as golden-rod pollen produces its well-known variety. But the explanations of science are not to be taken too seriously.

* * *

"What could be more likely than that this fallen angel, so to call it, should have mysterious powers to attract or repel all souls?

"What more likely than that, being at a loss to know whether his allegiance belongs to God, Satan or Man, the cat pays tribute to each—for it is the nature of the cat not to take chances—a tribute of human souls: now one to Heaven, now one to Hell and again one to Earth?

* * *

"Once, when I had been ill a long time and unable to do the things I wished, I felt I had actually become a tabby of the earthy variety, for I could see little difference between my existence and Briquet's—my cat's. And, in a rebellious moment I wrote:

"Briquet, you philosophical brat,
I wish I too might be a cat—
To knead my paws and lick my fur
And all day long contentment purr!
Oh, I'd be fit if I could be
A cat! For this my destiny—
Which is to dream with half-closed eyes,
And peacefully philosophize,
To eat with care and cultivate
A happy mood, to rest and wait;
But never to work with rush and flare,
To thrill with joy or die of despair—
This is my fate, the reason that
I wish I too might be a cat!

* * *

"At another time, the strange creature followed me when I went out for a walk on the crunchy snow, down a railroad track in a Western mining town and bewitched me with black magic:

"Out in the crystal night
We two on the moonlit snow,
Abroad in the eerie light,
Familiar spirits go.

"Black is my spirit and wild,
Walking with cautious paw,
Walking with heart beguiled
By Satan's magic law.

"Hair electric with frost,
Each step aquiver with thrill:
My soul, my soul, you are lost—
And I gave you up with a will!

"To this enchanted sprite,
To the cold and ghostly moon,
I gave you up—to the night:
Witchery, witchery's rune! . . .

* * *

"Still of courting the merely sissy cat I have not been guilty. Don't you know what a sissy cat is?

"Then, read this:

"Neat and dainty, gray and white,
In the cellar all the night,
In the kitchen all the day,
Too indolent to even play,
Safe from dogs and cats alike—
Couldn't make a telling strike
Except against a baby bird:
You are really quite absurd.
Getting fish and cream and liver
From that free and foolish giver,
Your adoring, doting missy—

Mean Mathematics.

Attendance at the Century of Progress reached 11,000,000 this year, but somewhat less than last year. The Leavenworth Times thinks for a year, or two sucessive years, of depression this "might be termed enormous." Still, there are about 4,000,000 people within a stone's throw of Chicago, and 11,000,000 attendance in five months does not mean that many different persons. If the average person went into the grounds four times it would be cut down to about 2,500,000. Probably the number of persons who saw the fair was considerably less than that.

The End of the Revolution.

I AM glad I went through the revolution of 1933-34 because it certainly will be something funny to tell the grandchildren about. The thing came to such a sudden end that most of us are still out of breath. I suppose in all history a revolution never came to such a quick halt, so quick, as a matter of fact, that it was jolting.

BARGERON

There we were, running around excitedly, at the enemy and from him. For some 19 months we had been doing this. The Communists, the Socialists, the Fascists, the Rightists, the Leftists, all of us—never did a people have such an exciting time.

Then without warning, and you might say, just as some of us were getting warmed up, came the end. Now a strange quiet has come to take the place of the tempest.

• • • •

Don't ask me how the thing happened. I had not the slightest idea that the end was near. Just all of a sudden, out of a clear sky, came the word that the revolution was over. Whew!

It is something that I haven't been able to understand to save my life. One day we read in the papers that nothing like the end was in sight. Mr. Roosevelt, it was reported, was going right ahead with the fight; he had no thought of stopping until he had given the people the more abundant life.

This, from the viewpoint of the critics, meant inescapable ruin. It was not the more abundant life that we would get, they insisted; it was chaos, that is what we were headed for.

Then, without any forewarning, without any opportunity for us revolutionaries to make our plans, the political reporters began writing that all bets were off, that Mr. Roosevelt had changed, that from now on he was to pursue a course just as our conservative Presidents had done, that henceforth he was to be a friend of business. If the thing wasn't startling enough to take one's breath, I'll eat my hat. It stunned us, that is what it did.

• • • •

Looking back, even now I can't see what happened. Not a thing has changed. So far as I can see, not one major policy has been altered. It is just that one day we were having a revolution and the next day, according to the newspaper writers, we were not. One day there was doubt and fear among the "thinking" people over all the land. The next day they were confident and ready to move ahead.

Let's see now: The TVA is still carrying on with that "socialistic" project in the Tennessee Valley; the AAA is still the ruler of the farms. The modification of the NRA doesn't mean anything because that business which it was handicapping ceased to pay any attention to it a long time ago.

No one of the "socialistic" homestead projects has been halted so far as I know; there has been no let up in the expenditures for relief, the budget is not yet balanced nor is there any balancing of it in sight.

• • • •

What then is it that happened overnight to cause all the political writers to begin writing that a great change had come, that the revolution of 1933-34 had come to an end?

Ah, I have it—the great fundamental change that has come in our Government.

Apparently it has been decided that Prof. Tugwell has made enough money from his books and syndicate writings to carry him a long time and he has been displaced as the chief talker of the Administration, displaced by Mr. Donald Richberg, who has a couple of books to sell. Richberg's tone is different. He is more pleasing to the conservative ear.

It's the voice of a different book salesman we are hearing, that's the only real change. But it is an important one.

Baltimore Bank To Be Reorganized

Baltimore, Oct. 17 (Spl.).—Reorganization of the Title Guarantee & Trust Co. here was approved today by State Bank Commissioner John J. Ghinger.

This will end a receivership of almost two years. Under the plan, the depositors will receive a rebate of about 30 per cent, their first refund.

Total funds to be available for them will be nearly $1,000,000, Ghinger said, adding that he hopes to make the money available before Christmas.

Daniels Defends Stand On Mexican Education

Envoy Replies to Protest of Catholics; Denies Touching on Religious Aspect.

Replying through the State Department to demands for his ouster by Catholic organizations in this country, Josephus Daniels, American Ambassador to Mexico, yesterday disavowed having approved or otherwise touched on the controversial educational system being set up in that country.

Mr. Daniels' statement was made public following the revelation in The Washington Post yesterday that spokesmen for American Catholics had protested against a speech last July by Mr. Daniels in which he quoted a line from a previous address by Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, chief of the National Revolutionary party.

Catholics Make Protest.

The protesting Catholics contended that Mr. Daniels had quoted approvingly from the Calles' speech, which, taken as a whole, they asserted, urged the elimination of religion from education and the establishment of socialist instruction. A constitutional amendment banning religious schools has been adopted by the Mexican Chamber of Deputies.

Undersecretary of State William Phillips yesterday telephoned Mr. Daniels, at Mexico City, and received from him a statement explaining his position. Mr. Phillips subsequently made public this statement with the assertion that he did not think any further action would be taken at this time.

Mr. Daniels' statement was as follows:

"The address I made to the members of the Seminar was exactly the type of address I had made in the United States expressing appreciation of the attitude of Mexico in recognizing the great work of Horace Mann, and quoting Gen. Calles as favoring the education of children.

Surprised by Reaction.

"I was never more surprised than when I learned that any interpretation could be given my address as relating even remotely to controversial matters in Mexico. I truly believe the future of Mexico depends upon an educated population, just as I believe that foundation to be essential in my country and in all countries.

"The hope is universal education and in no country has this been provided except by general taxation.

"I profoundly believe in the principles of our country with reference to public schools, the freedom of religion and the freedom of the press."

Virginia Nabs Man in Holdup

Charlottesville, Oct. 17 (AP).—Wanted on a fugitive warrant charging him with taking part in the robbery of a bank in Wayne County, Pa., William Low, 29, was arrested last night near Scottsville by Virginia highway police.

Low's wife, who gave her age as 27 years, was lodged in the Albemarle Jail shortly after midnight, while Low was placed in the Charlottesville City Jail.

It could not be learned whether similar charges had been placed against Mrs. Low. Private detectives and State police hunted another suspect believed hiding near Scottsville.

Police quoted Low as saying the bank was robbed of $37,000 September 17, and that someone was shot in the holdup. He denied, however, having taken part in the robbery.

Two Corporations File Certificates

Lime and Oil Concerns Are Started in West Virginia.

Charles Town, W. Va., Oct. 17 (Spl.).—Incorporation certificates were filed in the office of County Clerk Charles A. Johnson for two small corporations this week.

The first was the West Virginia Lime Corporation, with S. G. Proffitt, of Floyd, Va.; Paul H. Jamison, of Charles Town, and H. L. Lawson, jr., of Roanoke, Va., as the incorporators. The company has been organized to manufacture lime, marl and fertilizers, with principal offices in Charles Town and an authorized capital of $10,000.

D. H. Tabler & Co. is the title of the second corporation, with an authorized capital of $5,000. They will market petroleum products, retail or wholesale, and operate sales agency for motor cars and accessories. D. H. Tabler, of Shepherdstown; Homer W. Wageley, of Charles Town, and William A. Horst, of Hagerstown, are the incorporators.

West Virginia Man Held on Dope Charge

Moorefield, W. Va., Oct. 17 (Spl.). Arrested on a charge of illegal possession of morphine and cocaine, Carl Caldwell, of Mathias, Morgan County, is held in the Harrison County Jail at Clarksburg for the United States court.

When arrested in Clarksburg he was with his cousin, William F. Caldwell, also of Mathias, but the latter was released.

H. I. Phillips' Once Over

Moving the General, Bird and All, Is Tough on Moving Man.

"Lock, stock and barrel, including a big wicker Blue Eagle, presented to him by President and Mrs. Roosevelt a year ago, Gen. Johnson's things were moved from his old Government office today."—News item.)

Moving man—What goes next?

Robbie—These four barrels, I guess.

Moving man—What's in 'em?

Robbie—Oh classical illusions, metaphors, &c. He may want 'em again.

An NRA assistant—How about all these railroad schedules and time tables?

Robbie—He won't know whether he'll need 'em unless he can find out where he's going.

Robbie—What mottoes?

Moving man—All these things with WDOP on 'em?

Robbie—WDOP? I wonder what that means?

An NRA worker—I used to know, but I forget.

• • • •

Robbie—What's in this big packing case?

An assistant—Undelivered speeches. Will he want 'em, do you suppose?

Robbie—You can never tell.

Robbie—Oh, yes. Those are the General's crackdowners.

Moving man—He won't want those again, will he?

Robbie—I think so, if only as keepsakes.

• • • •

A worker—Here's two big baskets full of mail. One is marked "Congratulatory Letters" and the other "Denunciations, Abuse, &c."

Robbie—They're all from the same people!

• • • •

Moving man—How about this box full of wigs?

Robbie—Don't be a nut. Those are not wigs; they're scalps. That funny white one with the pink strands is that of a well known Rugged Individualist. The General had such fun getting it! The collection isn't as big as we expected, but he wouldn't part with it for anything.

• • • •

Robbie—That's the bird Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt gave the General.

Moving man—Well, we all get it at times, lady. Is it dead or alive?

Robbie—The jury is still out, but I guess it's a pretty sick bird.

• • • •

A stenographer—Handle it carefully; it's had enough rough handling already.

Williamsburg Expects 25,000

500 Students to Take Part in Program on Occasion of Roosevelt Visit.

Williamsburg, Va., Oct. 17 (Spl.). Five hundred college students will take part in the program Saturday when President Roosevelt comes here to witness the inaugural of John Steward Bryan as president of the college of William and Mary.

The students will serve as guides, ushers and escorts. One hundred will be in the street program in the celebration of the city's colonial restoration. Included in the special preparations are the accommodations set aside for the parking of 10,000 cars. Sections will be set aside for official cars and a large area for the attending public.

To take care of the tentative crowd of 25,000 estimated to attend the ceremonies, comfort stations will be opened in all public and official buildings. Local churches expect to augment the restaurants in the matter of feeding the visitors.

The proceedings here Saturday will be broadcast over several National hookups. The program was arranged by L. Malcom Bridges of the Richmond Chamber of Commerce.

Wage Violation At School Seen

But PWA Board Declines to Order Adjustment on Virginia Job.

The PWA Board of Labor Review yesterday decided that PWA wage regulations had been violated on construction of the Ashland, Va., high school, but because of uncertainty as to which workmen performed the skilled tasks on the building, declined to order the contractor to make wage adjustments, the Associated Press reported.

The board's decision said that only 1 of 19 carpenters employed on the project was paid at the rate of $1.10 per hour, which is the PWA minimum for skilled work.

Construction of the building was approved by the PWA inspection division, the board said, commenting "it is absurd to conclude that the volume of skilled carpenter work actually performed could have been performed by one skilled carpenter."

"There was no testimony before the board," the decision contended, "indicating which of the 18 workers did the skilled work which some of them must have done. In the absence of such testimony the board declined, in this case, to order the contractor to pay any deficiencies in the wages as the inspection division ordered him to do for the worker already mentioned."

Democratic Leaders Swamp White House

Candidates Beat Path to President as Foes Charge 'Public Revulsion' Has Cut Relief Funds.

Democratic leaders of Pennsylvania, Ohio and Wisconsin yesterday beat a path to the White House, while their Republican adversaries penned a statement declaring that "public revulsion" had forced the Democratic National committee to stop sending out figures on relief expenditures for campaign uses.

"It is like locking the barn after the horse has been stolen, except that they know where the horse is," declared the Republican Senatorial-Congressional committee. "The Democratic National committee's gesture is an idle one. It fools no one."

Despite the White House's expressed desire to remain aloof and strictly impartial in regard to the November 6 elections, visiting party leaders formed a steady procession into the inner sanctum of President Roosevelt, virtually dominating his day's appointment list.

Among the earliest arrivals was Joseph F. Guffey, Democratic candidate for the Senatorial toga of Pennsylvania's David A. Reed. He was accompanied by David Lawrence, Democratic State chairman, who did most of the talking after their conference with the President.

"I told him," Mr. Lawrence said, "that Pennsylvania is for the New Deal and will definitely show that in November."

Pinchot-Reed Alliance Doomed, Says Lawrence.

Asked as to the desertion of Gov. Pinchot, Progressive Republican, he declared:

"The Pinchot-Reed alliance is so unnatural, so unholy, that none of the former Pinchot followers are with him. He called Reed 'Mellon's messenger boy' in May, and he can't change now."

Both predicted another Democratic "landslide," adding that "they're not going to steal the election this time." Mr. Guffey said Department of Justice agents would be sent into the State, in addition to investigators now probing primary expenses for the Senate committee investigating campaign expenditures.

Another caller at the White House—Senator F. Ryan Duffy, of Wisconsin—declared he had told the President the entire Democratic State ticket will be elected. Questioned as to the campaign of Senator Robert M. La Follette, progressive Republican to whom the Administration owes a debt of gratitude, he said, smilingly:

"I'm making no statement about that."

It is an open secret, however, that the President wants "Young Bob" La Folette sent back to the Senate. And it was taken for granted that most of his discussion with Senator Duffy was devoted to that topic. Friends of La Follette are said to be encouraged over his chances by recent polls.

Still another visitor, H. W. Kramer, of Cleveland, brought just as optimistic news from Ohio. Forecasting the defeat of Senator Simeon D. Fess and the election of "Vic" Donahey, he said he informed Mr. Roosevelt that prospects were never more encouraging for a general Democratic victory.

Republican Statement On Relief Pamphlets.

Meanwhile, the suspension of pamphlets on New Deal expenditures was explained at Democratic headquarters as due to exhaustion of the supply, and the fact that not enough time remains for obtaining a new stock. The Republican statement explained it in another manner:

"Public revulsion against the New Deal's argument that relief funds distribution calls for election of New Dealers as a payment from recipients of Government relief has forced the Democratic National committee to say it has discontinued the dissenmination of State by State relief expenditures for campaign uses."

Further, the Republican committee thought "it might possibly be construed as a confession that at last the New Deal is ashamed of the way it seeks to make political capital of human relief needs." The data on expenditures, it added, however, already is being used "where it will do the most good."

Other political developments yesterday included announcement that Senator Robert F. Wagner, of New York, Democrat and ardent New Dealer, will enter Wisconsin early next month to campaign for Senator La Follette. Others who plan similar trips are Senator Gerald P. Nye, North Dakota Republican, and New York's Progressive Mayor, Fiorello H. LaGuardia.

John H. Fahey, chairman of the Home Owners Loan Corporation, declared he had sent investigators into Pennsylvania to check cases of political favoritism reported by Senator Reed, but that they had been unable to see the Senator.

Harry L. Hopkins, relief administrator, also drawn into the political picture, said he had wired Upton Sinclair, Socialist-Democrat gubernatorial candidate in California, that he would take no part in his campaign. Hopkins previously had applauded the nomination of the former Socialist.

Olin D. Johnston, Democratic nominee for Governor of South Carolina, visited both President Roosevelt and Mr. Hopkins during the day. He was accompanied to the White House by Representative John J. McSwain. He said he would work "hand in hand" with the New Deal after the election, which his Democratic nomination assures him in the South.

Idea of a University.

Inasmuch as all American universities begin a new academic year in the autumn, it may be well, especially for the thousands of undergraduates who are entering on their first year, to consider what they are there for and what gain in mind and character can be obtained from residence. Here I can do no better than quote again from Newman. His somewhat lengthy essay called "The Idea of a University" should be read in full; and the student, parent or professor can test himself and the university by its precepts. Newman wanted to emphasize the fact that the storing of memory with many facts was not the primary purpose of a university, but rather the training of the mind. Here is a representative extract:

"Knowledge, then, is the indispensable condition of expansion of mind, and the instrument of attaining to it; this can not be denied; it is ever to be insisted on; I begin with it as a first principle; however, the very truth of it carries men too far and confirms to them the notion that it is the whole of the matter. A narrow mind is thought to be that which contains little knowledge; and an enlarged mind, that which holds a great deal . . .

"Now, from these instances, to which many more might be added, it is plain, first, that the communication of knowledge certainly is either a condition or the means of that sense of enlargement or enlightenment, of which at this day we hear so much in certain quarters; this can not be denied; but next, it is equally plain that such communication is not the whole of the process. The enlargement consists, not merely in the passive reception into the mind of a number of ideas hitherto unknown to it, but in the mind's energetic and simultaneous action upon and toward and among those new ideas which are rushing in upon it. It is the action of a formative power reducing to order and meaning the matter of our acquirements; it is a making the objects of our knowledge subjectively our own, or, to use a familiar word, it is a digestion of what we receive, into the substance of our previous state of thought; and without this no enlargement is said to follow. There is no enlargement unless there be a comparison of ideas one with another, as they come before the mind, and a systematizing of them. We feel our minds to be growing and expanding then, when we not only learn, but refer what we learn to what we know already. It is not the mere addition to our knowledge that is the illumination; but the locomotion, the movement onward, of that mental center to which both what we know and what we are learning, the accumulating mass of our acquirements, gravitates. And therefore a truly great intellect, and recognized to be such by the common opinion of mankind, such as the intellect of Aristotle, or of St. Thomas, or of Newton, or of Goethe (I purposely take instances within and without the Catholic pale, when I would speak of the intellect as such), is one which takes a connected view of old and new, past and present, far and near, and which has an insight into the influence of all these one on another; without which there is no whole, and no center. It possesses the knowledge, not only of things, but also of their mutual and true relations."

Oyster Cultivation Program Criticized

Problems of Ritchie's Plan Cited by Armstrong.

Newport News, Va., Oct. 17 (AP).—The oyster propagation program of Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland will create serious marketing problems if it materializes, declared Richard Armstrong, chairman of the Virginia Commission of Fisheries after having read here of the Governor's plan.

The Ritchie plan made it obvious, Armstrong said, that Maryland had decided that cultivation of oysters is more profitable than depending on public rocks.

Armstrong also said that unless the State also goes into the marketing of oysters, the question of the absorption of the bivalves crop is left open and if Maryland obtains sufficient seed oysters from other States those States will have a shortage.

Fairfax Crowd Urged to Vote By Rep. Smith

Lauds New Deal Policies at Club's Rally in Fairgrounds.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 126-J.

The general election next month will afford Virginia voters their first chance to express themselves on the New Deal, Representative Howard W. Smith, of Alexandria told 2,000 persons at the Democratic rally Monday night in the Fairfax County Fair grounds. The rally was under auspices of the county Democratic executive committee and the county Young Democratic Club.

Urging citizens of the Eighth Congressional District to vote, Representative Smith said it would be their last chance to express themselves until the 1936 Presidential election.

Outlining accomplishments of the New Deal, Mr. Smith said the Home Owners Loan Corporation already had saved 11,000 Virginia homes and that the Farm Credit Administration had enabled many farmers to continue when otherwise they would have been forced to abandon their farms.

He declared the chief complaint against the present Adminstration is that it is depriving people of their liberty, but insisted the main object of the Administration is to restore to the people the liberty which is rightfully their own.

Holiday For County Schools.

The public schools of Fairfax County will be closed tomorrow to allow the teachers to attend the district teachers' conference in Manassas tomorrow and Saturday. Fred Alexander, principal of the Newport News High School, the principal speaker, will explain the new State curriculum.

Miss Maude Wallace, State club agent, of Blacksburg, Va., will explain the program to be carried out during the ensuing year by the affiliated Home Demonstration Clubs of Virginia.

Fusion candidates of Montgomery County, Md., will train their heavy artillery on Democratic candidates and their records at the first rally of the Fusionists which will be held tonight at the Takoma Park, Md., firehouse.

Wilson L. Townsend, who will preside, will be introduced by John W. Coffman. He will tell of the Fusion movement and its history in the county.

Other speakers will be James A. Cantrel and James Cunningham Rogers, both of Chevy Chase, and candidates for the House of Delegates; Millward C. Taft, of Takoma Park, candidate for the House of Delegates; Samuel E. Stonebreaker, of Chevy Chase, and Paul M. Coughlan, of Silver Spring, candidate for county commissioners; John E. Oxley, candidate for the State Senate, and Walter W. Dawson, candidate for State's attorney.

Paid Kelley $250, Contractor Says

county sewer system, what he could expect in the way of bond business if he recommended the pipe company's bid be accepted.

Mr. Lamond testified, over the objection of Kelley's counsel, that he had assured Kelley he would get the writing of the bond. It was brought out Mr. Lamond was not acting as agent for the pipe company.

Mr. Daniels' testimony went back to the time he held the county's contract for garbage removal, his bond of $20,000 then being written by an Alexandria firm. The contractor testified Kelley told him, regarding the 1934 contract, that he need not expect Kelley's support for the confract unless he contemplated giving the bond to Kelley.

At this juncture, Lawrence W. Douglas, Commonwealth's attorney for Arlington County, introduced in evidence a bill from Kelley to Daniels "for special services rendered $250."

Under questioning, Mr. Daniels said he did not feel that he owed Kelley the $250, but that he paid it.

Swears to Payments.

Mr. Daniels swore he had made four other payments, three in cash and one by check, and he also testified Kelley had asked him to destroy the bill for $250.

On cross-examination, Mr. Daniels denied he had offered Kelley $500 if he would give him the 1934 garbage removal contract.

Kelley, through his counsel's questions, showed he denied receiving more than the $50, and the fight now is centering about the ultimate disposition of the balance.

Mrs. Bertha Wasserman and her husband, Albert, operators of the gasoline station, followed Mr. Daniels to the stand and identified the $50 check.

After their testimony, the prosecution closed. Kelley is expected to be the first defense witness at the reopening of court this morning. The jury is expected to have the case by tonight.

Sunrise in the Suburbs

By Clyde H. DuBose.

Every day that passes now brings a new offensive in the nearby Maryland political battle.

In Montgomery County the main fight seems to be between the Fusionists and the Democrats. Neither side is willing to admit the other has a better chance.

And out in Prince Georges County it's just the same old howl between the Democrats and the Republicans. Those who guessed the Democrats would have a 5,000 majority are pointing to the primary results. The score was 16,060 Democratic voters and 11,218 Republican voters last night with two precincts still not heard from.

But even at that the minority doesn't want any aspersions cast on their chances.

Mayor Thomas J. Luckett of Capitol Heights, Republican candidate for the House of Delegates, issued a statement last night, saying, in effect, that there were more than 10,000 voters riding the donkey when they had just as soon be on the elephant.

The Dramatic Club of Herndon (Va.) High School has elected Miss Sarah Ellen Dawson as president. Billie Keyes is vice president; Hazel Sanders, secretary; Helen Hanes, treasurer, and George Frame, business manager. Who knows but what this will turn out to be another Roadside Theater?

The populace for many miles around still marvel at the way that bunch of amateurs of the Roadside Theater got an old shack together out on the Rockville pike and put on some of the best plays Washingtonians have seen in some time.

D. C. Will Seek Aid of States To Purify River

Contract for $8,000,000 Sewage Disposal Loan About to Be Signed.

Cooperation of Maryland and Virginia county and State officials in an effort to eliminate pollution of the Potomac River and its tributaries will be sought by District officials as soon as they have signed the pending contract for the PWA $8,000,000 sewage disposal loan.

Signatures of the District Commissioners are expected to be put to the contract in the next day or two. District officials are not satisfied that building of a sewage disposal plant is the best way in which they can spend $8,000,000 at the moment.

All are agreed, however, that the project is a worthy one. It was conceived by Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes, master of PWA.

Worse Above City.

Analysis of the content of the river shows that there is much more pollution—considered by the content per gallon—above Washington than below it. The fact that the river water is not so contaminated after it passes Washington as it is before, is not due to any activity of the District, but to the contour of the river and the wide prevalence of river vegetation, District officials admit.

Lieut. Col. Daniel I. Sultan, Engineer Commissioner, is planning to call the conference of District, Maryland and Virginia authorities once the District purification program is under way.

"There is undoubtedly a great deal of work to be done," Col. Sultan said. "I believe the District officials should be in a position of having cleaned their own noses before they start to talk to anybody else in Maryland or Virginia.

"Once we get our own project under way it is my intention to seek the cooperation of Maryland and Virginia county and State officials to work out a program of cleaning up the river. The District has got a lot to do in the matter. I don't deny that. We are not going into the proposed conference with any superior idea. It is a problem all of us have to confront. It is a matter of great importance to everybody down the river and in the Chesapeake Bay.

Favors a Conference.

"I do not want it to appear that the District Commissioners are undertaking to tell anybody else what they should do. I do believe, however, that considerable good could come out of a conference of all of the officials involved.

"If I had unlimited control of District finances and plans it might be that I would want to postpone some things for a certain time. None has that control. The situation is before us, and the inauguration of the District sewage disposal plant might afford an opportunity to bring about a general scheme for cleaning the river which would be satisfactory to Maryland and Virginia officials and which would certainly be of greater advantage to the residents of those States than to the residents of Washington, if the matter was to be considered selfishly and with a short perspective."

Production Up In Feed Grains

Production of feed grains this year in Maryland will be 3 per cent above last year and 8 per cent greater than average, according to the October report of the Maryland Crop Reporting Service.

Total tame hay crop will be 9 per cent more than 1933 and 20 per cent above normal.

Production estimates for oats, potatoes, hay, apples, pears and grapes are greater than those of a month ago, while those for corn, barley, buckwheat, tobacco and peaches show no change.

Condition of potatoes improved steadily during September and indications now are for fairly good yields.

Production of tobacco is now estimated at 24,480,000 pounds, as compared with 20,400,000 pounds a year ago and the average crop of 23,638,000 pounds.

September was favorable for the sizing of apples and production prospects show some improvement. Fruit is well-colored and of fairly good quality.

Pasture condition, reported at 84 per cent of normal, is above average. Milk production in herds, crop correspondents reported, averages 14.8 pounds per cow, as compared with 14.5 pounds in October a year ago.

Democrats Show Big County Lead

Majority Nearly 4,800 in Registration Lists of Prince Georges.

Democrats of Prince Georges County yesterday found themselves in a strong position for the November elections with a majority of nearly 4,800 registered in 32 of 34 precincts.

Samuel A. Wyvill, clerk of election supervisors, who made the announcement from his office at Upper Marlboro, said the two other precincts would probably bring the Democratic majority to 5,000.

As the figures stood last night the party had recorded 16,060 voters, as against 11,218 Republican voters. There were 611 registered "on the fence."

These figures show a gain, since the 1932 registration, of more than 1,200 for the Democrats, but approximately the same number of voters for the Republicans. The 1932 figures were 14,819 Democratic voters and 11,689 Republican.

It is expected the complete returns will be tabulated today.

County Chiefs File Demurrers To Salary Suit

Deny They Should Return Wage Increases in Montgomery.

Demurrers were filed yesterday by two Montgomery County commissioners to a suit filed by James P. Veirs, Rockville farmer, seeking to have them return increases in salary enacted by the last Legislature, in Montgomery County Circuit Court at Rockville, Md.

The two commissioners, John B. Diamond and Robert D. Hagner, and J. Forest Walker, county treasurer, held in their demurrers that the plaintiff has not stated in his bill of complaint such a case as to entitle him to any relief at equity.

The defendants further allege that the constitutional provision invoked by the plaintiff does not apply to them or to their salaries or compensation. They further allege that "chapter 168 of the acts of the General Assembly of Maryland, does not violate any provision of the Constitution of the State of Maryland."

Through their attorneys, the firm of Whiteford & Cissel, counsel to the county commissioners, they further declare that other reasons why the suit should be voided will be presented at the hearing on the demurrer.

Veirs' suit charged that the commissioners had received $1,900 salary increases illegally in violation of the Maryland Constitution clause which prohibits raises in salary during the term of office.

Child Health Conference.

The Montgomery County health department will conduct a child health conference Friday at the Kensington School, Drs. J. M. Bankhead and Katherine Chapman to make the examinations and give injections of toxoid, toxin-antitoxin and vaccine to children who need to be protected.

Luckett Flays Ward Workers Of Democrats

10,000 in Prince Georges, Listed Party Members, Called 'Independent.'

More than 10,000 Prince Georges County voters have been influenced by ward workers to register Democratic while they are really of an "independent frame of mind," it was charged yesterday by Thomas J. Luckett, Mayor of Capitol Heights.

Mayor Luckett, who is also a Republican candidate for the House of Delegates, declared that "the registration books of the county may carry a majority of 5,000 voters, but many at the time of registration were influenced by the Democratic ward workers to register as Democrats.

"And I dare say that 10,000 or more of these voters are of the independent frame of mind, and certainly do not care to be called a part of the Democratic machine."

Answering statements that the Democrats would carry every county office in the November elections, Luckett continued:

"I deny that the Democrats have a more intelligent, able and capable group of candidates than the Republicans, man for man. In some places on the ticket, I admit that the Democrats are stronger, but in the majority of places, man for man, the Republican candidates are just as capable.

"I realize there has been no organized opposition within the Democratic ranks, yet there are those who have said they would not vote the ticket the Democratic bosses would have them, but would use their own judgment, irrespective of the dictates of the machine.

"I admit the Democratic workers have organized numerous clubs throughout the country, but the Republicans have been working quietly and deserve some mention.

"The Democratic organization's statement that the prestige of the National Administration descends to the county Democrats is a misstatement.

"Why wasn't the Bladensburg flood condition remedied, with thousands of dollars of PWA funds available, if the administration of Maryland was so cooperative with the Federal Government?

"I must concede the fact that the Democrats are in a better position than the Republicans, at this time, to finance their campaign."

Tea Will Flow Again In Old Gadsby's Tavern

Mrs. George H. Dern on Committee Sponsoring Program at Famous Colonial Inn on October 27; Rare Exhibits to Be Inspected.

By Evelyn Peyton Gordon.

Alexandria is only one of many historic places near the Capital, but even in such historic surroundings, Gadsby's Tavern stands out, and recalls the early days of this country when great men gathered there for conferences, or stopped there en route to and from Mount Vernon.

Gadsby's Tavern is really two buildings, the smaller one having been erected in 1752, when it was known as the City Tavern. The larger building, known as the "newer" tavern, was built in 1792, and was called the City Hotel.

In 1797, John Gadsby combined the two into his famous tavern. In the famous old ballroom George Washington's birthday was celebrated annually, and on February 11, 1799 (old calendar), Washington noted in his diary: "Went up to Alexandria to the celebration of my birthday. Many maneuvers were performed by the uniformed Corps, and an elegant ball and supper were given that night at Gadsby's."

Tea to Be Served.

On October 27, the tavern will be open from 2 until 6 o'clock for tea, and an exhibit of the colonial furnishings, which have recently been replaced in the old building.

The well-known Henderson collection of antique furniture and furnishings, which was formerly at Michie Tavern, Charlottesville, Va., is now housed in Gadsby's, creating a complete eighteenth century atmosphere.

To the left of the entrance hall is an early colonial dining room furnished entirely in pine and maple with many pieces of old pewter, which are the despair of modern makers of pewter, who can not reproduce it.

The famous Bennington pitcher is there, and the candle box in one wall is still filled with candles made 135 years ago. Above the mantel is the cavalry flag carried by Col. Blackburn in the Revolution.

Rare Sideboard Shown.

In the state dining room is a fine Hepplewhite sideboard which formerly belonged to a member of the Carroll family of Maryland, and the banquet table, once owned by President Monroe, bears one of a pair of Lowestoft bowls, the mate of which is in Mount Vernon.

In the old courtyard missing cobbles have been replaced with old ones taken from the fast disappearing cobbled streets of the quaint old town. In the courtyard is an eighteenth century coach said to have been the property of James Monroe.

Mrs. George H. Dern, wife of the Secretary of War, and Mrs. Julia Grant Cantacuzene are patronesses for the reopening program, and Mrs. A. D. Rorex is chairman of the tea committee, with Mrs. W. H. Peek as hostess chairman.

A number of Washingtonians are on the committees, including Mrs. Thomas Q. Ashburn, wife of Maj. Gen. Ashburn; Mrs. O. R. Luhring, wife of Justice Luhring; Mrs. Bowman MacArthur, Mrs. W. L. Littlefield, Mrs. A. S. Goff, Mrs. Douglas MacArthur, Mrs. William Arnold, Mrs. Herbert Lee Boatwright, Mrs. Harry N. Cootes, Mrs. Joseph Crockett, Mrs. E. Dooman, Mrs. H. Oliver, Mrs. John Dunn, Mrs. F. A. Ballard, Mrs. Charles B. Moore, and Mrs. A. M. Roth.

Several of these ladies have recently moved to Alexandria, where many of the old houses have been restored and renovated.

Costumes Ready For Tacky Ball At Mayflower

Screen Motif Expected to Develop Many Embryo Stars.

Now that the hectic hunts for costumes are about over, members of the younger set are settling down to really anticipate the Tacky Ball Saturday evening. Judging from the mounting number of those to attend, the scene of activity will have to be transferred from the garden of the Mayflower Hotel to the large ballroom.

Each fall, for the past several years, the debutantes of other years, who call themselves the "Girls on the Shelf," have entertained at this delightfully gay informal affair, which is sponsored by Mrs. William Laird Dunlop, jr., in honor of the buds of the coming year.

This year, the party having transplanted a bit of Hollywood for the occasion, there will be a gathering of screen characters portrayed by their Washington admirers. Who knows, perhaps one, or two, or maybe more, possessing heretofore hidden talents, will be discovered by the dramatic critics—Nelson B. Bell, Miss Maybelle Jennings and Edward Melcher, who will decide the winners of the costume contests.

In the receiving line, which Mrs. Dunlop will head, will be Miss Lucille Elliott, Miss Mary Elizabeth MacArthur, Miss Jane Richards, Miss Dorothy Gould Fowler, Miss Fanella Castanedo, Miss Nancy Lesh, Miss Emiscah Davis, Miss Virginia Glasebrook, Miss Mae Harris Clarke, Miss Peggy Tyner, Miss Dorothy Nicholson, Miss Frances Matthews, Miss Kay Fuqua, Miss Anne Wyant, Miss Margaret Calvert, Miss Eleanor Calvert, Miss Helen Walker and Miss Sydney Thompson.

New Mrs. Nephi Kuykendall Leaves on Honeymoon Through South.

The wedding of Miss Dorothy Mae Sherwood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Wilbur Sherwood, and Mr. Nephi Kuykendall, son of Mr. Luke H. Kuykendall, of San Francisco, took place last evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Wesley Methodist Episcopal Church.

The Rev. Luther Neff officiated. The church was decorated with palms, autumn leaves and white and yellow chrysanthemums. Tall cathedral candles added a soft light to the white blossoms, which were arranged in clusters on the altar.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of eggshell velvet fashioned on simple lines. The skirt ended in a long, graceful train, and the sleeves, which were long and fitted, ended in points over the hands. She carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley.

The bridesmaids were Miss Ruth Groff, who wore a gown of rust velvet with a hat to match; Miss Katherine Fenwick, whose gown was of orange velvet, and Mrs. Verne MacDonald, who was in green velvet. All carried bouquets of talisman roses.

Mr. Verne MacDonald was best man, and the ushers were Mr. Rawlings Poole, Mr. George Groff, Mr. Hillary Haskinson and Mr. Franklin Gibbons.

Following the ceremony there was a reception for relatives and a few close friends at the home of the bride's parents. The young couple were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Sherwood, who wore a gown of blue chiffon and lace with a corsage of gardenias.

Later the couple left for a motor trip south along the coast and thence across the continent to San Francisco. The bride wore a rust colored suit trimmed with brown fox and brown accessories. They will make their home in Vallejo, Calif.

PILLAR to POST

IT'S JUST too bad that "Chip" Robert can not give any of those really excellent PWA pictures to his friends. Although the Assistant Secretary of the Treasury is in charge of distributing last winter's output, there's no use in trying to work upon his generous nature to get even one of the 15,000 pieces of work.

There are several fine scenes hanging in his office that ought to be worth a lot of money, but they are not for sale, either. All will be distributed to hospitals, schools, libraries and other public institutions.

* * * * *

That there is an immense amount of talent going to waste in this country is evident in this governmental collection.

Mr. Robert recited with amusement some of the difficulties of working with the temperamental artists. Any criticism of their work is apt to call forth stormy scenes and tearing of hair.

* * * *

THAT pretty girl seen from Senator Gore's place, whose red gold hair burned through the gloom of Rock Creek Park as she mounted a flagstone walk leading to the new foundations of a house across the way, was Miss Virginia Shaffer, of Wytheville, Va.

She is the guest for the winter of Mrs. William M. Doak, who is building the house bordering on the park in the Southern Colonial style, and surrounding it with terraces and sunken gardens.

* * * *

Mrs. Walter R. Tuckerman maintains that tact and not an inferiority complex dictated giving up golf on her honeymoon. Curiously, the president of the National Woman's Country Club never sets foot on the nine-hole links.

When she and her husband went on their honeymoon to Southampton, he was the runner-up in the National Amateur Championship match, and she played just three games with him during the first week.

When he politely importuned her the fourth time to play with him, she firmly refused.

Later, when he became Middle Atlantic champion for three successive years, she stuck to her resolution not to play golf, becoming a "trained gallery" instead. All of which may or may not be the answer to their long and happy married life.

An entertainment program will be given by Chapter 3 of the Colonial Dames of America on Thursday, October 25, at the home of Mrs. Eliphalet Andrews, near Alexandria, Va. Proceeds will go to the Colonial Dames Scholarship Fund.

The chapter this year is sending a direct descendant of Betty Washington through college. The officers of Chapter 3 are Mrs. Walter R. Tuckerman, president; Mrs. Robert Giles, first vice president; Mrs. J. Harry Covington, second vice president; Mrs. Eliphalet Andrews, treasurer; Mme. Priscilla de Mauduit, secretary, and Mrs. William Eaches Fendall, treasurer of the Wythe House Fund. This last fund has been used to save the famous Wythe House, which was the first unit to be restored in historic Williamsburg.

Deb's Diary

Who, What and Where —as She Sees It.

DEAR DIARY:

Yesterday, Barbara Baker, who has been very busy studying, was meandering south on Connecticut avenue attired in a good-looking green ensemble. The neckline of the frock was relieved with a touch of white crepe, and on the saucy chapeau there perched a bright-eyed bird.

Blonde, but-dark-eyed Mary Patterson, who makes her home at the Mayflower, has arrived and quietly slipped into our set, a happy addition.

Speaking of the Mayflower, when there yesterday at noon I met Jack Cremen, (who has been radio-romance acting) and he denies having any costume for Saturday, but he looks too unworried to convince me.

Peggy McMullen is apparently going the lost chord one better—the other day she twice (unintentionally) parted with her car keys. Once at tea time they were found reposing upon a desk, and some time later Beg spent some minutes "squirreling" through a mound of crunchy leaves to reclaim the important little trinkets.

Miss Chambers' Delicacies Bring Down House At Washington Post Cooking School Session

Red and White Salad Proves Most Popular

By Dorothea Duncan.

FRANKFURTERS stuffed with cheese and wrapped in crisp bacon won a round of applause at The Post Cooking School in Washington Auditorium yesterday afternoon. Pork tenderettes, surrounded by bananas baked to a golden brown, got a big hand. But a red and white salad, made in a ring mold and garnished with pimientoes, brought down the house.

In the "Parade of the Foods," which concluded the day's demonstrations, Miss Ruth Chambers, of the National Live Stock and Meat Board, displayed these and many other delicacies on revolving tables, each with a tilted mirror behind it and a spotlight playing on it. Each dish displayed was applauded, but the favorites were easily discernible as the handclapping rose to an enthusiastic crescendo. The "Parade of the Foods" will be a feature of the two remaining sessions this afternoon and tomorrow evening.

Miss Chambers opened the program with a demonstration of how to cook a French rib roast. This was a standing roast, with the rib ends cut off because, as the speaker explained, the thinner slices of meat between the ribs cook so quickly that they are dried out before the roast itself is done. After they had been cut off, the meat was stripped down from the bone for 3 or 4 inches to allow the rib ends to protrude. When the finished roast was taken from the oven, Miss Chambers garnished it with rosettes of sliced beets and strips of carrots. Miss Chambers suggested decorating the tips of the ribs with paper frills.

Proper Cooking Emphasized.

"Any meat can be made palatable if it is properly cooked."

That is Miss Chambers' theme song, and she repeated it at yesterday's session.

"You can take a piece of shank of beef and by cooking it long and slowly, have a most delectable dish," she said.

She suggested calves' hearts for economy because there is little demand for them. But they are delicious if prepared properly, she said, and proved it by cooking three of them. These were stuffed and served around a mound of rice, garnished with sprigs of parsley.

The tenderettes that the crowd liked so well were made from shoulder of pork.

"And insist on getting the shoulder," Miss Chambers told her audience. "If you don't, the butcher may try to give you the loin, which is a more expensive cut, but not at all necessary for this particular dish."

The strips of pork were wrapped in slices of bacon and served with baked bananas.

A two-tone meat loaf was another item on the program. One layer of ham and one of veal made an appetizing contrast. Recipes for this and every other dish prepared are contained in leaflets distributed at each session.

But not all the day was devoted to meat cookery. Miss Chambers made doughnuts from a recipe which is not too rich to serve to children, and so easy to follow that even an amateur cook can't go wrong.

Uses Bananas in Recipes.

She used bananas in several recipes and tipped off her audience on a way to keep them from turning brown when they must be skinned some time before serving. Cooks have always known that lemon juice will prevent discoloration, she said, but recently it has been discovered that canned pineapple juice serves the purpose even better.

A cherry cobbler was one of the most colorful dishes of the day. Biscuit dough on the bottom of the pan, cherries on top of that, more dough and a luscious sauce completed that delectable dessert.

During the intermission, Paul A. Goeser demonstrated the various cuts of meat the butcher can provide and instructed the audience in the use of each. His appearance is one of the features of the school, and will be repeated at the two remaining sessions.

When Miss Chambers asked for questions, she literally was showered with them. More than 100 women wanted to know how to fry pork chops so they will be tender, how to remove the skin from liver, and how to make coffee so that even a husband will admit it is good. Some of these questions Miss Chambers answered. The rest will be answered in The Post next week.

46 Prizes Presented.

Presentation of prizes was begun as soon as Miss Chambers concluded her demonstration. Although 46 awards were made, the procedure was carried out so efficiently that the audience was able to leave the hall by 4:30.

Mrs. F. D. Akers, 5912 Twelfth street northwest, expressed delight in winning an electric toaster.

"I suppose everyone in the world has a toaster," she said, "but I've never owned one and I'm awfully glad to have it."

Mrs. Elizabeth Rooney, 2020 Monroe street northeast, says this is her lucky week. She received the much prized electric mixer at the opening session and on Tuesday a basket of food.

Nearly 100 gifts remain to be awarded at the two remaining sessions. The concluding session has been set for the evening to accommodate many business women and men employed during the day.

Cooking School Sidelights

AMONG the interested spectators at The Post Cooking School in Washington Auditorium, Wednesday afternoon, were Peggy Staats, 2215 H street northwest, and Gertrude King, 604 Twenty-first street northwest. They attended in the hope of taking home a prize for mother. They are particularly interested in Miss Chambers' demonstrations, they said, because they take home economics at Gordon Junior High School. "We like that course," they confided eagerly, "because when we make things, we're allowed to eat them."

A 3-year-old provided the biggest laugh of the afternoon. When John Heiney, of The Post staff, began the distribution of prizes, he made a bee-line for the platform, ready to accept his share. Mr. Heiney told him gently that the presents were for the ladies and he raced back to his mother as fast as his plump little legs could carry him, while the crowd applauded.

Mrs. W. H. Young thinks every bride should attend Miss Chambers' lectures. "I have only been married a year," she said, "and I am trying to be as successful in the role of cook as I was as an office worker. This cooking school is helping me to succeed."

Another bride, Mrs. W. T. Hastings, agreed. "All the suggestions are so practical," she said, "the recipes are easy to prepare because they are not too elaborate."

Mrs. C. M. Stevens, 1753 N street northwest, got a big laugh when she received her award—a reducing treatment. "I don't know just what I'll do with it, but I appreciate it anyway," she said. From which you can gather that she has one of those figures that plumper sisters envy.

Mrs. Evelyn Lansdale, 3136 P street northwest, nearly lost out on her gift. She was so stunned, she confided, that she could hardly raise her voice to claim it. "It's the first prize I ever won in my life," she said.

Women who attend the cooking school lose no time in trying out the recipes. On Tuesday Miss Chambers showed how to make banana bundles. On Wednesday she received the following note: "I went home and tried out the bundles and the family agrees that they are delicious."

Anna and Elizabeth Grambo, of 1007 H street, students in St. Patrick's High School, attended yesterday's session with their mother and enjoyed it because they both take a hand in helping with the cooking at home. "All five of my children are expert cooks," Mrs. Grambo said. "The boys are just as good at it as the girls."

Yesterday afternoon's session got off to a laughing start. The first thing the audience saw as the curtain raised, was a pair of trim, white ankles scurrying across the stage. They belonged to Miss Dorothy Thomsen, Miss Chambers' assistant, who had stopped to take a last-minute look in the oven and did not manage to get offstage in time.

The two attractive brunettes who conducted the Parade of the Foods in bright red satin capes and hats are Margaret Molster and Virginia Herron. The performance, one of the high lights of the school, will be repeated at the two remaining sessions.

Balanced Diet Chief Concern Of the Chinese

Dairy Products' High Cost Makes Meals Low in Protein Content.

CHINESE women, who, almost without exception, are blessed with "perfectly proportioned figures," have no need for reducing diets. Retaining their slenderness and excellent posture even into old age, almond-eyed daughters of the East are not so much concerned with removing avoirdupois as with balancing diets for themselves and their babies.

After a year's experience as dietary director at the Peiping Medical School Hospital, Miss Katherine Mitchell, president-elect of the National Dietetic Association, now meeting at the Mayflower, has accumulated interesting data on Chinese dietary needs.

"The greatest lack in the ordinary Chinese meal is protein foods," said the youthful-looking blonde, Miss Mitchell. "The meager use of dairy products makes it low in calcium salts. The high cost of meats, milk and eggs place them out of the reach of the average Chinese family. Those who have such products sell them off to the only class that can afford balanced meals."

Chinese girls are truly beautiful in face as well as figure, says Miss Mitchell. She found the Chinese nurses in the Peiping hospital charming to work with, unselfish in their devotion to duty and possessing delightful senses of humor.

Began Training in Iowa.

Beginning her training as a graduate of the University of Iowa, Miss Mitchell served for a time as student dietitian at the Peter Bent-Brigham Hospital in Boston, graduating later to the position of director of dietetics at the Michael Reese Hospital in Chicago.

Taking a year's leave of absence from the latter institution, Miss Mitchell, who will be next year's president of the National Dietetic Association, was sent by the Rockefeller Foundation to Peiping to make a special dietary study.

She is author of a text book, "Food in Health and Disease," which came off the press while she was in the Orient, and which Miss Mitchell describes as "very dull reading," but which, nevertheless, is now enthusiastically studied by student nurses and their instructors in some of the leading hospitals of the country.

This BUSINESS of LIVING

By Mary Haworth.

DEAR MISS HAWORTH: The letter signed "Peg" in last Friday's column interested as well as amused me.

Perhaps "Peg" would like to have one man's opinion on her plight. I am willing to venture an answer, since I believe a man can best understand and explain such perplexing problems to a woman.

I believe "Peg" is either too stiff or too formal; not an easy mixer; too impossible toward men. Now, in this modern age, or, for that matter, in any age, if a girl acts in a forbidding manner, no man is going to waste much time on her.

• • • •

"Peg" contends she has lots of virtue and many accomplishments. I am willing to assume that is true. Even so, she is up against a serious social problem—that of the inescapable loneliness of a great city. In every big city, one can be terribly lonely and find it almost impossible to strike up any worthwhile acquaintanceships. In a city of 10,000,000, like New York, I find myself terribly lonely.

• • • •

To make acquaintance in a new environment, one has to unbend. In other words, a person of "Peg's" type should use more practical sense and less theorizing. Every worth-while young man is working hard nowadays to hold his job; or is studying hard to better his position, and money nowadays is none too plentiful—as you well know—in spite of all the millions of dollars issued every day at the Bureau of Engraving.

• • • •

Furthermore, "Peg," like hundreds of her type, is butting against a formality which, in my opinion, is too absurd. I have met girls who never hesitated to talk to me as long as 15 minutes—without introduction—to sell me some bric-a-brac at a church bazaar or a social affair. Yet, those same girls would never speak to me at a dance, say, if I had not been formally introduced.

I can sympathize with "Peg" right enough. She must realize that in Washington women outnumber men 8 to 1. Yet there are a few men available who would be delighted to meet such a wonderful girl as "Peg" describes herself.

• • • •

One thing she should bear in mind (I forget what age she gave in her letter) and that is: Young men in the early twenties have little sense. I know ten years ago I would not have been able to write a letter like this, nor would I have paid any attention to "Peg's" letter. Most girls dream of their ideal man as being 21 to 24, at the most, just because they themselves happen to be of that age. They fail to realize that women mature more quickly than men, and that a girl of 24 has the mental and physical maturity of a man 34. For that reason, "Peg" should try to meet men more settled in mind and habits.

• • • •

There is nothing more repellent to a man than an overly intellectual woman. Men do not look for intellect in a woman, not too much of it, that is. They do not want a feeble minded girl, of course, but on the other hand, man would prefer a dumbbell to a woman who thinks too highly of her intellect.

Subjects entirely masculine, such as finance, economics, politics, engineering, and the like should be left entirely alone by women. A man is not too prone to listen to a woman's holding forth on these subjects.

ANONYMOUS.

We Take Issue With You.

DEAR ANONYMOUS: And now that we have heard you out, I take issue with your arbitrary arraignment of girls who stand on ceremony in the matter of adding men to their calling lists; and with your dogmatic statements that young men in their early twenties necessarily have little sense; that most girls' conception of the ideal man is one their own age; that only an older man can make a girl happy by giving her a home and becoming her lifetime companion; and that intellect in woman is repellent to all men.

• • • •

A formal introduction is no empty conventional gesture, to be slavishly obeyed as such. Rather it is, or should be, one person's indorsement of another's proven moral and social integrity, in offering that second person as candidate for friendship with a third.

Men in their early twenties have been known to wear old heads on young shoulders and to display judgment, knowledge, wisdom, initiative and resourcefulness which rightly placed them in high places in business, the arts and sciences, and even yielded them rich dividends of personal happiness in the emotional realm.

• • • •

Many girls do picture the ideal man as one of their own age, but many more see him as a sophisticated man of the world, who knows his way socially, emotionally and professionally. Few are the really attractive girls who haven't, one time or another, tossed a suitor of contemporary age overboard in favor of some Lothario, 10 or 20 years older.

Some of the happiest marriages have been those growing out of romantic adolescent passion, and some of the most miserable those in which a young girl married an older man for the material comfort he could provide her. So, again, your pronouncement doesn't hold.

• • • •

As for intellect in women being repellant to all men, what about such famous fascinators as George Sand, Cleopatra, Ninon de L'Enclos, Mme. Recamier, Aspasia, the Queen of Sheba—to mention just a few. Isn't it an historically established fact that it was intellect, rather than purely sensory appeal, which gave these women power over men and made their names immortal? M. H.

Chinese Girls Turning Thoughts to College

By Virginia Lee Warren.

COLLEGE-BRED women are coming into their own in China. Today a bachelor of arts degree has as much social significance for a Chinese girl as it has for an American.

Well-to-do Chinese parents are as eager as American fathers and mothers for their daughters to obtain higher education and, incidentally, higher social standing.

But, while college training has long been held desirable for girls in the United States, it is only within the last few years that China has looked upon it with favor.

Dr. Wang in City.

Dr. Lucy Wang, president of Hwa Nan College in Foochow, can remember when Chinese institutions of higher learning almost had to pay girls of good families to attend them.

"But all that's changed now," said Dr. Wang yesterday at the Roosevelt Hotel, as she rested between sessions of the Methodist Woman's Foreign Missionary Society's annual meeting at Foundry Methodist Church.

"Now our colleges are crowded," she continued. "We have raised the tuition at Hwa Nan several times. Still the girls come. We have almost 200 of them at present, including students in the preparatory school."

Science courses, especially premedical work, are the most popular among this serious-minded majority, according to Dr. Wang, one of two women college presidents in China. A graduate of the University of Michigan, she speaks perfect English.

After science courses the thing most in demand at Hwa Nan is teachers' training.

Many Jobs Open.

"There are so many jobs for teachers in China," explained the educator. "Here you have a surplus of teachers. There we have a scarcity. In China it is not a question of finding a job. It is a question of choosing among the many jobs offered."

While most of the graduates plan to put their training to practical use, the number of girls who attend college purely for social and cultural advantages is increasing year after year.

"We've never had any trouble getting students from the poor and middle-class families," said Dr. Wang. "Many of them went through school on scholarships. Education was a business with them. They needed it to earn their living. But until recently wealthy parents thought it a disgrace if their daughters went outside their homes to school. Now they are proud to have them go."

A student at Hwa Nan leads a quiet existence in comparison with the life of an American college girl. The Chinese collegienne must get her education without the broadening influence of football games, fraternity dances, and Saturday night dates.

She receives her masculine admirer on Saturday afternoons, but instead of going to the movies or to a cocktail party or motoring, they spend the time quietly at her home, at his home, or at the school.

Ape Western Girls.

Dr. Wang's students cling to their native dress but they manage to adapt it to Western styles.

"When your skirts are short, ours are short too," smiled the youthful president of Hwa Nan. "We all bobbed our hair a few years ago. Now many of the girls are letting it grow long again. They have heard that is the new style."

IF OCTOBER 18 is your birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m., from 3 to 5 p. m. and from 8 to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 7 to 9 a. m., from 1 to 3 p. m. and from 6 to 8 p. m.

On this October 18 it will prove wisdom to avoid expressing any opinion that might be construed as radical. Influences conducive to the creating of quarrelsome or belligerent dispositions should be guarded against. Intuition may save you from making a mistake that might prove costly, so it may pay you to be guided in your actions by the sense that instinctively tells you what is the right course to pursue. There are excellent possibilities prevailing for money-making opportunities being presented.

If a woman and October 18 is your natal day, you are very discriminating as to your friends, environment, books and wearing apparel. A decidedly artistic disposition makes you acutely sensitive to things lacking a finished touch. You might find it restful to indulge in flowers, as they should have a very soothing influence over you. Interior decorating, florist work, designing, sketching or a musical career all offer opportunities to one of your temperament. Married life should also appeal to you, as you require love to be perfectly contented.

If a man, and October 18 is your birthday, you are blessed with a personality that inspires confidence. Mentally and physically alert, as well as advanced in your reasoning, a professional or business career in which brains count will enable you to achieve success. You should find married life not only helpful in a business way, but instrumental for your having a great deal of contentment.

Diet Experts Guests at Tea

VISITING DIETITIANS attending the annual meeting of the American Dietetic Association were entertained at tea yesterday in the Pan-American room of the Mayflower by the woman's department of The Washington Post. The guests were received by Miss Malvina Lindsay, editor of The Post's woman's page, and by Miss Duncan.

Among those who attended the tea were Miss Mary Barber, dietitian for the Kellogg Co.; Miss M. Marie Mount, head of the home economics department at the University of Maryland; Miss Mary M. New Gloves Present Many Varied Styles

By Ruth Anne Davis.

ALL those who wonder what kind of gloves to wear with certain suits and dresses have only to pay a visit to the glove department of a downtown store to find out.

It must have taken ingenuity plus to design so many gloves, and all of them high bidders for chic. It certainly takes a strong will and weak purse to see them all and buy only one pair!

The sports woman may revel. Here are gloves in all colors and of such a variety of material and design that she can pick a pair for golf, horseback riding, football games, polo matches and any other sporting event known to man. Perhaps the next best thing to the gloves themselves is the price—conservatively low.

There are some boucles that will add another dash of smartness to the smartest boucle suit. Unlike many similar gloves these fit the hands like paper on the wall with never a bulge and a wrinkle to mar their perfect streamline. They're available in navy, black and brown.

Duvetyns are fast breaking into the suede monopoly. While these are fabric, they look like suede and have the added advantage of never wearing shiny. They're quite soft and close-fitting. Take your choice of black, brown or green.

Some Scotland wool boucles have a wide flaring cuff which will give just that something or other to a plain sweater suit. They're in white, brown and beaver.

Football gloves are stealing a march in campus circles. These have fingers one color, and palms another with cuffs a blend of both.

Dish Mats in Demand.

With old man winter lurking around the corner, and plenty of nice hot dishes in the offing, it's no small wonder that hundreds of shoppers already are on the lookout for substantial dish mats to protect their tables from the heat.

The notion department of a local store has some that are as lovely to look at as they are practical to use.

They have those delicately colored Venetian scenes that suit them for use right on the table (you know the other type you slip surreptitiously under the cloth hoping no one will see them but yourself!) There are others covered with a material looking like antique silver.

Sunshine Skin Lotion.

A smooth skin lotion is made of many ingredients, but most interesting of all is the sunshine with which it is irradiated.

It is rubbed over the face to serve as a powder base. While it holds the powder on it is softening and whitening the skin.

This kind of arrangement is highly satisfactory to many who object to retiring nightly with their faces smeared with creams and lotions. They enjoy wearing this lotion during the day and letting it work for them in the meantime.

Soap for Children.

An imported soap is especially for children. Lest there should be any mistaking its purpose, it is made up in clever little shapes that are bound to tickle any one under 10 years of age.

First of all, there are the three little kittens whom, the story says, are "looking for their mittens." And then there are six little kittens sitting on a fence looking as though they'd take to a tub of nice warm water in the most mannerly way.

But variety continues. There are even soap dominoes. And guess—soap pianos, miniature things that might fit a doll house.

All of these are made from an exceptionally fine soap which won't injure a child's tender skin or in any way bother the dozens of scratches and cuts children always acquire.

Original Sachet Arrangement.

Sachet balls, royal silken looking things, are a mass of gloss strings completely covering the fragrant ball and hanging down below in a ten-inch tassel.

A little fixture on the top gives an easy means for hanging it up in the closet—or it may be kept in the lingerie drawer.

So far no other sachet arrangement has slightly resembled this one. In a world where there seems sometime to be so little that's new, it is breathtakingly original as well as lovely.

Electric Cigarette Lighter.

What appears at first glance to be a miniature beer jug turns out on closer inspection to be an electric cigarette lighter.

The body is a dull brownish tan pottery which won't break, no matter how hard it falls. The top section is a heavy silvery metal. When it's lifted it discloses the lighter section which begins to heat the minute the top goes up.

Side-Fastening Coat Emphasizes Slim Hips

Pattern No. 596.

WINTER is hovering over us, just waiting for an opportune moment to swoop down. Those who have been dawdling over the selection of a winter coat should postpone that important matter no longer. If it's a good pattern they have been waiting for, the one shown should head them for the nearest fabric counter.

The front wraps to the side—the best place for a coat to fasten when flat-looking slenderness is desired. The sleeves are snug enough to look trim, wide enough to be comfortable, and the black panel is attractively shaped.

Ribbed woolen is the suggested fabric. The pattern is cut in sizes 32 to 46. Size 40 requires 4⅞ yards of 54-inch fabric.

How to Keep Well

Why the Tissues Swell.

BY swelling we understand that an abnormal amount of fluid has accumulated in the skin or in the tissue beneath. This is called edema or dropsy.

Sometimes edema is caused by inflammation. We are all familiar with the swelling that occurs in the vicinity of a boil. In such a condition bacterial inflammation has brought about a dilation of the capillaries with a pouring out of fluid from the blood. We are also familiar with the swelling that occurs if a rubber band or string is wound snugly around the finger. As a result of this procedure the return flow of venous blood is stopped.

One of the fairly common causes of swelling of the feet, ankles and lower legs is the failure of the heart muscle to function normally. Whenever the heart does not pump blood through the circulating vessels with adequate power there is a slowing of the return flow. Failure of the heart may be caused by weakness of the muscle, or by improper functioning of the valves. This form of swelling is called circulatory edema. The patient usually complains of inability to take a full breath, and may notice that he tires easily.

In the earliest stages of circulatory edema swelling of the feet, noted in the evening disappears after a night's rest in bed. After weeks or months or even a longer period the patient may notice that in the morning swelling of the ankles and feet has not entirely disappeared.

During the World War there were numerous cases of a peculiar type of edema that was found to be merely a food deficiency. It has since been learned that if an individual is deprived of protein, swelling of the tissues may follow. In practically all cases of this kind, if the patient is fed proper amounts of proteins and fats the edema disappears.

Rats Still Remain In Hamelin Village

The Pied Piper did a lot more than lure rats and children into the river with his magical music. He brought enduring prosperity to the little German town of Hamelin.

To this day tourists from all over the world seek out the quaint setting of the famed legend. And Hamelin is ready for them. Rats, in every form except their usual one, are all over the place. The picture of a rat greets the traveler if he even peers inside the railroad station. Road signs directing motorists to Hamelin are decorated with paintings of the Piper.

The town's chief pride, however, is a clock in the public square which seldom gives the correct time but invariably puts on a good show every 60 minutes. The performance takes place on a revolving platform after the clock has opened automatically. First the Piper appears on the stage-like platform. Next come the rats and finally, the children.

Child Chats

Overcoming the Ordeal of Bidding Good-by to Your Child.

By Alice Fox Pitts.

"WHAT CAN be done with a 2-year-old who cries every time his mother leaves him?" a correspondent asks.

My advice is to leave him more often.

If he is left in capable hands, he will be entirely happy in your absence, and it is only the habit of your companionship that he misses. Since the memory of leaving him wracked with sobs will ruin your afternoon at bridge or in the shops, it is far better to reconcile him to your departure, so that he permits it with equanimity.

Let him know when you are going out, talk to him about it while you lay out your hat and coat and street dress. At 2 years old, most children can not talk much, but they understand almost everything.

If you try to slip away unbeknown to him, he will sense the subterfuge and follow your every step. Instead of that, have the person in whose care he is to stay take him by the hand and lead him to the garage, while you take out the car, or to the corner where you are to take a bus or street car. Encourage his interest in the motion and the noise of the car so that presently he forgets about you. Wave good-by and teach him to wave back, and "good-by" becomes a game instead of an ordeal.

The training is slow work, but carried out intelligently and persistently, it will be effective.

(Saturday: Halloween Parties).

Contributions to this column are welcome and will be published without the correspondent's name if so indicated. Address Alice Fox Pitts, in care of The Washington Post.

JENNIFER HALE

By Bob Eden

Wanted in connection with the murder of David Corey in Los Angeles, Jennifer Hale changes her name to Mary Dixon and takes a boat to Seattle. Shipwrecked, she escapes in a lifeboat with a man named Kent Severn and, on arrival in Seattle, he offers her a job in his father's lumber company. She takes a room in a boarding house and the landlady, in making her at home, gives her the day's newspaper. Now go on with the story.

WITH the paper in her hand, Mary wandered around her new home, shivering when she passed the green curtains. At home green curtains, now here more green ones. The same bilious green, except that Aunt Cornelia's curtains were not faded, nor soiled. At least the curtains should have warned her—if Mrs. Bennett hadn't.

Well, she had to make the best of it. Some day, if everything went well—she caught her breath sharply as she said that to herself—she could move, but for the present she had to stay here. As soon as she could spare the money she was going to take down the green curtains, the memory of which was so bitter, and put up others—something bright and gay.

Money. She went to the davenport and, sitting down, found it none too comfortable. Money. The diamond hadn't brought as much as she thought it would. Thirty dollars, and the pawn ticket in her purse. She took it out and looked at it. It was the first time she had ever had a pawn ticket, and she was curious.

Budget Considered.

Ten dollars to Mrs. Bennett, $5 yet to be paid for her room at the hotel—that would leave her $20. All her worldly wealth. Everything. Not very great if an emergency came up, or if when she went down tomorrow to report at the Severn Lumber Co. Kent Severn decided he didn't want her to work there.

There was no clock in the apartment, so she didn't know what time it was. Nine o'clock when she found the pawn shop and entered it, but that must have been over an hour ago.

Her hand touched Mrs. Bennett's paper and she picked it up reluctantly. All morning she had been fighting with herself about buying a paper, not to see what was said about the Grace Larsen survivors, but to see if there was any news of—Jennifer Hale. The fear that conditions were the same in the South had kept her from buying one last night after landing, and this morning. She longed to look at a paper, and yet she was afraid.

Shipwreck Recounted.

Going to the door, she slipped the bolt, and then came back to the couch and the paper. The newsprint crackled in her hands as she took it up. The first page was given over entirely to the Grace Larsen. The second page was filled with pictures of the survivors. Mary recognized herself standing next to a large woman bundled up in a blanket, but she was confident that nobody but herself would know her. The face of the girl in the dark-brimmed hat was blurred. On the third page was a list of passengers. The name Mary Dixon, Seattle, was among them.

Nothing yet about Jennifer Hale. Feverishly she turned another page and found herself staring at a picture of herself. For a moment she couldn't understand why Jennifer Hale was wearing a beret and a two-piece suit, because she had never been photographed in that outfit; then she knew that a clever artist must have reproduced the clothes in which she had run away on an old snapshot.

Description Given.

Above the picture was the caption, "Have You Seen This Girl?" Underneath, "Jennifer Hale, missing Los Angeles girl, whom the grand jury is expected to indict today for the murder of David Corey. Jennifer is 21 years old, pretty, with brown eyes and dark brown, short, natural curly hair, which she wears parted in the center. Height, 5 feet 3 inches, weight, 107 pounds. When she left home she was wearing a brown beret, a yellow two-piece jersey suit trimmed in brown wooden buttons, brown pumps, size 4B, and was carrying a small black dressing case."

The paper fell from Mary's hands onto the floor, and she let it lie there awhile. When she gathered a little strength, she picked it up, and forced herself to read the story at the right of the picture.

"Los Angeles, Sept. 5.—The revolver that killed David Corey, wealthy Los Angeles real estate dealer, bears the fingerprints of Jennifer Hale. Police confirmed this fact early this morning when fingerprints on the gun were compared to fingerprints in the home of Cornelia Hale, aunt of Jennifer, with whom the girl lived. A dozen articles in the girl's room were marked with fingerprints that were identical to those on the gun."

Complete Story Told.

There was more, and Mary Dixon was sobbing before she got half through the story. There was what she had read in San Francisco Saturday—that Jennifer Hale was the last visitor David Corey had had, that she had been seen leaving his apartment by the stairs instead of the elevator. There was the damning fact, reiterated a dozen times in the story, that she had fled from her aunt's house before the police came to talk to her. There was Parker Ives' tale, with Ben Sherman's, about how they had found Corey, and how Ives had telephoned Jennifer to tell her of Corey's death.

It was all there—even the statement of the elevator boy who had come up with the telegram and found her quarreling with David.

But the fingerprints—again and again she read the first paragraph. How could her fingerprints be on the gun that killed David? The thought had never entered her mind to kill him! Quarrel with him, yes, but kill him—it was fantastic!

Had Handled Revolver.

Then she remembered what she had forgotten until that moment. Friday night in David's apartment, she had handled his revolver! It had been lying on his desk. She recalled even the feel of the weapon as she sat staring at the green curtains. The handle hard, cold—the way her fingers slid around it——

The Severn offices were pleasant and roomy. From her desk Mary could see the sound with its fringe of docks and warehouses, and farther on, its fringe of fir trees edging almost into the water. She could see boats riding into the harbor, and when the day was clearer, she could make out people on their decks; and the names on their bows.

Pleasant, too pleasant, for when she was looking out onto the water that was bluer than the sky, she forgot what she should have remembered every moment, that two days ago Jennifer Hale was indicted in Los Angeles by the grand jury for the murder of David Corey. That the police in every city of the United States had complete descriptions of her and pictures of her, for Jennifer Hale was still among the missing.

Feeling of Freedom.

Even in Seattle the police must have pictures, and yet she could come and go as she pleased. She could leave the Thornley Arms at 8:30 in the morning, take a street car for town, get off the crowded car at Spring street, at 10 minutes of 9, and walk two blocks down hill to the building where the Severn Lumber Co. occupied the tenth and eleventh floors.

She could leave for lunch at 5 minutes after 12, either alone or with one of the girls, go down the elevators, into a cafeteria for lunch. She could even shop a bit at noon. She had yesterday. She had bought a raincoat and a pair of hose. She could go back into the building at 5 minutes of 1 and leave at 5:30, again taking the street car for the Thornley Arms. She could pass a dozen policemen on the streets and none of them would glance her way.

Yesterday a policeman had frightened her by calling her back to the sidewalk when she was starting across the street against traffic, but he had only been doing his duty. He didn't know she was Jennifer Hale. To him she was only a silly female who paid no attention to signals.

U. S. Anxiously Seeks Decision On Gold Clause

(Associated Press.)

Emphasizing that billions of dollars and "perhaps even the financial stability of the National Government" are involved in the question of the validity of the act suspending gold payments, the United States sought yesterday to support this law by bringing to the Supreme Court a case now pending in the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals, without waiting for that court to act on it.

The case arose out of the gold clause in bonds issued by the St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern Railway, which is now in the hands of receivers. Some of the holders are demanding payment in gold or its equivalent in currency.

Serious Nature Emphasized.

The Government emphasized that the matter is a serious one, since, should the gold clause be sustained, debtors would have to pay $1.69 in present lawful money for each $1 borrowed. This would arise from the fact that every dollar at present is backed by only 59.06 cents as much gold as before the devaluation.

Of added significance in the present case is the fact that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation advanced $23,134,800 to the railroad, taking as security bonds subordinate to the gold mortgage bonds.

Should gold payment be required, the Government fears the RFC's chances of recovering its loan would be materially decreased as would its own chances of getting from the railroad $5,000,000 claimed for unpaid taxes.

The Federal District Court at St. Louis sustained the act suspending gold payments, declaring it was impossible in fact and in law to make such payments.

Similar Case Up.

Solicitor General Biggs of the Justice Department, in his action yesterday, stated the Government desires to have the railroad case considered by the Supreme Court when it hears oral arguments in a similar case by Norman C. Norman, holder of a Baltimore & Ohio gold bond, which case the court has consented to review.

"Billions of dollars of Government securities, more than $21,000,000,000 as of March 1, 1934, now outstanding, are affected by the issue," Biggs stated in his brief.

"Billions of dollars in securities of railroads, industries, States, cities, &c., are likewise affected. Great numbers of private citizens owe large sums of money evidenced by mortgages, notes and other obligations containnig the so-called gold clause.

"The total of all such gold clause obligations issued and outstanding in this country is estimated by responsible persons at from $90,000,000,000 to $125,000,000,000. The solvency of many citizens, industries and local governments, perhaps even the financial stability of the National Government, may be affected by the determination of this great issue."

Milk License Power Of AAA Is Held Void

Oklahoma City, Oct. 17 (U.P.). Federal Judge Edgar S. Vaught late today held that powers Congress gave the Agricultural Adjustment Administration to license milk dealers were unconstitutional and void.

Vaught's decision was on a plea of some 200 Oklahoma City area independent milk dealers for an injunction against the AAA, which was seeking to require licenses. The judge held the license requirement was an unauthorized interference with the police powers of the State.

He reached the conclusion that production and sale of milk in the Oklahoma City area are wholly intrastate in their nature and that they do not affect, interfere with or burden interstate commerce.

1 Dies, 1 Hurt In Car Crash Near Crozet

Worker Crushed Under Stone at Quarry in Unionville.

Waynesboro, Va., Oct. 17 (Spl.).—James Keenan, 40, was instantly killed, and Hansford M. Hutchens, 50, was critically injured when a light truck, said to have been driven by Keenan, crashed into a telephone pole near Crozet about 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Both men have been engaged in the paint business here for a number of years. Keenan is survived by his wife and eight children. Hutchens is married and has four children.

According to witnesses, the truck appeared to be wobbling as it traveled west on Jefferson Highway entering Crozet, and suddenly left the road and crashed into a pole. Hutchens was rushed to the University Hospital, where little hope was held for his recovery.

Man Killed by Truck.

Winchester, Va., Oct. 17 (Spl.).—Thomas Crouse, about 40, was killed instantly last night when he fell beneath the wheels of a heavily loaded lumber truck, about 20 miles from here near the Frederick County, Va., line.

Crouse had jumped off the truck to open a gate. As he did so, he slipped and fell directly in the moving vehicle's path. Before the truck, said to have been driven by Irving Hammock, could be stopped, it passed directly over him. Chester Buckwalter, owner of the truck, was the only other occupant and eyewitness to the tragedy.

The coroner of Hampshire County, at Romney, W. Va., today pronounced the tragedy accidental and exonerated the two men of blame.

Mummert Funeral Today.

Westminster, Md., Oct. 17 (Spl.).—Funeral services for Harry Mummert, 60, of near Lineboro, Carroll County, who was fatally injured when he was struck by an automobile near Hanover, Pa., Monday, will be held Thursday at Hanover.

Mr. Mummert sustained a fractured skull, and other injuries, when he was struck by a machine allegedly driven by Maurice W. Wentz, of Brodbecks, Pa. He is held under $1,000 bond on a charge of assault by automobile, pending the outcome of a coroner's inquest.

Mr. Mummert is survived by his wife, Mrs. Emma J. Mummert, six sons, and three daughters.

Crushed by Stone.

Frederick, Md., Oct. 17 (Spl.).—Lewis Rumsport, 55, was instantly killed and a negro working by his side narrowly escaped a similar fate when a half-ton boulder became dislodged in the State roads commission stone quarry near Unionville today rolled down the side of the quarry and crushed him.

Warning that the boulder was about to fall was sounded by Foreman William Hobbs, but Rumsport slipped as he atempted to get out of its path.

Mr. Rumsport is survived by his wife and one child.

Valley Popcorn Parties Doomed As Drought Lifts Crop Prices

Because Farmers Can Get Up to $20 Per Hundred Pounds, Something Else Must Provide Cheer on Winter Evenings.

Hagerstown, Md., Oct. 17 (Spl.).—This winter will see the passing, temporarily at least, of the popcorn parties, famous for over a century in Cumberland Valley rural homes on wintry nights. For popcorn now is worth almost its weight in silver.

But the drought in the Middle West, where virtually all the commercial popcorn is grown, wiped out the entire crop.

Farmers here, whose popcorn has increased in value from 75 cents to $20 a hundred pounds, are planning to substitute something else for their fireside parties this winter, and sell their crop.

She also served as president of the local chapters of the United Daughters of the Confederacy and Memorial Association.

Jobs Guarded

Workers in Strike Assured of Aid in Martinsburg.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Oct. 17 (Spl.).—The committee of 75 citizens, banded to cope with the industrial strike situation here, reporting at a meeting last night, assured protection to those desiring to return to work at Interwoven Mills, Inc., and Berkeley Woolen Co.

Faced by the prospect of loss of the two plants, which employ 2,000 persons, the committee promised full safeguards. Gray Silver, prominent resident, announced that Gov. H. G. Kump had promised aid if needed. Earlier, heads of the two mills had announced that if immediate action was not forthcoming, the plants would be closed and moved elsewhere.

Attorney Clarence E. Martin, former president of the American Bar Association, was named permanent chairman of the committee. He vigorously addressed an overflow crowd at the courthouse, saying the law will be observed here.

Soviet Shifting To Capitalism, Says Lecturer

Allan Monkhouse, Tried for Sabotage, Sees Reversion From Communism.

Richmond, Oct. 17 (...).—Allan Monkhouse, the British engineer, who was one of the central figures in the sabotage and espionage trial in Moscow a year ago, said today that Russia is scrapping many of her Communistic principles and adopting capitalistic methods similar to those prevailing in the United States.

Monkhouse, who spent 17 of the past 23 years in Russia, came here today to lecture at the University of Richmond on "The Present Position of the U. S. S. R." He will speak again tomorrow on "The Economic Plans of the Soviet Government."

"The political system existing in Russia today," he told reporters, "certainly is not communism, in the true meaning of the word.

"Many of the communistic doctrines originally advocated by the Soviet have been discarded in the development of the country's industrial projects, and capitalistic methods of management, similar to methods employed in the United States and other capitalistic countries, have been adopted.

"The Soviet's program will succeed, but only because capitalistic methods have been substituted for communistic systems. The central committees have been abolished, and industrial activities are now directed by individuals.

"The Soviet abandoned its original plan of equal wages for all employes in classified groups. A workman's earnings now depend upon his ability and skill."

Grapplers' Grunts To Supplant Arias Of Bankrupt Opera

It is not intended for them to sing, but to wrestle—and draw needed revenue to the Lyric Theater, so that it can finance the operas.

So grunts may be heard in place of the notes of Mary Garden, Rosa Ponselle and Lawrence Tibbett, and mighty contortions may supplant for a time the rhythmic conducting of Toscanini, Stokowski and Koussevitsky.

Dr. Hugh H. Young, president of the theater, saw some wrestling last night. He asked James H. (Jack) Pollock, member of the State athletic commission, if he thought the sport could be lifted to the level of the Lyric. It would help, Pollock agreed.

Ritchie Promises Women Voters Welfare Program in Assembly

Baltimore, Oct. 17 (AP).—Discussion of proposed social legislation and of a comprehensive program of public welfare occupied today's session of the Maryland League of Women Voters convention.

Gov. Ritchie, a candidate for reelection, pledged that a definite program of unemployment insurance and similar social legislation will be presented to the 1935 general assembly if the Democratic ticket is named.

Broadus Mitchell, Socialist candidate for Governor, also spoke and attacked the Ritchie administration for its record in the banking situation, in the case of the two Eastern Shore lynchings, and on taxation. The present administration, he said, "is disgraceful."

Harry Greenstein, State relief administrator, and Judge Thomas J. S. Water of the Baltimore Juvenile Court spoke in favor of a more comprehensive State program of public welfare. They suggested a centralized board to take over all relief work.

Mrs. Charles E. Elliott, of Baltimore, was reelected president, a position she has held since 1921.

District directors named were Mrs. James B. Noble, Cambridge; Miss Mary E. Hopkins, Darlington; Mrs. John P. Guckert, Baltimore; Mrs. Ralph Bonwit, Baltimore; Mrs. Clarence E. Davis, Solomons, and Mrs. Walter E. Berry, Bethesda.

Two hundred bushels of choice Eastern Shore Maryland sweet potatoes have been sent to England to be used in "sampling" the British people in an effort to make them "sweet potato minded."

And the Marylanders have seen to it that the Britisher will taste the sweet potato in its most delicious form. In order that the sweet potatoes would assuredly be cooked in a proper manner, Seth P. Taylor, of Salisbury, Md., was sent to England by the Maryland Marketing Service and the Department of Agriculture to give expert advice in the preparation of dishes made from sweets.

Note—We didn't say that Mr. Taylor was sent over to do the cooking—simply to give expert advice.

Lawson did not win any great victory or accomplish any remarkable feat to gain the above title. All he did was simply "rise from the dead." It all happened quickly.

Lawson "died" during the weekend and arrangements were being made for his funeral. The minister was called in to aid the family in the selection of hymns to be sung at Lawson's final rites, and while the former was there the dead man came to life.

Rising out of his coffin, Lawson is reported to have started talking with members of his household while the latter in a state of fear were speechless. Lawson is said to have been the principal speaker for several minutes.

Mrs. J. A. McCauley, the former Mrs. Robert Haddix, of Davis, W. Va., has found her long-lost son.

Thirty years ago, Mr. Haddix deserted his wife, took his 17-month-old son with him and left the latter with a relative who knew nothing of the boy's mother. Some months ago James heard of his mother living in Davis. The son, now married, hastened to Davis to rekindle the family ties severed during his infancy. In the meantime, his father had died.

Mrs. Clarence Lindsay and Mrs. Leroy Jacobs, of Hagerstown, Md., sisters, feel that they have a claim on a room in Washington County Hospital.

About two weeks ago, Mrs. Jacobs was stricken with appendicitis and taken to the hospital for an operation. Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Jacobs was preparing to leave the institution when her sister, Mrs. Lindsay, was taken down with the same ailment. Mrs. Jacobs was removed from her room and Mrs. Lindsey mov in.

Among recent expense accounts presented to the Shenandoah County Board of Supervisors, at Woodstock, Va., was that for labor and fuel necessary for keeping a bull's funeral pyre going for 24 hours.

When the Shenandoah River overflowed its banks several months ago, a fine bull owned by Frank M. Fravel, of Redbank, Va., was swept along with the current, drowned and its carcass carried 21 miles. The carcass lodged on a small island in the middle of the river. It was impossible to get the bull ashore for burial, so a funeral pyre of wood and coal oil was started. It took 24 hours to cremate the animal.

Cure for Burns In Indian Herb, Physicians Say

Maryland Father and Son Report Success in X-Ray Cases.

Baltimore, Oct. 17 (AP).—Successful cure of X-ray burns by application of an herb used by the Seminole Indians of Florida has been reported here.

Dr. C. E. Collins and his son, Creston, of Crisfield, Md., described the efficiency of the herb in treating burns either from X-rays or fire, in a paper read before the radiological section of the Medical and Chirurgical faculty here.

Members of the faculty said the curative powers of the plant should be submitted to an "intensive investigation," as the only effective cure of X-ray burns at present is by skin grafting.

The younger Collins said he discovered the healing qualities of the plant while living on the edge of the Everglades last year.

He said Seminole Indians in that area had long used applications of the leaf of the aloe vera, a large, green, cactus-like plant, to cure fire burns. Instances of recovery so completely that scars were scarcely distinguishable were cited.

The Eastern Shore physicians described their experiments on treating X-ray burns with the plant as "amazing." The case of a woman who suffered burns about the forehead during an X-ray treatment was cited. The wound did not respond to treatment, but within 24 hours after application of the herb, the symptoms began to disappear, the doctors said. A complete cure within six weeks was reported.

The younger Collins reported the plant grows only in parts of Florida, the islands of the Caribbean and in South Africa. General use of the plant, he said, would require extensive cultivation, as the available supply is only about 200 pounds.

Prexy 'Fired,' Collegiates Stage Strike

Parade Banners Score 'Political Meddling' at Institution.

Morgantown, W. Va., Oct. 17 (AP).—West Virginia University's students quit their classes this morning in a one-day protest demonstration against the enforced retirement of President John Roscoe Turner.

Many classes were dismissed when less than half a dozen students appeared. Only the college of law remained in session with the normal attendance. Faculty members were on the job, but most classes did not attempt to hold formal sessions.

Freshmen paraded the campus, carrying banners urging all to join in the demonstration. Other signs read: "We resent political dabbling," "Unshackle our State university," "Pull us out of State politics."

Smith said:

"By the order of his reemployment on July 2, President Turner's term of office expires December 31, 1934, it is to be expected students will show him the respect due a retiring president."

President Turner himself charged a "political set-up" against him, asserting that the minutes of the seven-man board of governors, the university's administrative body, "show I was deposed by a straight Democratic-Republican vote."

The one-day walkout of students was ordered by the student organizations. Leaders emphasized the action was "not a strike," but "a dignified expression of resentment."

Mention John W. Davis To Succeed Dr. Turner

Fairmont, W. Va., Oct. 17 (AP).—The Times will say tomorrow the presidency of West Virginia University is to be offered to John W. Davis, New York attorney and the Democratic nominee in 1924 for the Presidency of the United States.

Davis is a West Virginian, and for many years practiced law in Clarksburg before going to New York.

"The university board already has under consideration the necessary machinery by which the institution can be operated indefinitely without a president," the Times will say in a column by its editor, C. E. Smith.

Commenting on the action of the board of governors of the university in reelecting President John Roscoe Turner for only six months, the term ending December 31, 1934, the paper will say:

"There is going to be no haste in picking a man. John W. Davis, who was once offered the presidency of the University of Virginia and seriously considered it, will be the first man approached."

It continues that the board of governors will meet within two weeks and issue a prepared statement at that time.

Chaplin Begins His So-Called "Picture No. 5" and Will Finish It Soon, Maybe

Ace Comedian Goes to Work Geared in High

By Nelson B. Bell.

Actual camera work finally has started on that eminent Thespian's, Mr. Charles Spencer Chaplin's, new film production which he still playfully and tentatively persists in calling his "Picture No. 5."

After all his work in short-reel subjects, ground out in the old Biograph days at the rate of one a week, one would be interested to learn where Mr. Chaplin began counting to make this one only No. 5!

After something that the press department of United Artists declares to be two years or more of intensive work on the script and settings for this one, the first shot was made a few days ago with Chaplin acting in the triple capacity of star, director and author.

A Very Funny Name.

"Picture No. 5," and this is almost as funny as its name, sets a precedent, so they say, in Chaplin productions in that it will be completed within three months. The comedian's last previous release, "City Lights," was more than a year in work.

But this time, Charlie has completely worked out every detail of production before beginning the "shooting," which means, his temperament being what it is, that he will work when he feels like it and his picture will be finished some time within the next year or two.

Miss Goddard Featured.

As recorded here on numerous previous occasions, Paulette Goddard, sometimes construed as the next chatelaine of the Chaplain establishment, has the leading feminine role opposite the star.

The settings, it is interesting to note, were designed by Willy Pogany, the eminent young artist who once berated the late David Belasco no end and compelled him to change a script of a Belasco play that referred to him, Mr. Pogany, in terms of slightly less respectful implication than he deemed his due.

"Picture No. 5," as goes without saying, will be released through United Artists, Mr. Chaplin being one of the bulwarks of that estimable and enterprising institutions.

Gene Lockhart, whose performance last winter as the inebriated reporter, Sid Davis, in the Theater Guild production of Eugene O'Neill's "Ah, Wilderness," won considerable acclaim, has gone Hollywood, the dream of all good actors, to lift a line from the telegraphically brief observations of the itinerant and literate Miss Helen Hoerle. Mr. Lockhart, it seems, has renounced the stage temporarily and will be seen in the RKO-Radio screen production of "By Your Leave," to be released shortly.

Did You Know:

That Warner Bros. Earle Theater will celebrate its fourth anniversary vaudeville frolic starting Friday?

That nearly 1,000 different acts have played the Earle during the four years of its present stage show policy?

That more than 8,000,000 people have seen those acts?

That 94,348,000 feet of film have been run through the projection machines to show the screen portions of these programs?

That entertainment furnished Washingtonians amounted to some 17,470 hours?

That if every ticket sold during the four years were placed end to end, they would make a path from Washington to Boston, with a sidejaunt to Atlantic City?

That over 31,000 different introductions have been made by Maxine Doyle, Gracie Barrie and Audrey Sieber, the three mistresses of ceremonies who have been at the Earle in its four years of vaudeville?

That 6,000,000 phone calls have been handled by the switchboard, most of which were to tell people when the feature began; that some 25,000 lost articles have been returned, a majority of which were gloves, with hats and umbrellas about tied for second place?

That 35,000 electric light bulbs, ranging from 10 watts to 1,000 watts, have been replaced in four years?

That the show which opens Friday, and which stars Maxine Doyle, Guy Kibbee and Paul Ash, with 50 other entertainers on the stage, is the most elaborate production ever offered at this theater?

Even with all that has been said here, and elsewhere, concerning the forthcoming—or should it be fourthcoming?—anniversary bill at the Earle, it is a safe assumption that much of this minute information had eluded perceptions not glued to the adding machines and mechanical comptometers.

Jack Mullane and Maurice Winthrop, two of the most energetic of the Capital's purely local entrepreneurs, are anxious to have it known that when they give their next soiree in the Swanee Ballroom tomorrow night, a special number by Fay Fern and Howard Coudry will be a feature of note. These dancers are rated high in their profession. They perform to "both" orthodox and "hot" tempos in music and are said to have a future as bright as one of Mr. Morgenthau's new dimes—if Mr. Morgenthau is putting out any new dimes.

That Banquet Again.

Additional committees announced for the first annual Variety Club banquet and gala vaudeville show at the Willard Hotel on November 24, were announced by John J. Payette, general chairman, last night.

New committees are: Advertising—Frank La Place, chairman; E. J. Haley and Norman Goldstein. Programs—Sidney Lust, chairman; George Gill, T. J. Clark and Dan Terrell. Out of town guests—Harry Hunter, chairman; Hunter Perry, E. Heiber and E. Jacobs. Decorations—Nat Glasser, chairman; Steve Cochran, A. J. Pratt, H. Blum, Guy Wonders, Gene Ford, W. E. S. Wilcox and Walter Cersley.

Boys Are Hard at It.

The plans for the banquet are progressing rapidly. Virtually every committee has begun to function. Carter Barron, head of the entertainment committee, has already put his committeemen to work and a great program of entertainment is promised, including stage, radio and screen talent.

Sam Wheeler, chairman of the ticket committee, reports that his captains are on the job. Already numerous requests for tickets have been filed with him.

Several members of the local tent visited Pittsburgh last Sunday to attend the National banquet. One of their purposes was to outdo the Pittsburgh affair, where they had 45 acts of vaudeville garnered from every field of entertainment.

This Variety Club rout, ladies and gentlemen, will be a party!

It is worthy of note that during the engagement of "The Gay Divorcee" at RKO-Keith's, beginning tomorrow, doors will be opened to the public at 10 a. m., with the first performance beginning at 10:05. This departure from the customary house schedule is deemed necessary as a practical compliance with an advance demand for accommodations to see this spirited musical film that already has manifested itself.

Anxious Inquiry Note.

Outside of aspirin, listerine, Vick's, hot applications, mustard baths, Trask's ointment, salt water gargles and a few visits to the doctor's, what do you do for an unseasonable attack of la grippe—or whatever it is?

'Gas' Price Change Is Called Unlikely

Official Sees More Hopeful Outlook in City.

A slightly more "hopeful" outlook for Washington gasoline dealers was seen by one official of the industry last night, with little possibility of an immediate change in prices.

More than 30 independent dealers throughout the city have posted a price of 13 cents for straight-run gasoline, while the major companies were retailing a similar brand of fuel at 13.5.

A half-cent reduction in the retail price of straight-run gas announced by the majors Tuesday was effected by lowering their guarantee to retailers by an equal amount, an authoritative source disclosed.

Large stocks of high-priced gasoline in the hands of a majority of dealers was advanced by another oil company official as one of the principal deterrents t olower prices.

Among First Lads of the Cinema

Court Recitation Wins a Prisoner Quick Freedom

A budding poet had his day in Police Court yesterday and explained in verse just why he had been arrested on intoxication and disorderly conduct charges.

It was Tuesday night, James J. Conlin said, and he was walking on Sixth street northwest. Suddenly he was overtaken with an urge to recite. He chose a group of policemen in front of the Police Garage as his audience.

But they wouldn't listen, Conlin lamented, so he decided to recite anyway. Policeman E. E. Thompson arrested him.

In court, Judge Gus A. Schuldt wanted to know what the poem was. So Conlin began:

"Did you ever think when the hearse rolls by that some day even you and I—"

"That's enough," said the judge, "I'll take your personal bond not to repeat the offense."

Next Week Is Profitable for Show Shopper

A New Farce and a Few of the Better Films Are in Nearby Offing.

The surreptitious whispers which have been circulating about town since the recent visit of Mr. John Peter Toohey, writer of eminence and personal representative of Sam H. Harris, the producer, concerning the character of "Bring on the Girls," the new George S. Kaufman-Morrie Ryskind farce which is coming to the National for a week beginning next Monday night, have aroused keen interest in all the Government departments, which are concerned in any way with the functioning of what is broadly known as the New Deal.

It is being bruited about, and not without some authentic foundation in fact, that the Messrs. Kaufman and Ryskind, who so devastatingly satirized American politics in "Of Thee I Sing" and "Let 'em Eat Cake," have turned their guns, in a good natured way, of course, on the activities of the R. F. C. and the A. A. A. and have not altogether omitted poking a little fun at the so-called Brain Trust.

The company, which will present "Bring on the Girls" here, will be headed by that most popular of radio and stage comedians, Jack Benny, who in this item will make his debut in a straight play.

The production, needless to say, will be in the tradition of the Sam H. Harris enterprises, among which may be recalled "As Thousands Cheer," "Merrily We Roll Along," "Of Thee I Sing" and scores of other popular hits.

With Maxine Doyle, Guy Kibbee, Paul Ash and a supporting roster of players that runs up a total in excess of 50, the Warner Brothers' Earle Theater next week, beginning Friday, will offer an anniversary program celebrating the birthday of vaudeville on Thirteenth street in a big way. A tremendous amount of thought and preparation has gone into the assembling of this bill, which, by all signs and portents, should set new attendance records in the Capital. The screen feature for the week will be "Six-Day Bike Rider," a frivolous disclosure of the discomfitures of pedaling around a pine bowl interminably, in which Joe E. Brown is the star and Maxine Doyle the featured feminine player. Gordon Westcott and Frank McHugh lead the supporting cast. In addition to Freddie Clark's anniversary overture, with Bert Granoff doing the vocal interludes, Nell Paxton will be back at the console of the Earle's fine organ for old-time's sake with a little A-1 music. Altogether a really gala week.

Boasting Amos 'n' Andy, headlining the stage portion of the entertainment, and Jean Parker, who created so splendid an impression in support of Katharine Hepburn in "Little Women," cast in her first starring role, opposite Jimmie Dunn in "Have a Heart," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of a tender romance, Loew's Fox Theater also promises diversion of the highest order for the new week beginning Friday. Supporting the principals in "Have a Heart" are such favorites as Una Merkel and Stuart Erwin. Bill Hay, their announcer, appears in the act with Amos 'n' Andy and other artists of the first rank will be seen in the surrounding bill. Fox Movietone News and Prof. Lampkin's orchestral contributions will complete the bill.

Even surpassing the spectacular grandeur of the exotic staging of the "Carioca" in "Flying Down to Rio," starring Dolores Del Rio, is the black-and-white mounting of the "Continental," the sensational new dance number executed by Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers in "The Gay Divorcee," screen feature opening what will probably be more than a single week's engagement at RKO-Keith's Theater tomorrow. While this is a musical subject of the first rank, as such things go in the cinema, it unfolds a consistent and well-sustained serio-comic narrative that has something to offer over and above the mere matter of tunes and Terpsichorean grace. The major film will be supplemented by a new issue of the Pathe News and the customary short-reel sound subjects.

Will Rogers probably never has had a finer screen vehicle than "Judge Priest," a sort of celluloid symposium of the Irvin S. Cobb stories, which comes to Loew's Palace Theater for the week beginning tomorrow. The star is supported by Tom Brown, Anita Louise, Henry B. Walthall, Stepin Fetchit, David Landau, Winter Hall and others of note in a story that strikes a hot note for Dixie and waves the Stars and Bars to almost superlative lengths. There hasn't been a better audience picture, one is tempted to say, since the venerable Mr. David Wark Griffith manufactured his "Birth of a Nation," although the points of view may not be said to be in any sense identical. Short-reel sound subjects and the new Metrotone News will complete the program.

"One Night of Love," the surpassingly lovely picture in which Grace Moore traces the career of a soprano of grand opera, will continue the major screen attraction at the Metropolitan until public interest has dulled in a film play in which public interest never should dull—if that is a sufficiently clear index to the superiority of this particular film. There is here a gracious blending of drama, music of the first order and character impersonation that makes for an evening of delightful pastiming. There should be no missing this picture on the part of any judicious showshopper.

Creating something of the same public furore that attended every stage performance by Katharine Cornell in the Rudolf Besier play of "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," the M-G-M film version of the poetic romance likewise is compounding extra-box-office records. With Norma Shearer, Fredric March and Charles Laughton compiling approximately the same totals of dramatic effectiveness as were counted up by Miss Cornell, Brian Aherne and Charles Waldron in the same roles, added impetus is given the film rendering of the play by Maureen O'Sullivan in by far the best performance she ever has delivered for the cameras, Ralph Forbes, Una O'Connor and Flush, the sagacious spaniel. This is by no means to be missed, either.

"French Models" is the alluring title of the burlesque offering promised for the week beginning Sabbath afternoon at the Gayety. Hap Freyer is the star comic of the frolicking, with Jerri McCauley the leading exponent of the distaff distractions. Fred "Falls" Binder, Sammy Weston, Jimmy Francis, Art Gilson, Mary Brown, "Boots" Rush and Juno, the statuesque prima donna, are those to whom greatest responsibilities are intrusted. A chorus of 16 cavorting coryphees, of course, provides background for the ensembles.

Straight From the Studios

Miss Lombard Has a Little Costume Trouble at M-G-M; An Old-Timer Does Some Trick Rifle Shooting; Odds and Ends of Hollywood Gossip.

By Speed Kendall.

Hollywood, Oct. 17.—Whether it was an oversight or because he was too busy, Adrian, the famous M.-G.-M. fashion expert, did not design Carole Lombard's wardrobe when she was signed by that company under her new Paramount contract allowing her to do one picture a year away from her home lot.

ANNA Q. NILLSON.

Adrian does the gowns for all the M.-G.-M. stars, namely, Garbo, Joan Crawford, Norma Shearer, Jean Harlow and others. Miss Lombard is a star in her own right also.

As a general rule, when a player goes to another studio she is given every consideration.

When Miss Lombard arrived to start work in "Repeal," she found that Dolly Tree had been assigned to her picture. Miss Lombard had little comment to make yesterday about the situation except to compliment Miss Tree and say she is perfectly satisfied and delighted by the wardrobe designed for her.

Adrian explained yesterday that the picture was planned months ago when Miss Tree received the assignment. Jean Harlow was originally slated for the role and Miss Tree, he said, would have done her wardrobe.

"I would liked to have designed Miss Lombard's gowns," Adrian stated, "but there is no mystery about my not doing them."

Miss Lombard is numbered among Hollywood's best-dressed women. Over on her home lot she is one of the favorite screen models of Travis Banton, the Paramount fashion expert, for all his advanced models.

"Had the situation been reversed," Banton stated, "I would have personally designed the wardrobe. However, I am not fully acquainted with the situation."

If He Had Missed.

Courage and faith in a man's aim and nerve caused Richard Dix to duplicate the famous William Tell apple-shooting episode yesterday. But a gun instead of a crossbow was used.

Dix is making the Zane Grey story, "West of the Pecos," and during a fight scene his hat is shot from his head. Pardner Jones, an old frontiersman, was summoned, and at 50 paces he did as neat a job as one could ever want with his trusty Winchester. Dix didn't budge an inch, for Jones shot at and around him in some of the daring ones of the silent days. Jones once shot a cigarette from Bebe Daniels' lips and a glass from Estelle Taylor's hands.

Old Home Week.

A page was torn from Hollywood's history of yesteryear at the Radio Studio yesterday. On the lot at one and the same time were Anna Q. Nillson, William Farnum, Jack Mulhall, Walter Long, Charles Ray and Doris Dawson, once a baby Wampas star. And they're all working, too.

She Reciprocated, Did Joan.

Joan Blondell was overwhelmed when she received a huge box, daintily wrapped, laden with tiny baby garments. Inside was a note saying they were a "gift from the Tots and Fairies." This is a little club organized by Los Angeles society kiddies between the ages of 8 and 12. Miss Blondell is their favorite actress, and they had heard that the stork is soon to visit her home.

Miss Blondell was so happy over the gift she arranged a party at her home on Lookout Mountain and entertained the children with games, ice cream and cake.

Breath of England.

Realism will result in the building of exact replicas of five famous old English inns in Southern California. They are to be used in the filming of "David Copperfield." On his recent trip abroad the producer, David O. Selznick, took pictures of the inns.

The first duplicate, completed yesterday, was constructed on the outskirts of Pasadena, nestling among a grove of poplars. It is an exact replica of the famous old Sun Inn on Sun street, in Canterbury, England.

Early Season Reverses Presage Decline of Pacific Football Supremacy

Only Huskies, Injuns Miss Defeat

Tie With Santa Clara Mars Stanford's 1934 Record.

Washington Best Since Days of Bagshaw; Trojans Aim to Rebuild.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 17 (AP).—It began to appear today that unless prompt resuscitation measures are taken, the Pacific Coast Conference, only a year or so ago looked upon as the acme of perfection in National football circles, would be left hanging on the ropes at the close of the 1934 season.

Only Stanford and Washington remain undefeated and the Palo Alto Indians were held to a tie by Santa Clara in the second game of the season.

With Washington alone remaining unbeaten and untied and the season only well under way, the outlook was not bright for the coast conference to command the respect of grid elevens from other sections of the country. The Huskies, out of the conference title running since the great Enoch Bagshaw teams, have the toughest part of their schedule still untouched.

Face Two Strong Teams.

Stanford must meet San Francisco University next, one of the newcomers asking recognition in the Far West, and Coach Tiny Thornhill's team still has the University of California at Los Angeles and California with which to cope.

When California lost to St. Mary's, one of the strongest potential elevens in the conference went down to defeat. Yet, heavy with man power as they are, the Golden Bears looked no better as Little College of the Pacific, coached by that veteran mentor, A. A. Stagg, missed twice by a fraction of an inch on touchdown passes that would have upset the Bill Ingram-coached eleven.

And to make matters worse, the St. Mary's, which downed California, lost to little Nevada before entraining for the East to uphold the West's honors against Fordham.

Jones Aims to Rebuild.

With two successive defeats already chalked up against Southern California, Coach Howard Jones brought what remains of his great Trojan aggregation back today from a disastrous invasion of Pittsburgh with the idea of building for another team.

Southern California's chief hope is to fortify against Stanford and California, its traditional foes.

The fact that Washington State, fresh from its victory over Troy two weeks ago, went down to defeat before little Gonzaga, left no doubt that the burden of the conference, so far as the Northwest is concerned, rested pretty much on Coach Jimmy Phelan's Huskies.

California, like Washington, Washington State and Stanford, undefeated in conference circles, still must face University of California at Los Angeles, Washington, Santa Clara, Idaho and Stanford.

Getting back to Santa Clara, the Broncos' coach, Clipper Smith, has developed what may yet prove to be the West's greatest team of the year. Though outside the conference, the Broncos meet California, St. Mary's and Texas Christian.

Cochrane Gets $10,000 Bonus

Detroit Rewards Manager for Winning Pennant.

DETROIT, Oct. 17 (AP).—Mickey Cochrane, who in his first year as a manager piloted the Detroit Tigers from the second division to within a game of winning the world's baseball championship, today was the possessor of a $10,000 bonus from the Detroit Baseball Co.

The bonus was awarded Cochrane for his inspiring leadership as a manager and his ability during the season as a player. Cochrane, whose contract has one more year to run, is reliably reported to be receiving a $25,000-a-year salary. He was purchased a year ago from the Philadelphia Athletics for $100,000 plus the contract of a reserve Tiger catcher.

Champion Favored In Virginia Meet

Harper Looms as Cruickshank's Chief Threat.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 17 (AP).—Bobby Cruickshank will be a favorite to retain his championship in the eleventh annual State open golf championship over the Hermitage Country Club course October 25 and 26.

The youthful figure of Chandler Harper sensational Portsmouth shotmaker, loomed out as one of the chief threats against the veteran champion. As an amateur he was good enough to win in 1932, and this year, in the ranks of the professionals for the first time, Harper will be making his second bid for a title which has been won twice only by Pat Petranck, of Petersburg.

Enfield Wins Big British Classic

Marshall Field's Horse Leads Field of 27 Over 2¼ Course

NEWMARKET, England, Oct. 17 (AP).—Carrying the colors of an American sportsman, Marshall Field, of Chicago, the highly favored English-bred 3-year-old colt, Enfield, today won the classic £1,000 Cesarewitch Stakes and added a new chapter to British turf history.

Enfield, smartly ridden by one of England's best lightweight jockeys, Jack Sireti, came from behind to beat Sir Abe Bailey's Shining Cloud by a half-length and J. B. Noel's Penny-a-Liner by a length in a close finish. The race was run over the route of 2¼ miles.

The winner, 7-to-1 favorite at post time and carrying the light impost of 108 pounds, became the second successive American-owned thoroughbred to capture the 96-year-old Cesarewitch and the first in 13 years to win both Newbury Cup and Cesarewitch in the same season.

Succeeds Seminole.

J. E. Widener's Seminole won the event last year, while the last time any horse scored a double in the Newbury and Newmarket fixtures was in 1921, when Yutoi turned the trick.

Field was not among the thousands of spectators who saw his horse run one of the greatest races in the history of the classic. The race was held under wet, dreary conditions and the colors were not visible until the field came across the famous Newmarket flat, one solid black mass, in fierce going.

When the horses came in view, Enfield was running nicely back of a group of five horses led by Quartz. Passing the bushes, Quartz weakened, while Shining Cloud and Loosestrife were in front with Enfield now running third, ahead of Penny-a-Liner.

Enfield Forges Ahead.

Entering the Dip, Jockey Sireti urged Enfield through, strongly challenged by Shining Cloud and Penny-a-Liner. The Field entry forged ahead on the last stretch uphill.

Enfield's gallant finish justified the confidence of his backers. Shining Cloud was rated at 20 to 1 and Penny-a-Liner at 33 to 1 at the start of the race.

The winner was bred at Field's racing establishment in England. Enfield is by Winalot out of Firecrest and was trained at Boyd Rochfort's Newmarket Stable, where the horses of two other Americans, William Woodward and Widener, are quartered.

Army to Limber Up On Sewanee for Yale

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 17 (Spl.). The Army football team will play the last game at home until November 17, when they meet their fourth straight intersectional opponent, the University of the South (Sewanee) on Saturday.

The purple clad Southern Conference Tennesseeans, although light, are a scrappy lot and should provide splendid opposition for "Gar" Davidson to try out the plays he will use against Yale the following week.

Mrs. T. W. Perkins won the driving contest yesterday at Beaver Dam Country Club in the contest that followed the weekly classes conducted by Professional Cliff Spencer. She hit a 150-yarder. Mrs. Robert Donaldson, with a 135-yarder, was second.

Mrs. A. T. Tucker and Mrs. R. N. Trezise were winners in the approaching contest and Mrs. J. H. Gieble and Mrs. W. A. Powers were the putting contest winners. Other prizes went to Mrs. Albert Haas, Mrs. C. B. Buck, Mrs. Frank Cramer.

A set of silver was presented Cliff Spencer by the golf committee.

Sherman Jumps Ahearn's Program

Jimmy Brady Is Obtained to Fight Dominguez.

Washington boxing fans will not peek this week at Morrie Sherman, the Chicago welterweight who was scheduled to do eight rounds of battle against Tony Dominguez at the Riding and Hunt Club Monday, Goldie Ahearn, promoter, announced yesterday.

His place on the bill will be taken by Irish Jimmy Brady of Newark, a stable mate of Jay Mecadon, who fights Bob Wilson in the 10-round main event, it was said.

Ahearn said the advance sale for the forthcoming card is the largest in the history of the arena.

Walker to Arrive Sunday for Bout

Mickey Not 'Washed Up,' His Manager Asserts.

To allay any suspicion that he is "washed up," Mickey Walker will arrive in Washington Sunday to complete training for his 10-round bout against Natie Brown at the Auditorium next Wednesday.

"Mickey's still a great fighter and it won't take him long to prove it to Washingtonians," maintained Lou Diamond, Walker's manager, via long distance yesterday. "To show 'em, he'll throw his workouts open to the public, free of cost."

Generals Tested By Tiger Attack

W. and L. Get Final Tough Drill for Next Tilt.

Lexington, Va., Oct. 17 (AP).—The Washington and Lee squad got another tough workout today with picked teams scrimmaging and the first string attempting to stop Princeton plays—run against them by the reserves.

Joe Arnold and Joe Pette, backs, looked to be in good shape as did Charlie Brasher, who will probably start as tackle in the event Tubby Owings is still on the injured list Saturday. He showed up well today, getting through several plays like a veteran.

Today's session was the last rough work before the squad leaves for New Jersey Friday night.

Letter Offers $300 Bribe to G. W. Star

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY officials last night considered placing in the hands of postal authorities a letter in which a $300 bribery offer was made to Tuffy Leemans, star half back, if he would fake an injury and remain out of tomorrow night's game against Tulsa at Griffith Stadium.

Written on the stationery of a Ninth street hotel and signed "Jimmie," the letter was received by Leemans by special delivery yesterday morning and disclosed an ingenious plan for payment of the money if Leemans would remain out of the line-up.

Regarded as Joke.

Leemans immediately turned the letter over to university authorities who, first were tempted to regard the affair as a joke, but on the possibility that it was genuine its submission to the postal authorities is being considered.

"Jimmie" wrote to Leemans that he had been a heavy loser on recent football bets and offered the star half back a chance to "cash in for yourself."

If he would fake an injury to his left leg in Thursday's practice, "Jimmie" told Leemans that he would place in the player's hands before the game Friday night halves of three $100 bills. On Saturday, after the game, he would give Leemans the remaining halves of the bills.

Watch for Injury Notice.

He had heard, "Jimmie" said, that Leemans was in need of money and "here is a chance to help yourself and me, too." Leemans' presence in the line-up of G. W. meant the difference between victory and defeat, the writer said, and he would watch the newspapers for announcements that the half back had suffered an injury in Thursday's practice.

At the team's practice at Griffith Stadium yesterday, close surveillance was made of all fans in attendance. Coach Jim Pixlee used Leemans in the scrimmage and expressed himself as unworried over the letter or its contents.

Levinsky Loser In Court Battle

Fish Company Wins $940 Suit by Default.

Los Angeles, Oct. 17 (AP).—The Lakeside Fish & Oyster Co., of Chicago, shadow-boxed his way to a court victory today over King Levinsky, fish peddler and fisticmonger of that city.

Judge Clement Nye, in the absence of the Kingfish, awarded the company a default judgment for $940 plus interest for alleged business dealings with the heavyweight.

Series Feats Of Deans Net Them Little

Dizzy and Daffy End Barnstorm With Only $5,000 Profit.

By Jimmy Powers
(Pinch hitting for Paul Gallico).

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—The madcap brothers Dean are in town quoting the economic policies of President Roosevelt. They are engaged in accumulating dollars which they find are hard to get.

Correspondents in the tall celery performed mathematical acrobatics last week and presumed to write that Jerome and Paul would shake down 35,000 cocoanuts from the trees during their barnstorming tour. They must have meant two other fellows.

Next week the Dean schedule will be completed. The Dean arms creak now and the Dean heads confess to aches fit for a team of Oklahoma plowhorses. Between them they have $5,000 and a sheaf of receipted bills from every flea bag in the bullrushes.

This, of course, is unfortunate. The Deans have given the public $5,000,000 worth of entertainment. Do you recall the crowds gathered about the radio taxies in the entrance during the series? The Deans have—on the word President Sam Breadon—brought a quarter of a million extra admissions into the Cardinal treasury. Do you think they have had a fair return for their pitching labor? The Deans will quote you that they, as honest workers, have not.

Deans Denied Bonus.

It is the custom of most club owners to vote a bonus to an outstanding player. I guess it's the corporate conscience pricking them. This year the Cards paid off their notoriously niggardly salaries of $4,000 to Paul and $7,500 to Jerome, ignored a plea for an equitable adjustment and retained a fine of $486 they had deducted from the elder brother's check. The St. Louis club says it has had lean years, that it has spent a great sum developing its farms, and that when its system uncovers two such human gold mines its cut comes first.

Sam Breadon and Branch Rickey own the Cardinals. They can fine the Deans at will and pay them what they please. The Deans have no redress. Sam is a churlish fellow. Life was none too gentle with him. He was born on New York's West Side and went to St. Louis and there became a peanut vender. Early he learned all the value of a nickel. Later he sold automobiles and still later he bought into the Cards.

Rickey Knows 200 Psalms.

Branch Rickey, his partner, is a God-fearing man. He is much in demand for addresses at Christian Endeavor conventions. He has memorized 200 psalms. He will permit his players to play and his corporation to share in the profits, but he, personally, will not attend a ball game on the Sabbath.

Rickey once coached Michigan University. George Sisler was his first baseman. Sisler, through a gentleman's agreement with his owner, Barney Dreyfuss of the Pirates, was studying for a degree. Rickey outmaneuvered Dreyfuss, who, of course, had no legal ownership papers. He whisked young

In the Gloom

Came the Trojans, Marching Home From Battle.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 17 (AP). Southern California's Trojans came home from the Pittsburgh defeat today without benefit of fanfare and immediately settled down to patching up their grid armor for the remainder of a tough schedule.

A downpour of rain added to the gloom of the saddest homecoming a Trojan team has known in many a year, but it didn't dampen the ardor of Headman Howard Jones in his plans to still make something of his team this season.

In contrast to other years, when the men of Troy were mighty, there was no banquet board set for the team today by civic organizations, to celebrate the team's return. Only a handful of students turned out in the heavy downpour to welcome the squad home, but part of the Trojan Band was there.

C. U. Men Wary Of Baltimore Eleven

Bergman Takes No Chances of Upset; Brown Replaces Mulligan.

ALTHOUGH ill-winds of the football gale have buffeted little Baltimore U. eleven about to all seven points of the gridiron compass, Coach Art Bergman is not regarding the team lightly as he prepares Catholic U. gridmen for their game Saturday.

Too many startling upsets have been recorded already for Bergman to risk defeat at the hands of a small school, and Catholic has more or less been upset already, if you want to look upon that 6-6 tie with La Salle in that manner.

Bergman announced yesterday that 10 of the 11 men who started against Holy Cross last week will face the invaders this week-end. The only change brings Zeke Brown to right end, George Mulligan's position. Mulligan is favoring a game leg and it would be risky for him to play with it.

Brown Proves Worth.

Brown has been bidding for a first string varsity berth since practice first started. In two games he demonstrated his value with outstanding performances at the flank, defensively and offensively. His pass-snagging is without equal on the Brookland squad, although his defensive work needs more polishing.

Threatening to steal the spotlight from the big game is the preliminary skirmish between the C. U. and Maryland freshmen teams which face each other at 1 p. m. at Brookland.

The Terp yearlings invade the Cardinal campus determined to avenge last season's 6-0 defeat and reports from College Park indicate that they have the wherewithal to do it.

Catholic's frosh are not so weak, however, as the opening game with Navy Plebes will attest. C. U. lost by a 12-9 score, but only after giving the Tars a bad fourth-period fright when they marched down to the 12-yard line, where the game ended.

Neither squad is numerically large. Maryland is reported to have 12 players who never before played football. Whatever is lacking in numbers, however, is more than atoned for by ability. The boys have what it takes.

Aerial Game Emphasized In Drill

Widmyer's Running Is High Point of Long Scrimmage.

ABANDONING their attempts to weld the team into a strong, impregnable defensive unit, University of Maryland coaches yesterday set about increasing the power of the team's attack as real preparations got under way for Saturday's Southern Conference game with V. P. I. at Norfolk.

Coach Jack Faber sent the squad through a lengthy scrimmage, emphasizing the aerial attack, though the running game, with Earl Widmyer cast in the feature role, was not slighted. Maryland will employ its offense as a defense against the Cadets.

If the Terrapins' play against Navy in the last half of their game is a criterion of what they will do in the future it looks like a mighty gloomy week-end for Coach Bill Raftery and his cohorts. Maryland used everything in its repertoire on the Middies and was more successful in running the ball—or throwing it—than attempting to hold the Navy. It didn't do such a bad job of holding at that, however.

Boasts Great Back Field.

An important factor overlooked by the average fan is that Maryland's back field is potentially one of the greatest in the East, what with Sothoron, Stonebraker, Nelson, Sachs, Guckeyson, Gormely, Widmyer and Campiglio available for duty.

Campiglio has been entirely overlooked. Here is a man who while at West Liberty State Teachers College (W. Va.) in 1931, amassed the amazing total of 146 points—leading the Nation's gridmen in this respect. Thus far he has not appeared for Maryland, but he is ready for the call.

Take Campiglio, Widmyer at his best, Sothoron or Stonebraker and Sachs, and you have a back field that will stand up with the best of them. A bevy of triple-threaters. Imagine the plays a coach could successfully execute, the deception possible, with a quarter of speedy-hard-charging men to carry the leather!

Virginia Tech, while justly rated the outstanding team in the Old Dominion this year, does not compare with Maryland in sheer man-power. The Cadets are good, but on paper Maryland is better. Maryland has been slow in starting—just as last year when it did not hit its stride until the fag end of the season. When that wrecking crew gets clicking the Maryland alumni will have something to shout about. The Terps are going a long way.

Cadet Backs Run Wild in Practice

Lexington, Va., Oct. 17 (AP).—V. M. I. varsity backs ran wild in scrimmage today against the "C" team, which was given the task of testing the attack while freshmen prepared for tomorrow's game with the University of Richmond first-year men.

"B" team backs were kept in action the longest, with Eddie Law, Meredith Urick and John Penn smashing off tackle and circling ends for repeated gains behind savagely blocking line.

Evergold Shatters Laurel's Track Record by Running Six-Furlong Race in 1:11

Gelding Wins Royal Oak Handicap

By Walter Haight.

THE Laurel track record for 6 furlongs, which many predicted would be broken if the present fast condition of the course remained, finally was snapped yesterday. It was not a surprise that the favorite sprint route was run in 1:11, but it was a shock to those who study the speed figures when the veteran Evergold, from the Shandon Stable, turned the trick. In fact, it created a mild lifting of eyebrows when Evergoid succeeded in charging down the stretch to defeat such popular choices as J. R. Buchanan's Happy Go by a head and Cary T. Grayson's Hope To Do by a length.

It was evident that they had run a fast race, but the three-ace figure on the time board caused eyes to bulge. Evergold, under the excellent handling of Jockey Arcaro, had clipped a fifth of a second off the mark shared by three great horses—Mr. Sponge, Repentance and Balko.

Fractious at Post.

True, Evergold had a little the best of a ragged start, but his race yesterday was the best of his four-year racing career. Fractious at the post, Evergold was lunging forward when Starter Milton rang the bell. Arcaro apparently knew his mount for he made no effort to set the pace with Evergold. Instead he allowed the son of Ladkin to settle into his stride while Happy Go bounded to the front. Evergold was running along in fourth place as Hope To Do went up to vie with Happy Go for front-running honors.

Happy Go won the pace-setting battle, and as he opened up daylight, it appeared that the Happy Argo colt would last to win. However, with the field straightened out in the stretch, Arcaro called on Evergold for a finishing punch and he got it. The gelding, which many had thought was having his troubles staying in the race, suddenly found speed. With Arcaro, now a whirling dervisher, on his back, Evergold plowed through the leaders and it was his head that was first to greet the judges.

Although Evergold had won his previous start after campaigning with little success in the West, his victory was over a muddy track and he drew only a scattered backing. Those who did wager on his chances received cash to the tune of $13.20 for each $2 investment.

Rock Lad Is Beaten.

Form players received a rude shock when Rock Lad, the odds-on favorite which had won his last four starts in New York and Canada, fell at the third jump in the 2-mile Meadows Steeplechase. Fluttering also went down at this fence. Rigan McKinney's Tanaringo led all the way to win by five lengths from Rideaway. The latter finished gamely to relegate Ridian into the show position. The winner paid $8.70.

E. R. Bradley's Blessed Again, the favorite paying $4.60, came from behind in the final quarter-mile to defeat 13 other 2-year-olds in the six-furlongs first race. Meade's perfect rating of the Bradley filly was the deciding factor. Alwintour was second, a half-length back of the winner and a length in advance of Dove of Peace, which had set the pace for five furlongs.

Meade completed a riding-double when he capped his victory on Blessed Again in the first race with an easy score astride John R. Macomber's Carabinier 2d in the fourth event, a mile and 70-yards test for maiden 3-year-olds and upward. The Macomber gelding was a heavily-supported favorite, paying only $3.00. Marwee was second, three lengths back of the winner and four lengths in front of the sturdily-closing Sun Way.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BLESSED AGAIN, $4.60, $2.80, $2.30; ALWINTOUR, $5.20, $3.10; DOVE OF PEACE, $2.70.

BLESSED AGAIN, away quickly, but unable to maintain a position with the leaders in the first three furlongs, swung to the outside to enter contention at the stretch turn, then wore the leaders down inside the final furlong. ALWINTOUR, a keen factor from the start, was inclined to bear to the inside behind DOVE OF PEACE when straightened into the home stretch, was straightened out and held on stoutly. DOVE OF PEACE was hard hustled to gain early command, saved ground all the way, but tired under a drive. ABERCROMBIE bettered his position between horses and closed strong. MR. MACK came with belated speed. FOXTEE lacked early speed. SEA FINN weakened badly, as did BLIND STAR. GREY PAL broke slowly and trailed far back.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 2:06. Off at 2:07. Winner, A. G. Vanderbilt's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—DREEL, $6.60, $3.00, $2.30; HUG AGAIN, $3.40, $2.50; SUN MONK, $2.80.

DREEL, quick to get going, then taken under slight restraint when in command, shook off a strong bid from HUG AGAIN midway of the home stretch, then came out nearing the finish. HUG AGAIN offered good contention from the beginning, made a bold effort at mid-stretch, but was held safe thereafter. SUN MONK, next on the outside while following close up came courageously under punishment. MINTON, on the inside from the beginning, made early efforts, but was not good enough. MY COUNSELLOR was never a factor.

THIRD RACE—About two miles. Purse, $1,000. The Meadows Steeplechase. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:33. Off at 2:34. Winner, R. M. McKinney's b. g. (4), by Sonny Kiss—Retaliate. Trained by P. Green. Value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time 3:57 2-5 (14 jumps).

Two-dollar mutuels paid—TANARINGO, $8.70, $4.70, $3.30; RIDEAWAY, $4.50, $3.00; RIDIAN, $3.30.

TANARINGO, jumping boldly in the first mile while under steadying restraint, shook off a strong effort from RIDIAN going to the twelfth fence, moved clear thereafter and held sway until the finish. RIDEAWAY, strongly restrained for the first mile, almost unseated his rider when landing badly at the eighth fence, recovered and closed a good gap. RIDIAN went stoutly from the beginning. Made a bad landing at the twelfth jump after moving up strongly, then weakened. SIR CATALAN trailed far back. ROCK LAD and FLUTTERING FELL at the third jump.

FOURTH RACE—One mile and 70 yards. Purse, $800. For maiden 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:06. Off at 3:08. Winner, J. R. Macomber's b. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—CARABINIER II, $3.00, $2.60, $2.40; MARWEE, $3.50, $3.00; SUN WAY, $3.40.

CARABINIER II, sent up into a forward position and restrained back of the leaders for six furlongs, assumed command at his leisure, then was taken under stout restraint for the closing drive. MARWEE was rated nicely to maintain a prominent position, but was no match for the winner. SUN WAY bettered his position slowly and was best of others.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000; allowances. The St. Michaels. Start good. Won easily; place driving. Went to post at 3:37. Off at 3:38½. Winner, J. J. Coughlin's ch. e. (2), by Carlans—Betty Ames. Trained by R. E. Hefferan. Value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23 1-5, 0:47, 1:12.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ADVANTAGE, $7.50, $4.70, $2.30; DIABLERIE, $7.80, $2.60. NICE TALK, $2.10.

ADVANTAGE, displaying nice speed after taking command in the opening sixteenth, moved clear when shaken up at the stretch turn and held DIABLERIE safe. Latter was rushed during the opening furlong to reach the leaders, held on gamely thereafter and outstayed NICE TALK. Latter, forced to race on outside, lost considerable ground at the stretch turn, but closed gamely.

SIXTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000. Royal Oak Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start fair. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:07. Off at 4:10. Winner, Shandon Farm's ch. g. (5), by Ladkin—Golden Lassie II. Trained by J. J. Greely. Value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time. 0:23 2-5, 0:46 3-5, 1:11 (new track record).

Two-dollar mutuels paid—EVERGOLD, $13.20, $6.60, $3.30; HAPPY GO, $2.90, $2.30; HOPE TO DO, $2.90.

EVERGOLD broke running and was kept right with the leaders, responded strongly when reaching the home stretch, then finished between the two leaders to get up in the last 70 yards. HAPPY GO withstood stiff contention from HOPE TO DO in first five furlongs, saved ground, but weakened approaching the finish. HOPE TO DO froced a fast early pace, made repeated efforts and held on well.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward foaled in Maryland. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:37. Off at 4:41. Winner, A. G. Weston's b. or br. g. (3), by Mackenzie II—Windigo. Trained by R. W. Mitchell. Value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:24 2-5, 0:48 4-5, 1:14 3-5, 1:40 2-5, 1:47 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—TAUNTON, $6.30, $2.90, $2.40; HUT, $2.80, $2.40; BOKIE B., $2.80.

TAUNTON, away in the first flight, raced TIGHT WAD into defeat, was rated along while setting the pace, but had to be placed to drive to stall off closing rush of HUT. Latter, shuffled back at the first turn, was allowed to settle into stride and gained steadily during the last half mile. BOKIE B., hard ridden, had a lot taken out of him trying catch TAUNTON and tired in the late stages of the stretch drive. MARYS MAY ran in spots. FAIR BILLY drifted back after running with the leaders on the stretch. TIGHT WAD had early speed.

EIGHTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $600; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:07. Off at 5:09½. Winner, W. M. Hunt's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ARAB, $7.10, $4.40, $3.50; CHEROKEE SAL, $8.80, $6.20; GRAND ROX, $9.60.

ARAB, saved back of the leaders until midway of the back stretch, went to the front with a rush approaching the final turn, opened up a clear lead, but had to be strongly ridden to withstand CHEROKEE SAL. Latter, in close quarters on the inside and interfered with midway of the final curve, came to the outside and then closed with a rush. GRAND ROX bettered his position steadily and came with good courage for the closing drive. FLUFFY LEE was made too much use of early and tired. HEREWARD had a rough trip. LAWLESS LADY dropped far out of contention, was never dangerous. WORTHINGTON and LIBERTY ACE were rushed off their feet to set the early pace with FLUFFY LEE.

Navy Holds Little Hope That Borries, Ill Star, Will Face Columbia Saturday

Loss Is Blow To Hopes of Middies

Ace Suffers Attack of Catarrhal Fever; Thomas Groomed.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 17 (U.P.). Big Buzz Borries' fever chart replaced blackboard "chalk talks" today as the Navy board of strategy mapped its plans for Saturday's football game with Columbia—either with or without the services of the ace Navy half back.

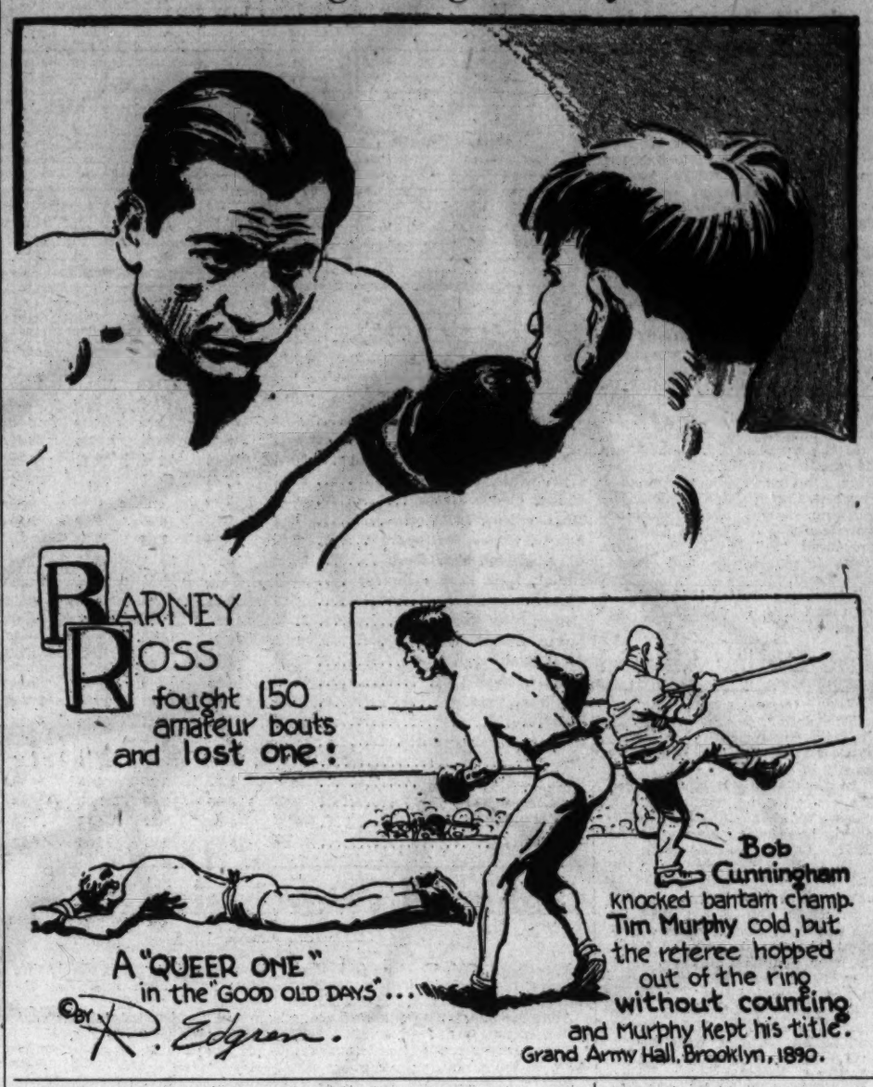
With Borries' fever going up and down like a conductor's elbow, Coach Tommy Hamilton was at a loss to know whether Borries will play Saturday or not. The pile-driving back was out at practice this afternoon for the first time since Sunday, but physicians at the academy said they would not be able to decide until tomorrow whether Borries will be able to take part in the Columbia game.

Borries was confined to the hospital with an attack of catarrhal fever, but the fever abated sufficiently today—after hope of his playing Saturday had been practically abandoned—for him to be sent to his room in Bancroft Hall. He reported for practice later in the afternoon, but did not take part in drills.

The clash between Borries and Al Barabas, crack Columbia back, was to be one of the high lights of Saturday's game between these two undefeated teams. Hamilton, however, has groomed Ned Thomas, second-year midshipman, to occupy Borries' berth in the Navy lineup.

Commodore John H. Brown, jr., athletic director at the academy, said that under no circumstances would Borries be allowed to play unless he is fully recovered from the illness. Meanwhile, odds against Navy beating the Lions grew longer as chances of Borries' play lessened. Borries scored the lone Navy touchdown against Columbia last year, when the Lions won, 14-7.

Through Edgren's Eyes



Chevy Chase Title Won by Mrs. Brand

Victor Has 176 for 36-Hole Play; Kenwood Women at Finals.

ADDING a fine 86 to her opening day score of 90, Mrs. Harrison Brand, jr., shot a 36-hole total of 176 yesterday to win the Chevy Chase women's golf championship. Mrs. Brand first won the title four years ago.

Runner-up honors went to Miss Susan Hacker, who finished with 93—92—185. Mrs. Hume Wrong, defending champion, was third with 96—91—187.

The rest of the scores, abnormally high, were not turned in by the contestants.

Mrs. Brand's card follows:

Out ..... 5 5 5 3 5 4 5 6 4—42
In ..... 3 6 5 4 5 5 5 6 5—44—86

Mrs. Benjamin C. Hartig and Mrs. S. F. Colladay will clash this morning for the Columbia Country Club women's golf championship as a result of their victories in the semi-finals yesterday.

Mrs. Hartig, whose husband has promised her a new automobile if she wins the title, eliminated Mrs. H. M. Brundage, 7 and 6. Mrs. Colladay defeated Mrs. W. W. Nottingham, 3 and 2. Mrs. Hartig continued to display the same rock-steady golf that characterized her winning play against Mrs. J. W. Beller, champion and medalist.

Mrs. H. R. Quinter won on the nineteenth hole from Mrs. Beller in the first flight consolations.

Results:

First flight—Mrs. S. F. Colladay defeated Mrs. W. W. Nottingham, 7 and 5; Mrs. Benjamin C. Hartig defeated Mrs. H. M. Brundage, 7 and 6. Consolation—Mrs. J. A. Marr defeated Mrs. W. E. Hall, 2 and 1; Mrs. H. R. Quinter defeated Mrs. J. W. Beller, 1 up nineteenth hole.

Second flight—Mrs. Herman Stabler defeated Mrs. E. M. Amick, 4 and 3; Mrs. Robert A. Lacey defeated Mrs. A. C. Minnix, 1 up nineteenth hole. Consolation—Mrs. Norman B. Frost defeated Mrs. Harry Kane, 4 and 3; Mrs. William Morrison Smith defeated Mrs. C. D. Bills, 6 and 5.

Third flight—Mrs. G. D. McGinty defeated Mrs. W. C. Gelenz, 7 and 6; Mrs. H. King Cornwell defeated Mrs. Warren Glover, jr., 3 and 1. Consolation—Mrs. A. S. Gardiner defeated Miss Emily Jane Quirk, 5 and 4.

Today's pairings:

9:30—Mrs. Colladay vs. Mrs. Hartig; 9:35, Mrs. Marr vs. Mrs. Quinter; 9:40, Mrs. Stabler vs. Mrs. Lacey; 9:45, Mrs. Frost vs. Mrs. Smith; 9:50, Mrs. McGinty vs. Mrs. Cornwell; 9:55, Mrs. S. C. Watkins vs. Mrs. R. H. Gardner.

Mrs. Harvey Cooper, defending champion, and Mrs. Leo Walper tied for the lead at the end of the first 18 holes yesterday of the match play against par tournament for the Teal Trophy at Kenwood. Each finished 1 down to par.

Mrs. Walper, however, stole the show with a brilliant 41—42—83 that came within a few shots of tying the feminine course record. She had four pars on the first nine, and birdie threes on the fourteenth and "punchbowl" sixteenth holes. Standing on the seventeenth tee, Mrs. Walper needed par in for an 80, but finished 4—6.

Mrs. Cooper had 47—50—97—14—83.

Play will be resumed today.

Mrs. Walper's card and other results follow:

Out ..... 5 4 6 4 6 3 4 4 5—41

Desjardins Plans to Quit Diving to Enter Business

Ex-Olympic Champion Is Silent on Reported Engagement.

By John R. Vosburgh.

PETE DESJARDINS, the little French-Canadian who turned professional after winning two Olympic high-diving championships for the United States, is eager to quit the sport which has given him world-wide fame and a tidy bank account.

Exuding prosperity from every crease of his trim, gray business suit, the slightly-built king of sportdom's diving realm sat in a Washington apartment yesterday and chatted about the past, present and future, declaring his intention of concluding his athletic career "in two years" to go into "some business in the bathing suit line."

Desjardins returned from a lucrative exhibition tour of England a week ago yesterday. He was met at the pier in New York by Miss Onalene Lawrence, well-known District swimmer, and her mother. He is now a guest at the Lawrence apartment.

The diver refused to confirm reports of his engagement to Miss Lawrence. Neither of them, he said, wishes to make any definite statement at this time.

Looks Belie His Years.

Only 27 years of age, Desjardins scarcely looks older than the 17-year-old boy who came down from the North Country, became an American citizen and won the diving championship of the world at the 1924 Olympics.

But Desjardins, like many a great sports figure, wants to quit before he starts slipping.

"After another two years," he says, "I can't expect to be able to hold my top form. I would rather leave diving while I'm still at the top.

"In two years I expect to get in some business of a bathing suit line. A firm is making trunks now in Scotland under my name. For the time being, under present conditions, I find I can make more money diving than by taking a chance in business. But in another two years, I'm giving it up once and for all.

England Better for Diver.

Desjardins says England is a much better business proposition from a diver's standpoint than the United States. For one week's performance at an English pool, he was paid several thousand dollars. Desjardins is the only pro diver making money today. He has managed his professional career carefully and where the next century-note is coming from is the least of his troubles.

England went rather "batty" over the diver. The English sports pages carried his name in complimentary prominence. The champion was in England and Ireland but four months, giving 133 exhibitions, sometimes several a day. An aggregated attendance of 250,000 persons watched him perform. The crowd ranged from several hundred to 30,000. Desjardins was wined and dined in royal fashion and was the guest of honor of a number of English cities.

Regarded as An Artist.

To the English, Desjardins is an artist. They were dumfounded, for instance, when he offered a box of chocolates to every lady in the crowd if there should be a trace of a splash after a certain dive, and he made good his dive.

The English papers devoted column after column to Desjardins' exploits. One of the stories was headed:

"Aquatic Genius Thrills Crowd." The story reads: "Picture on a dizzy height a bronze figure, erect and alert, perfect in poise and symmetry of limb and muscle, a flawless specimen of the 'human form divine.' Then see this statue bound into sudden life, take off like a swallow into space, gyrate in the air as a spinning top, loop the loop twice or thrice in the process and enter the water like a keen-eyed bird swooping down upon fish, and you have some conception of how Pete Desjardins thrilled a gathering of several thousands at the Pickie, Bangor, on Wednesday evening."

Mrs. Fred Small Retains Cumberland Golf Cup

Cumberland, Md., Oct. 17 (Spl.). Scoring her fourth successive victory in the fall tournament by defeating the youthful Elizabeth Heintz in the finals yesterday by the score of 6 and 5, Mrs. Fred T. Small retained the golf championship of the Cumberland Country Club and thereby won the second leg on the Mrs. W. Wallace McKaig Cup.

Meet West Va. Frosh.

Woodstock, Va., Oct. 17 (Spl.).—Massanutten Academy's football team, with its goal line uncrossed this season, will go to Morgantown, W. Va., this week-end, where they will meet the frosh eleven of the University of West Virginia Saturday.

Infection Perils Star.

Golf Clubs Stolen.

Golf equipment valued at approximately $1,500 was stolen from the Indian Spring Country Club, on Colesville pike near Silver Spring, Md., yesterday.

Barnstorming Ban Urged by Harridge

Cites Injuries to Foxx, Deans as Reasons for Proposal.

CHICAGO, Oct. 17 (AP).—An absolute ban on all barnstorming by major league baseball players was advocated today by President Will Harridge, of the American League. President Harridge said action undoubtedly would be taken on the subject at the annual winter meeting.

Citing a series of recent mishaps—Jimmie Foxx's injury that may ruin his career; the unpleasantness at Milwaukee when irate fans stormed the boxoffice demanding their money back because the Dean brothers failed to pitch as many innings as advertised, and the soreness of Paul Dean's arm that may affect his pitching next year—President Harridge said the only thing to do was to prohibit barnstorming altogether.

"Baseball gives the player every possible protection during the regular session," President Harridge said. "The players are provided with the best of everything—food, hotels, railroads and playing fields. And then, as soon as the season ends, many of them immediately rush off to play exhibition games on poor fields, with poor accommodations and without proper supervision. Injuries are apt to result, and often do. In many cases, antics of 'wildcat' promoters, whose interest, naturally, is not in baseball but in their personal pocketbooks, give the game a bad name.

"The magnate has an undeniable property right in the player's career, which the player, by barnstorming, places in jeopardy without any compensation for the magnate."

President John Heydler, of the National League, also is expected to join in the fight against barnstorming. Present legislation permits barnstorming until October 31, except in exceptional cases where special permission is granted, such as the tour to the Orient.

Baltimore Plans to Erect Bust of the Sultan of Swat

BALTIMORE, Oct. 17 (AP).—Baltimore is preparing to honor Babe Ruth, her baseball playing son, by erecting a bust of him.

Paul E. Burke, president of the Maryland Amateur Athletic Association, announced plans for raising funds for the memorial last night.

He said he thought it fitting that the city where the home-run slugger started his career should mark the end of that career with a lasting tribute.

Ruth was "discovered" by Jack Dunn while a member of St. Mary's Industrial School here. Dunn, manager and owner of the Orioles, signed up the young slugger.

Mayor Howard W. Jackson, after a conference with Burke, has agreed to select a site for the bust. The Mayor heads the committee selected to raise the funds.

"Dizzy" Dean, star pitcher of the world's champion St. Louis Cardinals, and voted the most valuable player in the National League, may, with his pitching brother, Paul, start the contributions.

Trainers Face Alexandria Tomorrow

Twins Seeking to Avenge Setbacks of Last Two Campaigns.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Oct. 17 (Spl.).—Alexandria High's first and second elevens engaged in a lengthy scrimmage today in preparation for Friday's game with National Training School. The Twins will be out for revenge, as the District aggregation holds two wins over them.

The scrubs, especially, performed in a manner most pleasing to Coach Givens. For the first time in many seasons the locals have capable substitutes.

The Twins line-up will be intact for the first time this season. Co-capt. Luckett will be back at his old guard post. The rest of the line-up will be as follows: Beach, center; Saunders, guard; Noble and Fritter, tackles; Nugent and Pullman, ends. The backs will be Ewald, quarter; Varney and Fones, halves, and Sha, full.

The following also will see action: Robinson, McCewan, Burroughs, Apperson, O'Neil, Kirchener, Jeffries, Stewart, Hammersley and Worden.

The St. Ritas will open its season Sunday against a Washington eleven. Irish Kelley has been working hard with the boys for the past ten days and is expected to place a winning eleven on the field. He is depending upon Jenneir, Mellon, Hudson, Mess, Beall, O'Brien, Kraft, Danube, Wheatley, Parsons, Burroughs.

Coodles Owen's Pirates will strive for their first Sunday win on Haydens Field. Dutch Wood is dickering with several teams.

Allan, Bowers Gain Final at Anacostia

HERMAN ALLEN and Harold Bowers, two golfing gents who have been knocking at the doors of municipal championships for a number of years, will meet today in the 36-hole finals of the Anacostia Amateur Open tournament.

Allen yesterday removed Bob Gabrel, former professional, now a Government worker, 2 and 1, in a thrilling match, and in an equally exciting battle Bowers eliminated William Crabbe, Navy radio operator, 1 up.

They will clash at 10 a. m., with the final 18 holes to start at 1:30 p. m.

Allen and Gabrel scored 73's each, while Bowers did a 76 and Crabbe a 77.

Never down, Allen took the lead on the second hole. A birdie three on the seventh gave him a 2-up lead, but he lost the eighth to a par four and knocked in a long putt for a birdie three on the 235-yard ninth to round the bend 2-up.

Allen stretched his margin to 3 up by taking the tenth. They halved the next two holes. Gabrel took the thirteenth, lost the fourteenth to a birdie, won the fifteenth, and halved the next two holes.

Crabbe's 5 gave him a 1-up lead on Bowers at the third. Bowers evened the count by taking the fourth. Crabbe won the sixth and seventh, the latter with a birdie, and dropped the next two to his rival's pars. The match was even at the turn.

Crabbe became 1 up at the tenth and 2 up at the twelfth, only to see Bowers even the match by winning the next two holes. A trapped tee shot and three putts cost Bowers the sixteenth, and he went 1 down. On the seventeenth Bowers scored his par 4 to win against a 5 as Crabbe three-putted.

On the home hole, Bowers was shot in 2, but pitched 12 feet from the pin and sank his putt for his par 3; Crabbe was short with his approach and wound up with a 4 to lose the match.

Georgetown Ready for Indians

Williamson Out of Line With Sprained Ankle; Saverine Ill.

MORE of the enthusiasm with which Georgetown has been imbued since the victory over Manhattan vanished yesterday when Capt. Joe Saverine and Chubby Parcells reported at sick bay, joining Frank Williamson, giant center, who was felled by a sprained ankle the day before.

Saverine was confined to the infirmary with a mild attack of influenza. He was ordered to bed by Coach Jack Hagerty, who is taking no risk on losing his best back for Saturday's game with William and Mary at Griffith Stadium. Parcells pulled up with a game leg but is expected to be in uniform this afternoon.

Furado Is Groomed.

All hope for using Williamson against the Indians virtually was abandoned yesterday. The big fellow can walk well enough but running on the ankle is out of the question. Mike Furado, sophomore center, will replace him.

Hagerty sent the second team into action against the freshmen yesterday, after equipping the latter with William and Mary plays. The regulars were given instructions on the best method of stopping the Southerners' spinners from the sidelines. Today they will get into action.

All of the Hoya coaches have seen William and Mary in actual combat and all agree that the Virginians will be difficult to stop. They run every play-off of a spinner, even the forward passes. A husky, rugged line that will be able to match Georgetown man for man, pound for pound, with a small, fast back field, makes a combination hard to beat. William and Mary has that combination.

Three Nearby Boys on Team.

Three Indians will be performing before hometown supporters when they trot out on the gridiron Saturday. George Beanch, sophomore center, and Stumpy Travers, half back, hail from Alexandria, while Bill Davies, guard, is a native of Clarendon.

While the Georgetown Freshmen are helping prep the varsity for this game, they are getting in shape for their opening battle of the year with Wyoming Seminary. Wyoming won over the Hoya yearlings when they last met several years ago, and Georgetown was supposed to be pretty good that year.

Academy Ignores 'Illegal' Score

Middie Officials Silent on Movie's Revelations.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 17 (AP).—Naval Academy athletic authorities refrained from commenting on the University of Maryland contention that the Navy's second touchdown in the Maryland football game was illegal.

Lieut. Comdr. John H. Brown, jr., director of football, when informed of Maryland's claim said the Navy had no comment.

Head Coach Hamilton declared: "Maryland played a fine game, but as far as I am concerned the game is over and the score is 16 to 13."

Young to Give Talk on Defense

Walter Young, coach of American U.'s gridders, will forget his football worries tonight long enough to discuss the peculiarities of defense over Station WMAL. Young will speak on Bill Coyle's program at 6:30 o'clock.

Yesterday he spoke a piece to his football players on the art of blocking, a lost art so far as the Eagles are concerned. The team will be blocking well enough when it squares off with Langley Field Saturday on the Aviators' gridiron if Young's efforts in this direction are not wasted.

Dizzy and Paul Weary of Spotlight, Travel

NEW YORK, Oct. 17 (AP).—Those Dean boys, who are about as silly as a certified check, have finally broken under the strain of the parade of triumph.

"Boy," sighed Big Diz wearily today as he swept into Manhattan with Li'l Brother Paul, " if we wasn't dizzy, we sure are in a whirlwind now!"

They've been on a dead run ever since they conquered the Detroit Tigers four times in the World Series and rocketed into such fame that nothing would do but they tour the land pitching in exhibition ball games. And are they weary?

Paul has a sore arm and a doctor in Philadelphia told him he mustn't throw a ball for two months. Dizzy is weary right down to his soul.

"When this is over," he said, "ah'm goin' down to Bradenton, Fla., and lock every durn door in mah house. They're goin' to have to shove mah fish into me through a stove pipe.

"Me, too," said Paul, though he's going visiting first to Houston, Tex.

But tired, or no, they're the same Dean boys, grinning and happy, voluble, quaint as ever, born showmen—big Diz doing the talknig, brother Paul agreeing.

"Ah'm gittin' to shudder every time ah see a camera," sid Diz as the flashlights flared. "Ah'm so sore ah can't bend.

"Me, too," said Paul.

'Lemme Out,' Diz Hollers.

"The first night we came in from Chicago to Philadelphia in one of them sleeper planes, ah thought mah ears like to break up," said Diz. "Ah come up astandin' hollerin' to let me out at the next stop, and ah

Stock Market Holds Advance As Sales Drop

Rise Is Only One-Tenth; Trading Declines to 662,210 Shares.

New York, Oct. 17 (AP).—Unable to make further appreciable headway, the stock market had to be content today with holding the gains it scored in the previous session.

The market seemed to have run into opposition again at the upper limit of the trading range it has occupied since July and traders withdrew to the sidelines to await for a definite trend to develop.

A firm undertone pervaded most markets, but speculative action was slow in the absence of significant developments bearing on the financial and business outlook.

May Clarify Views.

The focus of attention in trading quarters turned to the address President Roosevelt is scheduled to make next week before bankers at Washington in the belief it would further clarify the Administration's financial views.

Small gains were in the majority at the close in stocks, and the Standard Statistics Co. average for 90 selected shares edged one-tenth of a point higher at 72.3. Volume was nearly the same as yesterday, totaling 662,210 shares against 677,530.

Movements became mixed and hesitant after early rising tendencies failed to gather momentum. California stocks did better in contrast with their recent weakness on fears aroused by political developments in that State. California Packing ended 2 points higher. Standard Oil of California, Safeway Stores, Union Oil, Pacific Lighting and Southern California Edison moved up fractions to about a point.

Silver Shares Decline.

Silver shares were sold on a decline of more than a cent in the metal. U. S. Smelting dropped for a net loss of 2½ points.

A few strong spots were conspicuous. Among them were Coca Cola, up 2 points to a new 1934 top; International Harvester, up 1½; Owens Glass, up 2¼; and Allied Chemical, up 1. Small losses were reported in Bethlehem Steel, American Can, Standard Oil of New Jersey and Western Union.

Rail shares generally sold a little higher. Reports of individual carriers indicated a gain in carloadings last week.

London—Quiet irregularity developed on the stock exchange yesterday. Business in gilt-edged securities was checked by the flotation of new issues, which included the £6,000,000 Central Electricity 3¼ per cent loan stock. Speculative shares were quiet, industrials were irregular and transatlantic issues firmed at the close, which was dull.

Paris—After registering heaviness in several sessions, prices on the bourse rallied yesterday on better Wall street advices and the success of the French loan. Gold mining shares and industrial issues were firmer. The closing was firm.

The bourse will be closed tomorrow in observance of King Alexander's funeral.

Berlin—Prices on the bourse were inclined to be weaker owing to the lack of orders. Quotations closed somewhat lower.

Complaints of Japan's Inroads Into World Trade Call Attention To Deflation of Gold Price Level

By Anna P. Youngman.

In hearings before the committee on reciprocity information, preliminary to conclusion of a trade agreement with Haiti, a representative of the Textile Export Association of the United States presented evidence to show that Japanese cotton goods are now being sold in the Haitian market to the virtual exclusion of American goods, which formerly constituted the bulk of the sales made. The witness added that the situation was the same throughout Latin America. However, this is only a minor encroachment by comparison with the spectacular gains made by Japan in the foreign trade field during the past two years. Her total exports of cotton cloth, for example, are estimated to have amounted to 39 per cent of the volume of world trade in cotton textiles in 1933, as contrasted with only 29 per cent in 1931 and 23 per cent in 1929. Meantime the British share of this trade dropped from 47 per cent in 1929 to 38 per cent in 1933, and exports from all other countries fell from 30 per cent in 1929 to 23 per cent.

Although various reasons, such as low labor costs and improved production methods, help to explain why Japan has been making inroads into the foreign trade of other nations, the depreciation of the yen following abandonment of the gold standard at the end of 1931 is undoubtedly the major factor accounting for the phenomenally rapid expansion of Japan's foreign trade during the past two years.

In varying degrees every nation that has reduced the gold value of its currency is, like Japan, prepared to encroach upon the trade of other countries that have stable gold currencies or less heavily depreciated currencies.

Advances in Domestic Prices And Declines in World Gold.

So much emphasis has been placed upon the advances in domestic prices that generally accompany currency depreciation that the sharp concurrent declines in world gold price levels which have resulted have not been fully realized except by those trading interests directly affected. At the present time, for instance, the Japanese yen is worth about 34 per cent of its gold parity. Wholesale prices in Japan, however, have risen less than 16 per cent above the level ruling just prior to abandonment of the gold standard in 1931.

Consequently Japanese prices computed in terms of gold are at present about 60 per cent below the level of 1931. Contrast this situation with that of the United States and Great Britain, whose currencies stand at 59 per cent and approximately 60 per cent respectively, of their former gold parities. Both countries have meanwhile experienced a limited rise in dollar and sterling prices. In case of the United States the advance as compared with the annual average for 1931 has been about 5 per cent. For Great Britain, it has amounted to about 9 per cent since suspension of gold payments in 1931. This indicates that prices today on a gold basis that is adjusted for currency depreciation are about 38 per cent below the level of 1931 for the United States, and 35 per cent lower in Great Britain. Despite this pronounced deflation, both countries are patently seriously handicapped in direct competition with Japan, because of the relatively much greater depreciation of the yen.

With the currencies of a great majority of the trading nations of the world in the neighborhood of 40, 50 or 60 per cent of former gold parities without concurrent advances in domestic prices sufficient to offset the effect of exchanges depreciation, the so-called gold bloc countries, which have maintained the value of their currencies unchanged during the past few years, are clearly under a great and growing pressure to force down domestic prices as a means of meeting the competition in the world markets of countries whose selling prices on a gold basis have been falling precipitately.

French Prices Are About 25 Per Cent Below 1931.

French prices, for instance, are now approximately 25 per cent below the level of 1931, but efforts to reduce them still more have to be made, if France is to catch up with Great Britain, and the United States, to say nothing of those countries whose currencies are even more depreciated.

In the gold bloc countries, moreover, deflation of gold prices has to be brought about by the familiar method of cutting wages and other production costs, lowering domestic prices, and submitting to the painful readjustments that are incidental to such operations. The political repercussions of such forced deflation within all the countries belonging to the gold bloc are serious, and create grave doubts of the ability of those in power to proceed vigorously with deflationary policies that result in growing business depression. The fault of course lies not with the gold standard, but with the chaotic exchange conditions created by its widespread abandonment.

So long as this unstable exchange situation exists, it will be impossible to establish foreign trade upon a fair competitive basis. The country that devalues its currency most ruthlessly and succeeds best in holding down domestic prices while so doing, can undercut a competitor otherwise fully able to produce on a basis of equality as respects costs. The record shows conclusively that devaluation is no adequate defense against devaluation. Foreign trade can only be restored to a sound basis by a return to stabilized exchange based on gold. Present destructive practices are turning foreign trade into a gamble instead of an orderly interchange of goods.

Bonds Record Slight Rise In Quiet Sales

Domestic Corporate Loans Improve; Trading Totals $13,780,000.

New York, Oct. 17 (AP).—Domestic corporate loans continued to improve in the bond market today, but U. S. Governments were a trifle lower and the foreign section was spotty.

Transfers aggregated $13,780,000 par value, compared with $16,634,000 on Tuesday, and the Government turnover aggregated $4,730,000 against $7,170,000 on Tuesday.

Treasury Bonds Revive.

Treasury bonds gave way to selling pressure in the early trading and registered losses up to ¼ of a point before a spurt of buying erased most of the losses.

A few showed small advances, including Home Owners Loan and Federal Farm Mortgage issues. Home Owners Loan 2¾s made a new high at 95.3, up one thirty-second on the day.

Lower-priced bonds again led the standard issues in both volume and points gained. Colorado & Southern 4½s advanced one point at 70½, Northern Pacific 4½s were 2¼ higher at 82½ and Pittsburgh & West Va. 4½s advanced 2 points to 70.

Other issues selling 1 to 2 points higher included obligations of the New Haven, Pere Marquette, Wabash, Chicago & Northwestern, Federal Light & Traction, Interboro Rapid Transit, and North American Edison.

List of Gainers.

Fractional gains were recorded by representative issues, including American Telephone 5s, American Smelting 5s, Burlington 4s, Cincinnati Terminal 5s, Illinois Central 3½s and Union Pacific 4½s. Liggett & Myers 5s improved a point to 115, and the 7s were 1⅜ higher at 129⅜.

Standard Oil of New Jersey 5s were heavily traded and yielded ½ point to 105½ following publication of reports that the company was considering a plan to call a portion of the outstanding issue early in the next year at 102.

Most of the Argentine issues were a trifle lower. Some improvement was noted in German and Italian issues.

Curb's Prices Back and Fill; Trading Dull

Early Advances Erased as Sale Volume Rises to 126,000 Shares.

New York, Oct. 17 (AP).—Backing and filling movements of the more active issues on the Curb Exchange today left closing prices near the finals of the previous day. Volume was about the same as yesterday.

A moderate advance shortly after the opening had subsided by the end of the second hour. Gains were gradually lost in the afternoon while a few specialties dipped for net losses.

Gulf Oil, Lerner Stores and New Jersey Zinc all ended a point or more higher. Hiram Walker yielded 1, while profit-taking halted the recent spectacular rise in Singer Manufacturing, which closed at 236, off 3½ points.

In the metal group, Lake Shore, Newmont and Wright-Hargreaves were a bit easy. Electric Bond & Share was off a shade, while shares finishing about even included American Gas & Electric, American Cyanamid "B," Creole Petroleum, Swift Internacionale and Parker Rust Proof.

The Dollar Abroad

(Associated Press.)

The dollar was weak against leading currencies in European centers yesterday, but held fairly steady in New York.

In London the dollar declined 2¼ cents to the pound sterling, closing at $4.94 7-16, after considerable speculative buying of the British unit by continental interests. In New York, however, the British currency only gained ⅛ of a cent, to $4.94 in later trading.

In Paris the dollar declined 4½ centimes, closing at an equivalent of 6.665 cents to the franc. In later dealings in New York, the French unit was unchanged at 6.66 cents.

Other European gold currencies, including Swiss francs and Dutch guilders, were steady in London and Paris but yielded slightly in New York.

Bar gold declined 2½ pence in London, to 142 shillings 7 pence ($35.16), at which price $2,845,512 was purchased. Silver was 1 pence lower at 23⅞ pence.

Wheat Values Decline Under Foreign Selling

Rains in Southwest Area Also Aid in Pushing Prices Lower.

Chicago, Oct. 17 (AP).—Pronounced weakness developed in wheat values today, with France underselling both Canada and Argentina abroad and with liberal rains reported in domestic wheat territory Southwest.

It was reported France was offering wheat to Great Britain at rates lower even than Argentine corn. Trade advices said some of the driest areas of the United States winter wheat belt had been furnished moisture likely to be of benefit to crops.

Wheat Closes Unsteady.

Wheat closed unsteady at the lowest point reached, ⅞ to 1⅝ under yesterday's finish, May 1.00¼@1.00⅛; corn at ⅛ to ⅝ decline, May 79⅞@80, oats ¼ to ¾ off, and provisions 2 cents to 15 cents up.

Although there were numerous rallies in wheat values, and notwithstanding that at one stage today corn sold at the highest level since September 13, the fact was very apparent that the bull edge was off the grain markets for at least the time being.

Contributing to weakness of wheat was an official estimate that Australia's probable wheat crop is 136,000,000 bushels, compared with recent private forecasts of 112,000,000 to 124,000,000 bushels. Improved weather conditions for the new Argentine wheat crop were also noted.

Many places in Kansas reported more than an inch of rain, with downpours still continuing. Good rains in Oklahoma and Texas were also reported, with prospects of widespread showers tonight in other wheat States.

Corn and oats eased with wheat, despite word of continued poor returns from husking.

Trade Activity Drops Slightly

Barometer Declines Only 0.1 Point in Week, Report Says.

New York, Oct. 17.—Less than seasonal increases in carloadings and electric power production and small declines in bank clearings and price index resulted in lowering the adjusted indexes for these four components of the Dun & Bradstreet Business Activity Barometer for the week ended October 10. The contra-seasonal gain in steel operations, however, held the barometer to 61.6 per cent of the 1928-1930 average, against 61.7 the week before. The latest figure shows a drop of 4.5 per cent as compared with the corresponding week of 1933 when the barometer stood at 64.5.

Following will be found the Dun & Bradstreeet Business Activity Barometer and its components for recent weeks, (1928-30 equals $100):

Foreign Silver Prices Decline to 54⅜ Cents

New York, Oct. 17 (AP).—Foreign silver for domestic industrial use declined 1¼ cents an ounce to 54⅜ cents today, reversing the upward trend that has been in progress for a week or more.

There was nothing in the day's news to account for the decline, other than a drop of 1 pence in the London market to 23⅞ pence which had been announced earlier in the day. At today's price the metal was still 4⅜ cents an ounce higher than the point at which it was nationalized by the Federal Government last summer.

Reichs Bank's Gold Increased

Berlin, Oct. 17 (AP).—The Reichs Bank's gold and foreign currency coverage of bank notes increased in the week past from 2.18 to 2.265 per cent.

U. S. Spending For 3½ Months Exceeds Billion

(Associated Press.)

The Government's emergency expenditures were reported yesterday by the Treasury to have passed the billion-dollar mark for the 3½ months of the fiscal year up to October 15.

The total expenditures were $1,828,396,679. Of these the outgo for emergency purposes was $1,015,443,339, in spite of repayments of $125,000,000 by the Reconstruction Corporation and $10,000,000 by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

President Roosevelt in his budget message to Congress last January estimated that the total emergency cost for the current fiscal year ended June 30 would be $732,286,500, after RFC repayments of $480,436,600.

However, the President had estimated emergency expenditures for the fiscal year ended last June 30 at approximately 2½ billion more than the amount actually used.

The Federal Emergency Relief Administration contributed $444,000,000 to this year's emergency costs, with highways coming second at $152,000,000. Emergency conservation work accounted for $116,000,000.

The Farm Administration has spent $80,000,000, which, however, was balanced by $166,000,000 of processing tax revenues. All of the excess is earmarked for payments to farmers cooperating in crop control plans.

Cavaliers Off For Indian Lair Today

Virginians Stress Defense Against Dartmouth's Punt Returners.

UNIVERSITY, Va., Oct. 17 (AP).—Plays that Virginia hopes to use to defeat Dartmouth in Hanover Saturday were given a careful dress rehearsal this afternoon in the last intensive drill the Cavaliers will have before leaving tomorrow.

Gus Tebell indicated that he expected to start the same eleven who ended up at the kick-off of the victory over St. Johns, but he did not stop shifting his men, both in line and back field.

Part of the drill was given over to defensive practice. Coach Slaughter, who scouted Dartmouth, has reported that the speed of the Indian backs is what Virginia will have to watch. Consequently, the best scrub sprinters were run with the ball as an eleven drilled in Dartmouth plays was pitted against the varsity.

The four ends who may get into action at Hanover, Johnny Leys, Cullen Wilkin, Wier Tucker and Don Fitzhugh, were sent racing down the field under punts to get them ready to try to halt punt returns, which is reported to be a specialty in which the Indians excel.

Sisler off to the St. Louis Browns and said, in effect: "I am a pretty smart baseball man and I am bringing you on the hoof a $100,000 star, and please I want a job and a chunk of your ball club." Rickey switching to the Cards, has been trafficking in flesh ever since.

Chain Called "Butcher Shop."

His Cardinal chain has been compared to a baseball butcher shop. I have seen ball players cry into their lockers when they learned they had been traded to him. Branch does not spend as much on his chain as he would have you believe. Patriotic town merchants put up the bulk of the capital. Rickey is shrewd. I think he is the smartest man in the business.

His Cards' control 15 clubs in 15 cities and have working agreements with two dozen more. Today he has a hard and fast monopoly on half the men in baseball. Obscure prairie youngsters are unaware they are signing slave papers in his system so great are its ramifications. Here indeed is regimentation! What price personal liberty?

Now the amazing part of all this is the continued sportsmanship of the Deans. They are not moneyhungry farmer boys. On the contrary they are generous, happy-go-lucky fellows. Nice fellows, too. Of course, they know they are getting a rooking and they may go on strike next spring. Eventually they will be blackjacked into signing at one-half the wage they deserve. But please do observe their conduct. They were in second division in midsummer. Right? At that time the World Series was a faint mirage over the hot Missouri sands. Unable to go into the open market for a fair salary they returned to work. It went against their grain, it hurt their country pride to lose to rivals. They chanced the ruin of their arms, the loss of the series purse and the subsequent danger of no salary at all in '35. They shed 20 pounds in weight, but retained their self-respect.

Laborers Worth Their Hire.

And now, for the sake of comparison, suppose you were slicing bologna at Krausmeyer's delicatesseen for $10 a week, and suppose Schwarzenhoffer across the street offered you $20 for the same duties and you were forbidden to go. How would you feel when you accepted your $10 check each Saturday night? Would you sulk? Would you be nice to Krausmeyer's customers? Would you slice his bologna thin?

Walt Mason Himself

Oblivion.

Where is now our friend Da Preem, once the pugilistic dream? Now the months and seasons pass, and he doesn't cut much grass; papers sell upon the street with their sports page all complete; once they wrote him up each day, wouldn't let him fade away; once his face, in gaudy tints showed up in these public prints; he was interviewed at dawn, and again when day was gone; when he walked upon the street, on his large and spreading feet, lovely damozels would scream, "There's the champion, Da Preem!" All the great men of the land seemed much pleased to grasp his hand and to whisper in his ear that they never saw his peer. And the man of giant frame gloried in this shoddy fame, and believed it would endure, it was stable, fixed and sure. Now we seldom hear his name; vanquished in his chosen game, he went tumbling from the height to be wrapped in darkest night. If he walks along the street people joke about his feet, which are of abnormal size and in shape like custard pies; lovely damsels cry, like foes, "There the big palooka goes." It is sad to see the great fallen from their high estate; jeered at by the heartless throng that once boosted him along, banished from their camps and courts by all thrifty dead game sports. But Da Preem is not alone in this sorrow of his own. Countless people, worn and lame, exiled from the Hall of Fame, look back on the happy days when they were Fame's hand-picked joys.

G.W.U. Awards 149 Graduates Their Degrees

Group Who Ended Studies at Summer School Hear Marvin.

Those students of George Washington University who completed their courses in summer school this year, 149 of them, received their degrees in a ceremony at the university gymnasium at noon yesterday.

They heard President Cloyd H. Marvin tell them that their training had pledged them to new habits of judging life, and to the acceptance of responsibility for their own activities, attributes that would mark them as educated men, he added.

"One of the reasons why we find ourselves so confused," he continued, "is that we are without belief in the integrity of one another. This basis for social development would be comparatively simple to reconstruct if each person were willing to dedicate his own action so that his fellow men would say: 'He is a man of integrity.'"

"Do not fool yourselves. We need to believe in our own actions before we know how to trust others. Nothing is sacred in this life of yours save the integrity of your own minds."

Following a prayer by the Rev. John E. Fort, of Union Methodist Episcopal Church, the following graduates received their certificates and degrees:

Judge Cleared In Crash Case

Former First Baseman of Nationals Acquitted at Hyattsville.

Joseph I. Judge, former first baseman for the Washington Nationals, was acquitted in the Hyattsville Police Court yesterday of a charge of reckless driving.

The charges resulted from collision of truck and the car at College Park, Md., last October 6, in which Mike Martin, trainer for the Washington team, and several others were injured.

E. V. Alberts, of Suffolk, Va., driver of a truck loaded with fireworks, which allegedly struck Judge's car, was fined $5 and costs for reckless driving.

Judge testified that he was coming out of the main gate of the University and had practically completed the turn onto the Baltimore boulevard when the truck struck him.

Martin, who had sufficiently recovered from lacerations and bruises, testified that he only saw the truck alongside the car before he was knocked unconscious.

Mrs. Judge and Howard Ortel, 1702 Webster street northwest, accupants of the auto, who also received slight injuries, verified Judge's testimony.

Prince Georges County Policeman Claude Reese, who made the arrests, testified for the county.

'Illegal' Jailing Charged in Suit

Fred Burton, of Baltimore, yesterday filed suit at Upper Marlboro to recover $10,000 damages from Justice of the Peace John A. Downing, of Hyattsville.

Burton, an employe of the Nu Car Forwarding Co. of Baltimore, charged that Downing caused him to be "unlawfully, maliciously and without just cause detained and locked up in the Hyattsville jail for 14 hours."

A charge of reckless driving was placed against Burton, July 18, 1934, after a minor auto accident at Riverdale, and he was required to post $100 bond before Downing, according to the suit.

Unable to raise the money immediately, he was held in the lockup. H. R. D. Wilson, manager of the Nu Car Forwarding Co., the suit alleges, appeared with the $100 in cash and was refused on the grounds a real estate bond was necessary.

Wilson, it is alleged, then went to Justice of the Peace George S. Phillips at Berwyn, Md., posted $100 cash and signed a real estate bond for Burton's release. This was said to have been rejected at Hyattsville.

The suit was filed by Burton's attorneys, Edwin C. Dutton, Charles C. Council and Charles F. Lillard.

Lansburgh's Honors Oldest Employes

Frank Major, dean of employes of Lansburgh's department store, who has served 56 years, and other old-timers at the store were honored yesterday at Founders Day exercises held at the store. Thomas C. Littlepage, former president of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, was honor guest and principal speaker.

The store was founded 74 years ago.

Physician Shot in Fight With Intruder in Home

Dr. Walton W. Young, 60, a colored physician, was shot in the left leg yesterday while stuggling with a former roomer at his home, 818 New Jersey avenue. The affair began when Dr. Young ordered the man to leave, police said.

The physician was taken to Freedmen's Hospital, where it was said his condition is "undetermined."

BLACKIE BEAR
By D. SAM COX

Don't Grieve: Feed the Cow

When you see how little some people have, it's hard to believe just how much these same people could have if they would just work like Blackie Bear and the boys work. Now don't laugh and ask what sort of work they do—they do lots and lots of work. Isn't Blackie working when he is sitting back in his chair, blowing smoke rings and making plans to go out and get the food that he and his friends have to have to keep them alive? And isn't he working when he goes out to carry out these plans, and to get the thing that he has been planning to get, and knows there is danger that he may get killed while he is working for his living? And isn't Jay bird right busy on his job when he is getting up early in the morning to go over and see what Mr. Man and Uncle Joe are about? Certainly he is working, and all the other Creek folks are working when they are helping Blackie to carry out his plans.

And did you ever hear Blackie or any of the boys grumbling about having to work? You never did. What you have heard them do was have a lot of happy talk over the plans for working, and a lot more pleasant talk over the way they had worked their plans and "brought home the bacon." And in those first days after Blackie came to Bear Creek, before he learned much about his neighbors, and when he had to go to bed hungry, did you ever hear him complaining to Dr. Coon or anybody about not having any supper? No, sir! Every day is a new day with Blackie and his friends, and offers another lot of chances for going out and bringing home what Mr. Man or Uncle Joe or somebody else was fixing for him yesterday. One day's failure never did mean but one thing to Blackie, and that was to plan better tonight and work faster tomorrow.

I never will forget what Blackie said to Billie Possum one night when Billie came dragging home from Mrs. Moo Cow's with an empty milk bucket, and was worrying because just before he got to Blackie's house he had caught his foot in some vines that had made him fall and spill all his milk. It didn't worry Blackie a bit. He just leaned back in his chair, blew another smoke-ring, and said: "Never grieve over spilled milk; feed the cow." And that's just as good advice for children as it is for possums. You can't pick the milk up off the ground; but if you will feed the cow she will give you some more milk.

So you will see that Blackie always makes the best of everything, and he also makes a lot of things better. And this goes to show what a lot of good can be done by just one jolly bear. I wonder what could be done by a boy or girl if he or she would work hands and heads and feet as well as Blackie does.

Drive Begun At Frederick By Democrats

Gov. Ritchie and Other State Candidates Join in Rally.

Parade, Mass Meeting and Dance Features of Event.

Frederick, Md., Oct. 18 (Spl.).—Democrats launched their State campaign in Frederick County tonight with a street parade, mass meeting, and dance at the State Armory. Gov. Albert C. Ritchie and the other State candidates arrived early this evening and were guests at a dinner at the Francis Scott Key Hotel. The dinner also was attended by members of the Democratic State committee and officers of the county committee, the latter including the chairmen of the District's committees.

Gov. Ritchie and his party were met by a committee of city and county leaders, and given an impromptu reception in the lobby of the hotel. It was the first visit of the Governor to Frederick since he returned from a trip abroad during the summer and he was warmly greeted.

The parade formed on North Market street and marched over the principal thoroughfares of the city and disbanded at the Opera House, where the mass meeting was held. About 1,000 marchers carried torchlights.

The Opera House was crowded and the Governor and his party were given another ovation as they arrived. The meeting was called to order by former State's Attorney William M. Storm, who presented Joseph D. Baker. The latter presented Gov. Ritchie. Other speakers included David J. Lewis, seeking reelection from the Sixth District; Herbert R. O'Connor, candidate for attorney general, and Daniel S. Sullivan, Baltimore. Others presented were William S. Gordy, candidate for State comptroller, and James A. Young, candidate for clerk of the Court of Appeals.

The county candidates also were introduced.

The Governor and the State candidates attended the dance at the State Armory. Gov. Ritchie will campaign in Montgomery County tomorrow.

Virginia Beauty Sues Mate and His Mother

Mrs. Katherine T. Maxwell Charges Husband With Cruelty and Mother-in-Law With Alienation; Asks $250,000.

Charlottesville, Va., Oct. 18 (Spl.). Local society is awaiting with keen interest the outcome of two suits filed by Mrs. Katherine T. Maxwell, of this city, beautiful and accomplished daughter of Col. and Mrs. W. V. Thraves, of Kentucky and Virginia—the first against her husband, George L. Maxwell, New York clubman and member of the Stock Exchange, and the second against her mother-in-law, Mrs. Marie Raymond Maxwell, of New York and Paris, asking damages of $250,000.

In the first action, Mrs. Maxwell is seeking separation from her husband and is asking for the custody of their 10-month-old baby. This case probably will come to trial in a New York court within the next ten days.

In the second suit, which will be heard in the Circuit Court of Albemarle County, Mrs. Maxwell charges her mother-in-law with the alienation of her husband's affections "by poisoning the mind of her son and so dominating him that he was induced to convey to her his personal and real property, including Oakleigh," the estate on which the couple lived while in Virginia.

Married in 1932.

The marriage of the Maxwells occurred in August, 1932. Mr. Maxwell came to Virginia in 1851 and was so attracted by the beautiful hunting country in the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains that he purchased Oakleigh, a 400-acre estate near Greenwood, about 3 miles from Mirador, girlhood home of Lady Astor. He first met Miss Katherine Thraves in the hunting field in the fall of that year, and several months later their engagement was announced.

The marriage in August two years ago was an important event in local society and was attended by the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Marie Raymond Maxwell, who came on from Paris for the ceremony. The couple spent their honeymoon at an Eastern seashore resort, returning later to their estate in the Blue Ridge Mountains.

The first break in the marital life of the young couple followed the birth of a daughter in a New York hospital last December 29. The young mother charges that while she was desperately ill for weeks, Mr. Maxwell became so abusive that she was obliged to leave their New York home and go to the apartment of her parents there.

Testimony will be introduced, she said, in an effort to show that for weeks Mrs. Maxwell was attended only by an 80-year-old physician; that despite the fact that her condition daily became more alarming, no other medical aid was summoned; that the telephones in the house were cut off to prevent Mrs. Maxwell from conversing with her parents, and that detectives were employed with instructions to keep Col. and Mrs. Thraves from entering the sick room of their daughter.

Col. Thraves, it is said, took matters in his own hands and, after the young husband had refused to see him and talk over the situation, he drove up to the Maxwell home in an ambulance and had his daughter brought out on a stretcher.

Under the care of a specialist, Mrs. Maxwell at once began to improve and in two months was able to leave her bed. Not once during these months, it is stated, did she receive word from her husband.

Returns to Charlottesville.

Early in May Mrs. Maxwell returned to Charlottesville, accompanied by her parents, and since that time the family has occupied an apartment in a hotel. At intervals she made flying trips to New York to see her baby.

The second suit charges that while the young mother lay critically ill in New York, Mr. Maxwell's mother came to Virginia and proceeded to rid Oakleigh and all of Mrs. Maxwell's personal belongings, as well as her string of horses and pet dog. Personal effects were sent here and left in the lobby of a local hotel.

The former Miss Thraves comes of an old Southern family. Her ancestors were active in the Revolutionary War, and both of her grandfathers served throughout the Civil War, being wounded several times. Her father was educated at Richmond College and practiced law in Oklahoma.

Deciding to withdraw from the general practice of law in favor of the oil industry, Col. Thraves took his wife and daughter, Katherine, then 8 years of age, to west Texas, more than 50 miles from any railway, and there built the first oil camp in that field, developing their own property, which proved exceptionally productive.

Back to Blue Grass.

Being interested in sports, such as hunting and racing, the family returned to Kentucky and Virginia. Locating finally in the famed Blue Grass section near Lexington, Ky., Col. Thraves purchased the celebrated breeding establishment known as Longridge, near there, which still remains the Kentucky home of the family. His stables at Longridge became quite noted and some of the horses bred there won high honors on the turf.

Mrs. Maxwell's mother was Miss Gertrude Campbell, daughter of the late Dr. J. L. Campbell, of Winchester, Va., and is herself a woman of remarkable beauty. Her grandfather was Gen. Lockhart, one of the prominent figures in the War of 1812. Her father served throughout the Civil War as brigadier surgeon, in charge of several hospitals, and was a member of the first State Legislature after the war. For nearly 50 years he practiced law in Woodstock, and at one time was secretary of the State Board of Health and physician for the Baltimore & Ohio Railway.

Mrs. Maxwell, the daughter, was educated at the Warrenton County School, taught by Mme. Bouligney, of France, and at Hamilton College, Kentucky.

Cammerer and Bland Among Speakers at Dedication.

Yorktown, Va., Oct. 18 (AP).—Formulation of articles under which Cornwallis surrendered to Washington was celebrated here today with the dedication as a part of the Colonial National Monument, of the Moore house, where the articles were drafted October 18, 1781, by commissioners from the American and British armies.

The program today opened a two-day celebration of the anniversary of the surrender at Yorktown and the death of the Marquis de Lafayette.

Dedicatory addresses were made today by Arno B. Cammerer, director of the National Park Service, and Representative S. Otis Bland, of Newport News. Cammerer was introduced by B. F. Loyd Flickinger, superintendent of the Colonial National Monument.

U. S. Officials Attend.

The celebration is being sponsored by the Comte de Grass Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution and other patriotic bodies, and the park service.

Tomorrow a program will commemorate the actual presentation of Cornwallis' sword to Gen. Lincoln under the terms of the surrender.

The centennial anniversary of Lafayette's death will be observed tomorrow afternoon.

Dignitaries of the Federal and State Governments and representatives of patriotic societies were among arrivals here today. Mrs. Russell W. Magna, of Massachusetts, president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, who will deliver the memorial address tomorrow morning; J. J. Lewis, president of Lafayette College, Pennsylvania, and Mrs. James H. Dorsey, conservation chairman of the Maryland D. A. R., were among early arrivals.

Pond Area Opened.

This afternoon the Wormley Pond area, closely connected with the Yorktown siege, was formally opened to start hte program. En route to the Moore House Mr. McEntee cut a ribbon barring the entrance to the restored battlefield road, and Ashton Dovell, of Williamsburg, unveiled markers on the site of the encampment of the Virginia militia under Gen. Thomas Nelson. Mrs. George D. Chenoweth, regent of Comte de Grasse Chapter, D. A. R., unveiled a marker on the site of the encampment of the Lafayette Infantry Division where dedication rights were held at 2 p. m.

The Rev. W. C. James, D. D., of Williamsburg, offered the invocation and the Rev. A. J. Renforth, chairman of the Moore House committee, presented the key to the house to the National Park Service. This was followed by a pageant depicting the conference at which the articles of surrender were drawn. Mr. Gammerer's address concluded the program.

Ritchie, Many Notables Attend Digges Funeral

Final Tribute Is Paid to Maryland Judge at La Plata.

By a Staff Correspondent.

La Plata, Md., Oct. 18.—Hundreds of persons, among them Gov. Ritchie and other State notables, today attended the funeral of Chief Judge W. Mitchell Digges, of the Seventh Maryland Judicial Circuit.

The Governor's party led the way as the body of the late president of the Maryland Bar Association was removed from his home on the outskirts of La Plata to Christ's Episcopal Church.

Also accompanying the procession were the members of the State Court of Appeals, of which Judge Digges was a member; members of the courts and bar associations of Prince Georges, Calvert, St. Marys and Prince Frederick counties.

After services at the church, conducted by the Rev. Harry H. Bobert, rector, interment took place at Mount Rest Cemetery here.

The active pallbearers were Judge Digges' cousins, H. Maxwell Mitchell, Walter J. Mitchell, jr., James C. Mitchell, John H. Mitchell, F. Lewis Mitchell and McLean Cruikshank, all of La Plata.

Honorary pallbearers were Gov. Ritchie, the members of the Court of Appeals, Judges Joseph C. Mattingly and William Loker, associate judges of the Seventh Judicial Circuit, and the clerks of court of the four counties of the circuit.

All business places in La Plata were closed during the services, as were many public offices in the four counties of the judicial circuit.

Judge Digges died Monday. In addition to being chief judge of the circuit, a member of the Court of Appeals and president of the Maryland Bar Association, he had held many public offices since his admittance to the bar in 1902.

He was born near La Plata in 1877 and attended Charlotte Hall Military Academy, Maryland Agricultural College (now the University of Maryland), and the university's law school.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Natalie Jenkins Digges; one daughter, Miss Eleanor Jenkins Digges, and three sons—John Dudley, Walter Mitchell, jr., and Edward Simms Digges.

Boy Swings His Rifle By Barrel, Shoots Self

Harrisonburg, Va., Oct. 18 (Spl.). Charles Loker, 16, of Linville, while opossum hunting last night, playfully swung his rifle at a cat to chase it up a tree. The result was that the gun went off and young Loker is in the hospital with a bullet wound in his side. The extent of his injuries will not be determined until an X-ray is taken. Loker grasped the rifle by the barrel to swing at the cat.

Good morning! Isn't it surprising how much difference a new tie makes? It makes even more difference this season. In addition to color and pattern, ties now go in for texture — a sort of third dimension. An idea welcome to the man who has selected tweed clothes for Fall and Winter.

The Rockingham County Jail recently modernized its confining block with new file-proof bars and a new master lock. When it was installed, experts guaranteed that anybody would have a pretty tough time departing. Such was the case when Jailer Everett Martin attempted to release a prisoner who had served a 60-day sentence. The lock even failed to respond to the key, and by the time a man from the lock company arrived from Roanoke the prisoner had served an extra day.

The Biblical admonition that money is the root of all evil might be a worn phrase to most persons, but to Stella Boston and "Pep" Jones, Danville (Va.) Negroes, it is a mighty true fact. Jones is alleged to have wounded her in the leg with a shotgun as the climax to a quarrel over a 50-cent debt. Now one is in jail and the other is in the hospital.

Nearly a half century on the same job as county superintendent of schools is claimed as a record by Prof. W. D. Smith, veteran superintendent of Scott County schools. Since his first appointment in 1886, Smith has seen the "little red school house" disappear and the modern brick building take its place.

Chester Stumbaugh, letter carrier, of Williamsport, Md., is steering clear of even the smallest dogs in the future. The other day while making his rounds he was bitten by three dogs as he attempted to distribute his mail.

Hunt, of Washington; Morton Wallerstein, of Richmond, president of the Virginia League of Municipalities, joined with Culpeper citizens today in celebrating the completion of Culpeper's new municipal electric light and power plant, with dedication exercises on the courthouse green, and official inspection of the plant.

More than 1,000 attended the ceremony, which was preceded by patriotic music by the Municipal Band, led by E. S. Dinkel.

250 Convene To Plan Drive Of Red Cross

Conference at Roanoke Sets Roll Call for Armistice Day.

116 Chapters Show Total Surplus of $2,301; More Needed.

Roanoke, Va., Oct. 18 (AP).—Approximately 250 delegates from central and western Virginia met here today at a regional Red Cross conference and discussed plans for continuing Virginia at the head of the group of 12 Southern States in the percentage of population enrolled in the organization.

The conference was a preliminary to the opening of the annual roll call on Armistice Day.

Among the speakers was Representative Clifton A. Woodrum, who declared the Government has depended on the Red Cross in the past and will continue to do so in the future, "because the Red Cross is there ahead of disaster." Dr. Thomas E. Green, of the National staff, stated that statistics for the last five years show that emergency relief and disaster relief, coupled with routine chapter activities, have been administered by the Red Cross on one of every five families in the Nation. John L. Teets, field representative in Virginia, and Williar Carl Hunt, assistant manager of the Eastern area from Virginia headquarters, also spoke.

The conference convened in three sections, the white adult and junior divisions meeting at Hotel Roanoke and the colored section at the First Baptist Church (colored).

Statistics presented before the conference showed that, as of July 1, the 116 active chapters in Virginia had a total of only $2,301 in their treasuries indicating the necessity for the immediate replenishing of their funds.

Newsreel Establishes New Record in Placing Tragic European Events on Screen

Assassinations In Marseille Are Shown Here

By Nelson B. Bell.

As dramatic as anything that has come along to the screen in months are the Paramount News shots of the assassination of King Alexander of Yugoslavia and Minister Barthou of France, in Marseille, on Tuesday, October 9.

The air fairly crackled with the telegraphic announcement of this coup on the part of a newsreel that not so long ago was awarded the title of best of the lot, by some magazine forum or other, and one gathers from the surplusage of advice relating to the matter that the authentic pictures of the entire nasty business were on view at the Earle at 4:43 p. m., and at the Metropolitan at about the same hour, within nine days, almost to the hour, of the time the double murder occured abroad.

This is in the nature of a record accomplishment for Paramount, by reason of the fact that this tragic episode in the chronicle of nations was a source of bitter competition among the newsreels, the professional antagonisms having been carried even to the point of loss of life, over and above that involved in the murders.

Comprehensive Courage.

I gather from the wires and news stories from Frank La Falce, director of advertising and publicity for the local Warner Brothers offices, and Robert Denton, Washington representative of Paramount News, that what happened was something like this: Paramount News, by dint of some sort of unrevealed legerdemain, got their film of the double assassination aboard a fast liner after a desperate bit of competitive effort.

It will be recalled from the news stories of the day that a considerable footage of exposed film was destroyed to prevent its dissemination to the world—although that seems an utterly fallacious piece of misdirected effort on the part of any officialdom.

The liner floated the gelatin to New York in the shortest possible time, it was developed there and prints hurried to Washington by plane in time to make the screens only a little more than a week after a crime that shocked Europe and the world.

Murder Is Shown.

The pictures, since you will want to know, cover the entire cycle of murderous events from the time the king arrived in France on a warship, took his place in the automobile with French Foreign Minister Louis Barthou and was almost immediately mowed down by the murderer's attack. As the king falls dying to the floor of the motor car, police are shown charging the crowd with sabers and pistols.

I suspect that Bob Denton is wholly correct when he states that he deems this bit of "spot" news reporting perhaps the most thrilling that ever has found its way into a newsreel.

Only one comparable "beat" suggests itself and that is the remarkably realistic depiction of the scenes surrounding the attempted revolver attack on President-elect Roosevelt in Miami, which resulted in the death of Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago.

That energetic and highly competent young impresario, Theodore Tiller 2d, recently returned to Washington from a successful summer with the Gloucester Little Theater, up Massachusetts way, has reorganized his former Shoestrings Productions, Inc., into the Shoestring Players Club. The implication of the organization's slender resources, it will be observed, remains approximately the same. That is less important, however, than the equally obvious fact to those who take note that they always have done good work and that this year promises better results than ever by reason of the fact that Mr. Tiller has secured the services of John Mann as director of his productions. Mr. Mann knows his way about in the minor theater of amateur effort, having been associated with the Boston Footlighters Guild, the Rockport Little Theater, the Cosmopolitan Players of Philadelphia and the various Thatcher companies scattered over New England. That would be Jim Thatcher, formerly general manager of the Poli interests in Washington. The Shoestring Players Club's first production, coming along in early November, will be "A Murder Has Been Arranged." That, in case you hadn't heard, is a British ghost play. Scary and everything.

Miss Schreiner Scores.

Bess Davis Schreiner, most indefatigable of the directors of local entertainment, whose particular talents devote themselves to the fulmination of literate encomiums dedicated to the achievements of the Community Players of Washington—or maybe it is the Washington Community Players, which I am inclined to think it is—announces the following cast for the two nights' performances of "Romeo and Juliet" at Roosevelt Auditorium tonight and tomorrow night. "Romeo and Juliet," you will remember, was a trifle written by one Will Shakespeare, who had notions about the potency of strong poisons.

Strong Local Cast.

Prologue, Wade Robinson; Sampson, George Wilcox; Gregory, Wayne Bobst; Abram, Jack Hare; Balthasar, James M. Rawls; Benvolio, Theodore Freter; Tybalt, Herman Riess; Capulet, Robert Halstead; Lady Capulet, Jean Smith; Montague, Jesse Veitch; Lady Montague, Christine Irish; Escalus, Prince of Verona, Kent Dyer; Romeo, Howard Whitfield; Paris, Charles Beck; Peter, Paul Murphy; Nurse, Mabel Owens Wilcox; Juliet, Bess Jones Winburn; Mercutio, John Sikken; Rosaline, Alice Louise Hunter.

An Old Man in the Capulet Family, H. Stanley Protheroe; Page, Jack Robinson; Friar Lawrence, Thomas M. Cahill; An Apothecary, H. Stanley Protheroe; Friar John, Wade Robinson; Attendants to the Prince, and guests at the Capulet feast, Henry Bradford, Arthur Branscombe, Jack Hare, John Kendrick, Thomas Owen, Winfree Lee, Dorothy Manning, Nancy Haas, Nancy Hall and Kathryn Cunningham.

The drama will be played in three acts, including 20 brief episodes. Katherine Riggs Washington, harpist, will play the incidental music for "Romeo and Juliet."

Reserved and general admission tickets are on sale at the Community Center office, in Franklin Administration Building; also Willard Hotel ticket bureau, Washington Hotel news stand, T. Arthur Smith ticket bureau, A. A. A. ticket bureau, and at 7 p. m. at Roosevelt High School Auditorium box office. Tickets are 50 cents and 25 cents.

"The Farmer Takes a Wife," so George H. Atkinson, one of the veteran disciples of the drama, here ahead of Max Gordon's "Roberta," tells me, does not, after all, go into New York from Philadelphia. On Monday it opens in the Colonial, in Boston, just to see what a few more people think of its finally making the grade as an A-1 smash hit. It will never be that; but it does possess enough merit to make a large grist of kale, if you get the thought, anywhere except on Broadway. This is not a revulsion of opinion on the part of the desk that saw rather more of good than bad in "The Farmer Takes a Wife," but merely a reflection of an abiding opinion that the play is not gaited to Manhattan's ribald rate of speed. After all, a canal boat sets no velocity records, so don't get it confused, in the matter of Broadway consumption, with one of Gar Wood's better sanpans!

Dots and Dashes.

Estell Allen will reopen her studio studio of acting technique and public speaking on October 23 . . . While Miss Allen is negotiating for a larger studio than she occupied last season, she will, for the time being, continue her classes at 2151 California street . . . James Barton, the vaudeville character comedian and hoofer, who, much to the surprise of every one, succeeded Henry Hull in "Tobacco Road" when Mr. Hull decided to cast his lot with pictures, himself has signed a contract to play the lead in "The Taming of Zenas Henry" for RKO-Radio . . . Doug Fairbanks will fly from New York to Los Angeles by private plane, with Kay Francis, Countess di Frasso, Jock Whitney and his sister, Joan . . . Funny how wealthy these rich people are . . . Eleanor Squeo will be the publicity expert for the Blackfriars Guild this year . . . Welcome home! . . . John N. Quinn, of 307 Elm street, Takoma Park, D C., comes to bat with the perfectly sane suggestion that the motion picture theater managers of the country are pulling a consummate boner by letting their pipe organs, installed at tremendous cost, stand idle . . . Perhaps a change in attitude is on the way, manifesting itself by subtle suggestions . . . The Fox used an organ not so long ago . . . And Neil Paxton returns to the console at the Earle for the anniversary bill beginning today . . . There is hope . . . And there will be some good music, too; don't forget that . . . "Moonshine and Honeysuckle," the Southern mountain play, with which the Columbia Players will inaugurate their season, will be directed by Aurora Poston . . . The set for Susan Throssel's beloved "blue and white" room, in the forthcoming production of "Quality Street" by the Pierce Hall Players, is being designed by Richard Harr . . . Well, well, Richard, Harr have you been?

Convalescence Note.

What, more aspirin? But I tried that other, too, and still was parked by the roadside with no good result. So what does one do now?

Students Honored At Kiwanis Dinner

Harrisonburg Affair Given for Kin of Members.

Harrisonburg, Va., Oct. 18 (Spl.).—Fifteen students at the Harrisonburg State Teachers College, who are sisters or daughters of Kiwanians, were entertained by the Harrisonburg Kiwanis Club at dinner in the palm room of the Kavanaugh Hotel tonight. The entertainment is an annual affair. A program was given under the direction of N. R. Lineweaver.

Those entertained were: Misses Elsie Alderson, Hopewell; Dorothy Beach, Kathleen Carpenter and Mrs. Mary E. Rhodes, all of Norfolk; Rebekah and Virginia Bean, Cumberland, Md.; Mary Blankinship and Martha Surber, both of Clifton Forge; Elizabeth Buie, Lake City, Fla.; Marguerite Cockrell, Alexandria; Eleanor B. Cook, Charleston, W. Va.; Katherine Liggett, Salem; Janie Miner, Meridian, Miss.; Ruth Schilling, Bloomfield, N. J.; and Virginia Turnes, Petersburg.

Mrs. Annie B. Cook, dean of women; Dr. Rachel F. Weems, Mrs. James C. Johnston, and Mrs. George D. Conrad, of the college faculty, also were guests of the club.

Straight From the Studios

Jean Harlow Nears Completion of Her First Novel; Irene Dunne Plans to Lead Exodus to Stage; Crisp Items From the Celluloid Colony.

By Edwin Schallert.

Hollywood, Oct. 18.—That novel, which Jean Harlow once announced, is no idle dream. The book is two-thirds done and it is said that M.-G.-M. may purchase it before it is even published. The title is "Today Is Tonight," and Jean probably would appear in the film version if it is made. The story concerns the influence exerted by two different men on the life story of the heroine. Jean started the book about two years ago.

JEAN HARLOW.

Irene Looks To Stage.

Helen Hayes carried the torch for the stage a year ago, with a "save the stage" idea. Now Irene Dunne has some such idea for late spring, possibly joining some stock organization in St. Louis. Miss Dunne feels that reunion with the footlights is essential to the upbuilding of an actress' prowess.

Cobb and Rogers For M.-G.-M.

Irving Cobb is writing a story in which Will Rogers may be starred at M.-G.-M., taking the place of "Ah, Wilderness," for which Rogers has been scheduled. It is uncertain when the Eugene O'Neill play will be made and by whom.

Mexico Aroused To Film Making.

Mexico is planning to entertain film production in a big way, according to Ramon Novarro, who reports on his recent trip there several offers to come home to produce as well as star in films in Spanish.

New Name Rising.

Another find is heralded. Her name is Adelaide Abbott. She hails from Arizona and has sung at the Chicago Opera. She has been given a screen test by Warner and may be signed under contract. She is 20 years of age.

"Great Expectations" Reviewed On Coast.

"Great Expectations" has the attributes of a movie thriller, also of a character study. Therefore, it is an unusual picture, and, incidentally, the first of the Dickens-craze films. Henry Hull gives the triumphant performance. Taking a leaf from "Tobacco Road," the producers have cast him in a role of heavy disguises. Personality fills his interpretation despite his extra freight. He is really quite stunning in the final reels of the picture.

The picture starts lumberingly; but once the narrative unfolds mysteriously, it grips interest. It's a strange story of an outcast urchin made into a gentleman through the somewhat selfish ambitions of a British convict. The real force is achieved when the convict returns to view his handwork and it is there where the picture takes on the mantle of greatness.

"Gentlemen Are Born" Also Previewed.

What happens to young men on graduating from college is related in "Gentlemen Are Born," with Franchot Tone, Jean Muir, Margaret Lindsay and Ann Dvorak as prominent personalities. Distinct hits are scored by Ross Alexander and Nick Foran.

The picture is interesting, weaving several story threads together well. The subject matter, the fact that Tone is seen in a more human character than usual, and some very engaging incidents will make this particular film well liked.

Mill Accident Costs Maryland Man Arm

Limiting Term Of Methodist Elders Backed

Restricting Service to Four Years Is Indorsed at Lynchburg Session.

Lynchburg, Va., Oct. 18 (AP).—The Virginia Methodist Conference is one of the first in the Nation to indorse the constitutional question of restricting tenure of office for presiding elders to not more than four successive years.

The conference voted, 197 to 93, in a secret ballot with debate banned, the second time in 21 years the conference has taken such action. Its total vote will be added to those of other conferences, which so far have favored the question but have not given the required majority. Bishop Edwin D. Mouzon, presiding officer, said he favored the action.

This morning the conference heard and indorsed without dissent the new financial plan of the general conference.

Dr. P. D. Ellis, secretary of the board of church extension, urged ministers and delegates to pay off their church debts.

He also rapped the tendency of churches to let debts slide and enter "into races for bigger buildings and finer choirs."

Bishop Mouzon, delivering another in a series of addresses on Methodism, designed, he said, to get Methodists out of blind alleys, declared the need today is "give to the world the ever-new gospel of Jesus Christ, our saviour."

Manila, P. I., Oct. 18 (AP).—Francisco Delgado, new Philippine resident commissioner to Washington, sailed for New York today aboard the steamship Wichita. He succeeds Emilo Osias as commissioner.

Dam Constructed At Harrisonburg

Harrisonburg, Va., Oct. 18 (Spl.).—What Harrisonburg has done to increase its water supply by the construction of the first submerged dam in the East with the use of local funds, when no PWA appropriation was available, is described by Mayor Ward Swank in a letter to Secretary of Interior Ickes.

Mayor Swank points out that Harrisonburg was faced with a water shortage in dry periods and no Federal funds were available for PWA project. The city took the recommendation of A. B. McDaniel, Washington utilities engineer, and constructed a submerged dam 900 feet in length, which forms an underground lake at the water source in the Shenandoah mountains, 12 miles west of Harrisonburg. This project, done by local unemployed, was constructed at a cost of $37,000; whereas, a surface reservoir of the same type would have cost ten times as much.

Noell's Funeral Held in Danville

Danville, Va., Oct. 18.—Funeral services were held here today for Charles Daniel Noell, 75, tobacco dealer who died Tuesday night at Rocky Mount, N. C., where of recent years he had been in business.

Mr. Noell had spent most of his life in Danville, being a native of Pittsylvania County and being first engaged here in the tobacco warehouse business, later being identified with the American Tobacco Co. and the Export Leaf Tobacco Co.

It was Mr. Noell's act in chastising Hence Lawson over 50 years ago that precipitated the Danville riot, a serious racial clash marking the end of the carpetbag regime in Danville and an incident which was investigated by Congress.

His wife, formerly Miss Laura Williamson, of Caswell County, noted for her beauty, died in 1926.

He leaves five daughters and a son.

Colonials Conceded Chance of Stopping Tulsans' Streak Tonight

Top Laurels In Title Bids At Stake

Tide Given Edge Over Tennessee; Harvard Rated Underdog.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18 (U.P.).—Minnesota or Pitt? Columbia or Navy? Alabama or Tennessee? Holy Cross or Harvard?

Racing toward four head-on collisions, these eight unbeaten and untied football teams will clash in standout contests Saturday, out of which should emerge the logical contenders for National football's highest honors.

Minnesota is back with almost the same team, and Pitt has lost several of her leading athletes, notably Joe Skladany, her great end. But the game appears as near a toss-up as any on Saturday's slate. The scant edge in betting odds is on Minnesota, but Pitt is tabbed here for the win—possibly on the hunch that Pitt is riding a rising wave after her win over Southern California last week.

Still Has Barabas.

Columbia's Rose Bowl Lions look like easy winners over the Navy, even if Buzz Borries gets into the game. A star half back, too sick to practice all week, and out of practice up to Thursday, is not likely to be very tough on Saturday. Columbia, even without the great Cliff Montgomery, still has Al Barabas.

Alabama, with a smart crew, has seemed slightly more impressive than Tennessee and should take this Southern classic.

Holy Cross under a new regime has a fighting band and should be able to win hands down from a sluggish Harvard squad.

Here's a set of predictions made by United Press writers in the various sections of the country.

St. Mary's-Fordham—St. Mary's has the edge in what should be a thriller.

Tulane - Georgia—Tulane, handsomely.

Notre Dame - Carnegie Tech—Notre Dame showed great improvement in beating Purdue after losing to Texas, and should beat the Tartans.

U. S. C.—Oregon State—U.S.C. to squeeze through.

Michigan-Georgia Tech—Michigan.

Ohio State-Colgate—Ohio, but maybe close.

California-U. C. L. A.—California in a tight one.

Centenary-Texas—Texas.

Princeton-W. and L.—Princeton by as much as it pleases.

Nebraska - Oklahoma—Nebraska by a shade.

Southern Methodist - Oklahoma Aggies—S. M. U.

Stanford—San Francisco—Stanford.

Vanderbilt-Auburn—Vandy.

Louisiana State - Arkansas—Louisiana State by a lot.

Penn-Rutgers—Penn by precious little.

Yale-Brown—Yale.

Oregon-Idaho—Oregon.

Hamas Held Baer's Logical Opponent

Declared Only Contender Able to Draw Crowd.

Bakersfield, Calif., Oct. 18 (AP).—Ancil Hoffman, manager of Max Baer, said today Steve Hamas is the only heavyweight title contender who could draw a crowd against his fighter.

"Hamas is the logical opponent for Baer's next fight," said Hoffman. Art Lasky, who Hamas beat in New York recently, was not mentioned.

When the name of Enzo Fiermonte, Italian boxer and estranged husband of Mrs. Madeline Force Astor Dick, was brought up Max said:

"I'm willing to pay him five or ten dollars to act as my sparring partner."

Mrs. Walper Wins Kenwood Tourney

Shoots 170 Total to Take Teal Trophy Golf.

Mrs. Leo Walper, finishing 4 down to par for the 36 holes, won the Teal Trophy yesterday in the match play against par tournament at Kenwood Golf and Country Club. She shot an 83—87 for a 170 total.

Mrs. Theodore Lonnquest, 6 down to par, had a 211 total to win second prize. Mrs. C. S. Teal, 190, and Mrs. A. A. McEntee, 187, tied for third, each finishing 7 down to par.

Mrs. George Parker won the putting prize for the first day and Mrs. J. L. Brown the prize for the best putting yesterday. A special prize was awarded Mrs. E. E. Darneille in a 27-hole putting contest.

Golfing graduates of the University of Michigan are expected to compete for the Scott Turner trophy today at the Kenwood Golf Club. The tournament will be followed by dinner in the grill room. Graduates or former students are eligible to compete

Kidnap Fear

Wife of Dempsey Explains Reason for No Photos.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17 (U.P.).—Fear of kidnapers is the reason Mrs. Jack Dempsey, the former Hannah Williams, will not allow photographs to be taken of her 2-month-old girl, she explained today.

"The baby goes out in the park every day and we feel that people might be wanting to look at her all the time, too," Mrs. Dempsey said.

Roosevelt Foe Of Western Today

By John R. Vesburgh.

AFTER a wild and wooly start, the interhigh series whirls into a further state of confusion this afternoon, with Western meeting Roosevelt in the second game of the annual championship race.

Regardless of the outcome, the contest promises to bring little order out of the chaos into which the series was thrown in the opening game Tuesday when Eastern tied Tech.

Eastern's success in holding the heavily favored Maroon team to a scoreless deadlock came as a boon to both Western and Central and Roosevelt as well. It made the series a wide-open affair, with Tech now conceded little more than an even chance of knocking Central off the throne to which it ascended last year.

Big Question Mark.

The big question mark of the season is Western. As was pointed out several weeks ago, Western has the potential power to step in and win the crown if Tech or Central should falter. Tech has faltered already.

Western's record this year shows that it must be reckoned with seriously. It started off the season by walloping 27 to 0, a St. John's team which forced Central to take to the air to win, 13 to 0. In the second game it downed Alexandria High's powerful eleven, 6 to 0, the same team which had beaten Central, 12 to 0. Last Saturday, in its third game, Western held Newport News High to a 6-to-0 victory at Newport News, a striking contrast to the 24-to-0 licking it took last year.

But admitting Western's strength, no one is predicting it will sweep over Roosevelt as it did in 1933, 32 to 0. Roosevelt is an immeasurably improved team over that of last season. Its 9-to-0 defeat last week by Gonzaga came at the hands of a strong, well-coached team, and was helped by a fumbling epidemic on the part of the Rough Riders.

Frank Baroni, veteran 177-pound guard, and Freddy Hill, a good back, also were on the sidelines with injuries. Both will be available today.

Back Field Weight.

Roosevelt goes into the battle scheduled for 3:30 in Central Stadium with a big weight advantage in the back field. The four starting ball carriers for the Rough Riders average 167 pounds, Western's but 158. Western has a triple-threat quarter back in Phil Maloney, but Jack Hasley, full back, may do the booting for the Georgetowners. Whoever does it, he will be pressed to outkick Francis Beamer, Roosevelt's punting end. In the Gonzaga game, Beamer got off one spiral which carried 65 yards and rolled 30 more. He punted consistently for 50 and 55 yards.

Johnnie Saur, Roosevelt quarter back, will do the passing for Coach Woodworth's lads. Saur has an eye of a marksman. One of his passes smacked Abe Spivok full in the mouth against Gonzaga when

Borries Put In Starting Line-up

Insists He'll Be Able to Performs Saturday in Columbia Tilt.

Middies to Leave Today; Reserves Groomed in Practices.

ANNAPOLIS, Oct. 18 (Spl.).—Indications today were that Buzz Borries, great Navy back who has been ill since Sunday, would play against Columbia in New York Saturday, but he is by no means fit for hard play at present. However, he took part in light practice this afternoon and, with an absence of temperature, improvement is expected by Saturday.

Borries insists he will be in proper shape for the game and has no idea of being kept out. However, that will be a matter for the medical department to decide and depends entirely upon how much he improves.

Schmidt Practices.

Snead Schmidt, Borries' understudy, also is in better shape and took a full part in the practice. George Whitmyer, third in line, returned to the squad after a period on the hospital list.

Bull, Rimmer Ready.

The team should be in better shape for reserves than in past games. Dick Bull, regular right end until hurt in the Virginia game, is in playing shape, as is Hugh Rimmer, a strong plebe end last year, who was injured early in the season. This has been the weak position in the early games. Much time has been devoted during the week to grooming second and third string players for all places, and the team will not be so greatly weakened by substitutions.

Joint Action Urged to Ban Trouping

National League Prexy Puts Move Up to American.

New York, Oct. 18 (AP).—Unless some joint action is proposed by the American League at the annual meeting in December, John A. Heydler, president of the National League, indicated today that the older of the two circuits would not sponsor a ban on barnstorming.

"Last year the National League voted against a proposed trip of our players into the Orient for two months," Heydler said discussing the absolute ban on barnstorming advocated by Will Harridge, president of the American League.

"That's the latest action we have taken on postseason exhibitions," he said. "With the regular season ending in September now, instead of in October, as was the custom in the past, there may be a disposition on the part of some owners to limit the present future barnstorming period to October 15. Barnstorming now is permitted until October 31.

"But that's a matter for club owners and I'm not advocating anything now nor do I propose to do anything about it at the annual meeting."

Old Line, Tech Face Crucial Contest

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 18 (AP).—Although apparently knocked out of the Southern Conference championship running by an early season defeat, Maryland's Old Liners will battle Virginia Teach at Norfolk Saturday in a game which may peg the Old Liners' stock upward a notch or two.

While Tech and Maryland are meeting in the only Southern Conference tilt on the card, a variety of interests will spur loop teams on their battles with strong foes.

Intersectional Games.

North Carolina's Tarheels, against Kentucky, at Chapel Hill, and N. C. State against Florida, at Miami, will attempt to raise Southern Conference prestige with victories over Southeastern rivals, while Virginia moving north against Dartmouth, and Washington and Lee's Generals tackling the Princeton team they almost tamed a season ago, will seek victories in intersectional tilts.

Meanwhile, Duke's Blue Devils, riding high at the top of the Southern Conference standing and the only undefeated team in the loop, will start defense of their "Big Five" championship against Davidson's Wildcats. Virginia Military's Cadets will play a strong University of Richmond eleven at Richmond.

The rivalry between the Southern and Southeastern Conferences—an interesting sidelight in the Dixie football wars—will find the senior loop attempting to gain the edge in victories. The poll stands 4 to 3 in favor of the supposedly stronger Southeastern circuit, but Southern members are favored slightly in both of the interconference tilts on the Saturday card.

North Carolina may have some trouble with a Kentucky eleven that has been coming along fast and North Carolina State, despite its big bone-crushing back field, may have to play its best football, but most observers favored the Southern entries.

Freshmen in 0-0 Tie.

Lexington, Va., Oct. 18 (Spl.).—V. M. I. Freshman football players opened their season on Alumni Field today by playing a scoreless tie with the University of Richmond Freshmen

Bowers Takes Golf Title at Anacostia

Public Links Player Gets His First Crown; Allen Runner-Up.

AFTER five years of competitive golfing, Harold Bowers, 24-year-old public links player, has won his first championship.

Bowers had to fight back after being down most of the journey, and it took a brilliant 69, even par, to overcome his rival in the afternoon.

A pair of fives cost Bowers the first two holes. At the end of nine Allen had maintained this advantage, thanks to a birdie 3 on the ninth. At the end of the morning round Allen had stretched his lead to three-up, shooting a 72 to Bowers' erratic 75.

A Running Fire of Pars.

Swinging into full stride in the afternoon, Bowers started clicking like a machine. Unlimbering a running fire of pars and birdies the new champion quickly melted Allen's lead. He sank a 10-footer to birdie the twenty-first, won the twenty-second with a par 3, nailed an 8-footer for another birdie on the twenty-third and the match became even.

Allen threw some uncanny chips at Bowers for the next three holes, winning the twenty-sixth in par figures and the twenty-seventh with a birdie 3 to go two up.

Bowers evened the battle at the thirtieth, and they halved the thirty-first in birdies.

Match Is All Square.

As they stood on the final tee the mtach was all square. Bowers knocked a two iron shot four feet to the right of the pin and Allen hooked his shot under a tree, with an almost impossible lie. Using a putter, he barely got out, finally conceding the hole. Bowers, however, sank his putt for a deuce.

Cadets Ready For Spiders

V. M. I. at Full Strength for Richmond Game.

LEXINGTON, Va., Oct. 18.—V. M. I.'s football squad, 40 strong, will leave Lexington tomorrow for Richmond, where the Cadets will meet the Richmond Spiders Saturday.

The Cadets will probably start the game with the same line-up that took the field against Columbia last week. The back field will be composed of Bo McMillin, quarter back; Dick Dodson, full back, and Tucker Watkins and Wayt Clark, half backs.

Capt. Jack Zimmerman will be at center, flanked by V. M. I.'s brilliant guards, John Burgess and Jim Farley. Russ Coleman and Carlyle Lowe, both veterans, will be the tackles. Charlie Hancock will be at left end, and either Dave Kane or Morris Haas will hold down the other flank. These two sophomores both showed up well in the Columbia game, and it is a toss-up as to which will get the call Saturday.

Carolina Beats Citadel.

Orangeburg, S. C., Oct. 18 (U.P.).—In weather almost too hot for football that made frequent substitutions necessary, University of South Carolina Gamecocks scored a 20-6 victory over The Citadel here today.

Cochrane Best In American

Detroit Pilot Tops List; Gehringer Second.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18 (AP).—For the second time in six years, Mickey Cochrane today was named the most valuable player in the American League by a committee representing the Baseball Writers Association of America.

The Detroit manager, who piloted the Bengals to their first American League pennant in 25 years only to lose the world's championship in the final game, won the honorary award by a two-vote margin over his star second baseman, Charlie Gehringer. Mickey's vote total was 67 to Gehringer's 65. Other leaders were Vernon Gomez, New York, 60; Schoolboy Rowe, Detroit, 59, and Lou Gehrig, New York, 54. Jimmie Foxx, of the Athletics, winner of last two years, was tenth with 11 votes. Babe Ruth was missing for the first time, while not a Washington player was named in the complete roll of 38 names.

In his first year at the helm of the Tigers, Cochrane led the team from fifth place to the pennant. The Detroit Club was so pleased with his record that it handed him a $10,000 bonus.

12 Horses to Run For Valley Cup

Old Bachelor and Hopeful Jim Sent to St. Louis.

St. Louis, Oct. 18 (AP).—Twelve steeplechase horses, including several entered by Chicago and New York sportsmen, will compete in the Mississippi Valley Gold Cup here Saturday.

Tim Durant, of New York, and Ben Leslie Behr, of Chicago, arrived today, Durant with his horses, Dan Rock and Young Prince. Behr has entered Outlaw, As Fair and Dan McGee. Mrs. John Hay Whitney, who will send two horses, Old Bachelor and Hopeful Jim, from her Upperville, Va., stables, is expected to attend the races.

Gordon Crabill Wins Elon College Tourney

Elon College, N. C., Oct. 18 (Spl.).—Gordon Crabill, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Crabill, of Washington, D. C., defeated George Taylor, of Newton, N. C., here yesterday afternoon to win the annual fall singles tennis championship of the college. The scores were 4-6, 6-2 and 7-5. Crabill, former player on the Central High School tennis team of Washington, won the Capital City high school net championship last year.

'Crazy Style' Of Visitors Feared

By Lewis F. Atchison.

TULSA'S GOLDEN HURRICANE swirled through Griffith Stadium in the gray gloom yesterday afternoon, unlimbering for a mighty blast at George Washington's football forces tonight on the same premises. The kick-off will be at 8 o'clock.

Almost as gloomy as the day itself, and certainly as gray, was Gloomy Gus Henderson, who is responsible for the sandblast attack of the Southwesterners. Gus has his skat backs run George Washington into the ground for four consecutive years, but the outlook for the fifth win is decidedly bleak and foreboding. That's what he says.

Even-Money Shot.

On the eve of the intersectional engagement Henderson rated his team no better than an even-money shot against the Colonials—the first time G. W. has been conceded a chance of winning from the Ollmen. He has good grounds for his discouraging prediction, but the George Washington board of strategy has an even better reason for believing he is playing possum.

"Skeeter" Berry is that reason. From what the local eavesdropping crew has gathered, Berry is the berries in football regalia. In practice yesterday he bore them out.

Knows All Phases.

A stockily built lad of some 155 pounds, Berry does everything with a football but fry it for breakfast. He runs, kicks and passes and does it extraordinarily well. Some observers believe him to be superior to Billy Boehm, a streak of lightning that bolted through G. W. last season for the winning touchdown.

Boehm had a habit of casting a hypnotic gaze upon would-be tacklers—a Henderson trick, and Berry successfully imitates him. Boehm used a devastating stiff-arm to ward off the clutching hands of defensive backs, but Berry simply steps on the gas, side-steps, whirls giddily and goes by as if he had a press pass.

Four Veterans Gone.

Tulsa is not overburdened with beef, but has the winged feet of Mercury and the power of a cannon. Four men are gone from the center of the line that faced G. W. last year, Bolark and Capps, guards; Bovie and Sanford, tackles. This is the one big reason why Henderson is not over-confident of stopping the locals.

Then again, he does not have Green, the quarter back who mixed up everything but the head linesman in plays—who knew the proper moment to throw a pass, to kick or to run with the ball. Estel and Wickersham divide the field general's duties this season and do fairly well, but lack experience.

Has Great Machine.

George Washington meets the fifth Tulsa challenge with the greatest touchdown manufacturing machine assembled at the G street plant. It has a solid, rock-ribbed line, a quartet of fast, hard-running backs led by Tuffy Leemans. Above all, the Colonials have the psychological advantage.

The players' determination, enthusiasm and school fervor can be raised to white heat with a snappy pregame talk, and if the coaches succeed in instilling the die for dear old Rutgers spirit in the boys you can lay your dough on the G. W. line.

George Washington may play some wide open football itself tonight, although it is hardly likely to approach the crazy style effected by the Hurricane. The Colonials, for instance, will not pass on a fourth down, especially if they happen to be backed up on their own goal line. Tulsa will.

Green Terrors Ready for Boston

Complete Drills to Combat Visitors' Air Plan.

Westminster, Md., Oct. 18 (Spl.).—The Green Terrors today wound up their preparations for the big game of the year with Boston College in the Baltimore Stadium Saturday.

For weeks the Terrors have worked earnestly on Dick Harlow's new air offensive. Forwards and laterals are both used in the new attack which promises to provide the most spectacular football the stadium fans have ever seen from a Western Maryland team.

Tomorrow there will be only a light signal drill.

War Officers, Pupils Vie at Softball Today

In accordance with an old mannish custom, the swivel chair soldiers of the War Department today will unhook their spurs from mahogany desks for their annual softball battle with the officer students of the War College.

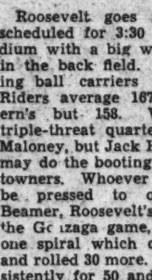
The game will start on the War College diamond at 3:15 p. m.

Star Porter Breaks Evergold's Sprint Record at Laurel

Coucci's Great Ride Is Factor in Breaking Track Mark.

By Walter Haight.

THE horse Evergold never did have a real kick coming. He had been given his feed regularly. The straw in his stall had been kept fresh. He had been rubbed down after each race or workout. But yesterday morning he sensed a change in the scheme of things. In the first place, he was given an extra helping of this and an extra helping of that. Before he went out for his morning exercise, a groom came into the Shandon Stable and plaited his tail. Why all this sudden attention? That was what Evergold asked himself.



COUCCI.

It was not until Dust Girl, a stablemate, was being given the final touches before going out to run in the fifth race that Evergold learned the truth.

"How come I'm the leading man around here?" Evergold asked the filly. "I know I won a race yesterday but I've won before and got a terrible cooling out."

"Well, old boy, you're a hero now. Why you ran that 6 furlongs yesterday in 1:11. That's the track record and from now on you get your name printed on the top of the program," informed Dust Girl.

Old Evergold knew the answers now. He swelled up like a barrel behind his forelegs and tossed his head high. It was great to be a hero.

About a half hour later, Dust Girl came back from the track and she passed Evergold's stall. The veteran stuck his nose up in the air. Why should he associate with this filly?

Record Is Broken.

"Listen, you bum," said the filly. "Star Porter just knocked a fifth of a second off that track record of yours. Your name comes off that program, and, furthermore, I just heard Trainer Greeley say you're working out a mile and an eighth tomorrow morning."

And Dust Girl was right.

Star Porter, gelded son of The Porter and Starella, turned on the heat in the Laurel stretch yesterday to run the popular 6-furlong course in 1:10 4-5, just 24 hours after Evergold had clipped a fifth second off the mark of 1:11 1-5, shared by Balko, Repentance and Mr. Sponge. Those who speak of the record in the future will do an injustice if they fail to mention Jockey Silvio Coucci in the same breath.

Ride Is Perfect.

This young man, who had a busy day in the saddle, turned in a per-

Mate Winner in British Stake Race at 10 to 1

NEWMARKET, England, Oct. 18 (AP).—A. C. (Brother) Bostwick's Mate, a disappointment in previous starts in England this year, today won the Challenge Stakes, a 6-furlong sprint, by a head from Mrs. J. V. Rank's high-weighted Solenoid. It was his first victory of the present trip.

Mate carried only 124 pounds, 10 less than Solenoid. Lady Ludlow's Greenore, with 131 pounds up, was third. Five others also ran.

The American campaigner paid off at 10 to 1. Solenoid was 11 to 4 to win and Greenore 15 to 8.

The Aga Khan's good 2-year-old Bahram, odds-on at 2 to 7 against, galloped to an easy two-length victory in the Middle Park Stakes. A. F. Bassett's Godolphin was second, three lengths ahead of Sir Charles McLeod's Consequential. The distance was 6 furlongs.

The victor, a bay colt by Blandford out of Friar's Daughter is a half brother of Windsor Lad, which won the Derby and himself is considered a leading contender for next year's 3-year-old classic.

fect ride on a perfect horse. Young Coucci was a combination of Garrison, Sande and Sloane yesterday and if there is anything he was not doing to get speed out of Star Porter in the closing stages of that race it simply is not in the jockey book. His elbows were beating on his knees as he drove his mount through the stretch and he appeared as tired as the horse when they turned back for the winner's circle.

It was great time in a great race. Star Porter gave no indication at the start that he would be even close. He broke in sixth position as Kawagoe and St. Stephens fought a momentary duel for the doubtful pace-setting honors. Kawagoe survived and bounded away, followed by one Trey. Coucci did not allow Star Porter to linger long in the rear of the field. He sent his charge after the flying Kawagoe and the race became a two-horse proposition, with few in the stands believing Star Porter could catch his rival.

Swing to Outside.

The little daylight that showed between them turning off the backstretch remained. A game Kawagoe was being chased by a game Star Porter. In the stretch, Kawagoe kept coming. Coucci swung Star Porter to the outside. It was a thrilling drive. Coucci looked like an animated jockey with the movie camera at breakneck speed. Aboard Kawagoe, young Frank McManus was pumping for all he was worth.

At the eighth pole there seemed little hope for Star Porter. At the sixteenth pole he had moved up to Kawagoe's saddle post. At the edge of the mutuel board, Star Porter found new speed somewhere. With Coucci now riding like a madman up shot Star Porter just at the wire. It was Star Porter by a scant head, and Kawagoe second.

Has Two Divisions.

The secondary feature race was two races. The Tangier, a 6-furlong sprint for 2-year-olds which had never won two purses, drew so many horses that track officials divided the entries into two groups and a pair of interesting races resulted.

The Audley Farm's Marcella Miss won the first division and Beckinridge Long's Legume took the second. The two events were unlike. It was a filly and a colt; a near favorite and a longshot; a front runner and a stretch driver, and a three-length win and a nose victory.

Marcella Miss, with Jockey Kacala in charge, jumped to the front soon after the start and made every post a winning one. On the other hand, Legume had to be given a million-dollar ride by Jockey Coucci before he came up to win from Sun Fairplay.

8,000 See Jesting Win Fourth in Row

4-Year-Old Filly Scores in Gansett Feature.

Narragansett Park, Pawtucket, R. I., Oct. 18 (AP).—Percy M. Pike's Jesting, the consistent 4-year-old filly, scored her fourth consecutive victory as she won the feature sprint before 8,000 spectators this afternoon in a seven-race card which found the form horses behaving themselves admirably.

The Pike sprinter, ridden by Maurice "Moose" Peters, who added to his National and track leadership with three triumphs today, left little doubt about her superiority as she took the lead almost at the start and won by almost two lengths over Mrs. T. J. Debord's Golden Fate, while the favorite, Arden Farm's Quel Jeu, was third.

Guy Morton Dies.

Sheffield, Ala., Oct. 18 (AP).—Guy Morton, former major league baseball pitcher, died at his home here today of a heart attack. Morton, a fast-ball pitcher, was with the Cleveland Indians. He is survived by his wife and a son.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BEYOND DOUBT, $13.10, $5.50, $3.50; GOLD STANDARD, $3.90, $3.50; GOLDEN SAINT, $4.40.

BEYOND DOUBT, rushed into a contending position early, took an easy lead when M. J. BRENNAN bolted out midway of the turn, was kept under strong urging and had enough left to stall off GOLD STANDARD. Latter, sluggish after breaking nicely, worked his way up on the outside and closed gamely. GOLDEN SAINT hesitered his position gradually, but tired suddenly after making a strong effort at the stretch turn. CANIMAR could not hold a forward position early. He passed tiring horses. M. J. BRENNAN ran out leaving the back stretch and lost all chance. FRICTION was never dangerous. HAPPY TOM had brief early speed. DOUBLETON stopped badly. BOBS broke very slow.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $600; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:08. Off at 2:10½. Winner, S. L. Burch's b. g. (3), by Pillory—Mascarita. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:23 1-5, 0:47 3-5, 1:12 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—STOCKS, $25.00, $15.10, $5.80; SIR TEN, $4.60, $3.60; SOME GOOD, $4.80.

STOCKS, taken to the outside to secure racing room, moved up steadily in the last half mile and, coming strongly for the closing drive, was up in the last six-teenth. SIR TEN followed IMMUNE closely in the early racing, gained command of the home stretch, but was unable to stall off the winner. SOME GOOD had difficulty finding racing room during the opening half mile and fought it out gamely. POSTSCRIPT, backed early speed, but finished fast when in her best stride. KNIGHT OF OLD could not improve his position. IMMUNE stopped after having nice speed to the stretch turn. BAKERS DOZEN had no excuses. OUR DAVID had no chance to extend himself while on the inside. EREBUS went wide. CHIRAC stopped badly.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800; allowances. The Tangier. For 2-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:43. Off at 2:44. Winner, Audley Farm's b. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MARCELLA MISS, $7.00, $3.90, $3.20; BOSTON BROOK, $39.00, $14.70; GILLIE, $4.90.

MARCELLA MISS, hustled stoutly to gain command after going a furlong, went clear entering the home stretch, then drew out steadily when kept under pressure. BOSTON BROOK, stoutly handled from the beginning, held on gamely after being overtaken. GILLIE, forced to race on the outside, finished full of run after reaching the home stretch. SISOWEN, forced to race on the outside, weakened during the stretch drive while under punishment. CASTRAPAL was shuffled back soon after the break and could not threaten at any stage. SUN ARENA had a rough trip while racing on the inside. OFFICIAL weakened.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800; allowances. The Tangier (second division). For 2-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:13. Off at 3:18. Winner, Breeh Long's ch. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—LEGUME, $14.90, $6.30, $3.60; SUN FAIRPLAY, $4.00, $3.00; HOWS CHANCES, $6.90.

LEGUME, going in his best form and kept close to the leaders, swung to the outside at the stretch turn, closed gamely when straightened out and was able to outstay SUN FAIRPLAY after gaining a slight lead. SUN FAIRPLAY overcame early interference to improve his position, saved ground at the stretch turn and fought it out resolutely thereafter. HOWS CHANCES found racing room on the inside to enter contention and held on courageously under punishment. RACE CRAFT had a rough trip. GALON BOY and TED HUSING were used up setting the early pace. BLACK ROSE was steered wide the entire trip. ORTHOPRISM was taken up repeatedly.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:48. Off at 4:50½. Winner, R. Parr's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—STAR PORTER, $7.30, $4.00, $3.00; KAWAGOE, $5.80, $4.00; ST. STEPHENS, $3.60.

STAR PORTER, going strongly in the early racing while holding a position close to the leaders, came determinedly after reaching the home stretch and, under strong handling, was up in the last few strides. KAWAGOE had much early speed to shake off TREY, saved ground, then continued with gallant courage when put to a hard drive. ST. STEPHENS bettered his position on the outside after being outrun early, but could not threaten the first two. SUN ARCHER closed full run after trailing his field. DARK HOPE, taken up when the break came, went wide to make up considerable ground. TREY tired after an early display of speed.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:18. Off at 4:19½. Winner, H. P. Metcalf's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—PRINCE ABBOTT, $12.30, $6.80, $4.60; CHATTERDOO, $12.20, $7.90; POTION, $4.30.

PRINCE ABBOT, outrun for the first five furlongs, went to the outside when bettering his position, swung to the inside of the leaders at the stretch turn, then closed full of run to set up in the last 70 yards. CHATTERDOO, showing improvement to take command, was rated in front until challenged, but could not stand it stoutly. BIG SHOW followed close up, but weakened in the final test. KALOLA faltered when put to a drive. BLACK NOSE went wide. KINDACORN closed a good gap. OUTBOUND stopped, as did GENERAL LEJUNE.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-fourth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:52. Off at once. Winner, L. Sindler's c. h. Two-dollar mutuels paid—DUNFERN, $8.50, $3.10, $2.30; ELCIDIO, $5.40, $2.90; ZEMBLA, $2.40.

DUNFERN, blocked when the start came, secured a forward position when going through on the inside at the first turn, disposed of the leaders when put to a drive in the last half mile, then held on strongly to resist ELCIDIO. Latter, caved in the first seven furlongs, swung to the outside and finished wearing the winner down steadily. ZEMBLA, as usual slow to settle in her stride, came with a rush in the last five-sixteenths. FAUX PAS was kept within striking distance of the leaders and had no excuses. THE TOUT stopped in the last three furlongs. SYRIAC went strongly for the first mile, then weakened. COAT TAILS was outrun.

St. John's to Oppose Gonzaga Today in One of Feature Schoolboy Games

Five Elevens To Play on Alien Soil

G. U. Prep, St. Paul's, Landon Among Teams Making Invasions.

As bitter a scrap as scholastic football is likely to see in the District this season is slated for this afternoon, when St. John's and Gonzaga collide at Eastern High Stadium. The kick-off is scheduled for 3:30 p. m.

Along with the Western-Roosevelt interhigh series games, the battle of the two fighting Catholic schools is a standout of a flock of schoolboy clashes on today's program. The game also probably will decide the prep school champion of the Washington area, as the teams are the two outstanding contenders for the title.

Six Teams Travel.

Five teams from Washington and nearby sections journey to foreign fields to meet highly rated foes. Four of them converge in a mass attack on Baltimore.

Georgetown Prep, handicapped by injuries and a green squad, opens its season against Loyola at Baltimore. Landon Prep plays its second game of the season against St. Paul's, also at Baltimore. Dunbar clashes with Douglas High, also at Baltimore, in an important colored game.

Goes to Richmond.

St. Alban's faces St. Christopher's at Richmond and Washington-Lee journeys to Fredericksburg High to meet the proteges of Johnnie Fenlon, former George Washington star. In the only local colored game, Armstrong plays Baltimore Vocational School at Walker Stadium at 3:30 o'clock.

On the face of their records, Gonzaga is the favorite to topple St. John's today. The well-established coaching system of Coach Orrel Mitchell has given Gonzaga a resourceful offensive. Coach Horse Holbrook, of St. John's, on the other hand, is crashing his first year at the school.

Simone Held Out.

Coach Holbrook is not starting his sensational little quarter back, Mike Simone, but said he is "holding him in reserve." From an individual standpoint, the bulk of the ball-carrying seems fated to rest on big Malcolm Leubkert, Gonzaga's versatile quarter back and Simone.

The two teams are fairly well matched on weight, Gonzaga having a slight advantage in the line with an average of 159 to St. John's 155. Both teams' back field average about 150. Dick Murphy will start at center in place of Pat Deenehan, regular pivotman, who has been ineligible this week. Deenehan is eligible to play, however.

Bill Knealy, Gonzaga's veteran center, is out for the season with an eye injury. Vogts will get the snapping assignment.

Won Two Contests.

St. John's has not beaten Gonzaga since 1930. Gonzaga's 1934 record shows a 6-to-0 loss to Washington-Lee, and 8-to-0 win over Bullis and a 9-to-0 conquest of Roosevelt High. St. John's "suicide schedule" has brought it defeats by Western, Central and Eastern, in which it showed a number of impressive flashes of power.

St. Alban's will be playing its third game of the season against St. Christopher's, having lost 6 to 0 to Boys Latin and 13 to 0 to Shenandoah Military, both strong teams. Landon lost a hard-fought opening game to St. Andrews of Delaware, 26 to 12 and is out for a victory over St. Paul's. Washington-Lee faces tough opposition, with the breaks likely to decide victory or defeat. Georgetown Prep is not so optimistic.

Penn Carded By Princeton

Renew Relations in 1936 After 42-Year Lapse.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 18 (U.P.).—Pennsylvania and Princeton will renew football rivalry in 1936, after a lapse of 42 years, officials of the two universities announced tonight.

The inaugural game will be played at Franklin Field, Philadelphia. Only one game has been arranged. It will be the third contest on Princeton's schedule for 1936.

Of the 31 games played between the two universities in the past, Princeton won 29, and lost only in 1892 and 1894. They broke off relations after the 1894 game because of roughness by both teams as Princeton went down to a 12-0 defeat.

There has been increasing demand from undergraduates and alumni of both schools for the renewal of relations which became a reality with tonight's announcement.

Roosevelt

Western's line averages 171 pounds, Roosevelt's 169. Much of the Western avoirdupois comes from the 230 pounds of its veteran tackle, Bill Krause. Three past or present captains will be batling in the line. Capt. Bob Sheahan of Roosevelt plays left tackle, Capt. Barney Sullivan of Western will be at center and Huck Wynne, Western's All-High 1933 captain, will be at left end.

'Bad Boy'

Malone Accuses Grimm; Wants to Quit Cubs.

ALTOONA, PA., Oct. 18 (AP).—Big "Pat" Malone, the "Bay Boy" of the Chicago Cubs, is telling the homefolks he doesn't know where he'll be pitching baseball next year.

"Anywhere, just as long as it isn't with Chicago," he said today to his friends, "they didn't give me a break last season."

Winner of 14 games while losing seven, Malone, said Manager Charley Grimm held him on the bench for the last four weeks of the season. He added that his contract called for a bonus of $250 for every game he won over 15.

A record field is expected to tee off tomorrow at Congressional Country Club in the annual Tatum Cup tournament. It will be 18 holes medal play with handicaps. The Tatum Cup event will climax the competitive golf season at Congressional, Chairman Ted Grape announced.

Notices were sent out yesterday announcing an 18-hole tournament for women of the Manor Club on Friday, October 26. Election of officers will follow.

Marion A. C. Plays Gunners Sunday

Annual Battle Will Be Staged at Navy Yard.

The annual football game between the Marion A. C. and the Seaman Gunners will be resumed Sunday at the Navy Yard. The game is the eighth of a series the first of which was played in 1929. The Marions are neighbors of the Sailors and the football traditions of Southeast Washington, a section famous for its grid teams and stars, surrounds the game.

LEXINGTON, Va., Oct. 18 (Spl.).—The Generals will take a well-conditioned squad to Princeton tomorrow for their game with the Tigers at Palmer Stadium Saturday. Head Coach Tex Tilson has put his men through drills in fundamentals as well as scrimmage this week, and most of them are in peak condition.

Two sophomores who have been playing good football this year probably will be in the line when the game starts. They are Duane Berry and Charlie Brasher; Brasher will start at tackle in the event the hefty Tubby Owings is kept out by an injury received in the game with West Virginia.

Owings Back in Uniform.

Owings is back in uniform, but has not been in hard practice this week. It has been indicated that he probably will be able to start against the Tigers, but Tilson is working Brasher in his position in the event the 257-pound lineman can not play.

Besides Berry, the Generals will have a capable guard in Hugo Bonino, who weighs 233 pounds and who has been playing fine football this year. Bonino blocked the punt that paved the way for the Generals' victory over Kentucky. Also available as guards are Dick Gumm and Lewis Martin, both veterans.

George Glynn, of New York City, will take care of the pivot position against the Northerners. Ed Seitz, another letter man, also is available for the center position in the Generals' big line.

The team will leave tomorrow night for Princeton.

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 18 (AP).—Princeton eased off its preparations for the Washington and Lee game today, but found plenty to do as Coach Fritz Crisler handed out a drill on fundamentals, passing and kicking, on both the offensive and defensive sides. The varsity spent some time defending itself against left-handed passers in preparation for the southpaw aerials of Billy Seaton, sophomore ace of the Generals.

Freddie Miller Beats Jimmy Walsh Easily

Liverpool, Eng., Oct. 18 (AP).—Freddie Miller, of Cincinnati, recognized by the National Boxing Association as the featherweight champion, tonight defeated Jimmy Walsh, of Chester, in a 12-round bout which saw Miller the master throughout.

Whenever you hear anyone mention the "Result Number," he is talking about Post Classified Ads—National 4200.

Pause That Refreshes Given To City Folk in Lusty Rodeo

By Jimmy Powers.
(Pinch Hitting for Paul Gallico).

NEW YORK, Oct. 18 (Spl.).—The rodeo, that annual carnival of husbandry and horses with its rag-tag of lop-eared Jennets, its glowering steers, its gentle calves, its rouged, whooping women and its tall sombreroed men, has descended upon New York again. It has been set down squarely in our midst and at night when the neon lights drive back the darkness and the town cars slide noiselessly to the theater marquees the cross streets are sprinkled with booted punchers.

They are tall men with cheeks the color of roasted coffee and they walk gingerly on high heels through the hurrying stream of pale faces. I suppose it is the costume that lends the air of majesty. Some wear piebald vests of dyed goat skin; others trap themselves in tooled leather belts with immense silver buckles. And the shirts! Glittering greens, ardent amethysts, dazzling oranges, flaming scarlets! How timid are we of the city. Regard the birds and the beasts and the Indians. Males should ever stalk in regal splendor.

Shrill, Youthful Cheers.

I think the matinees are best. Here the children sit, cramming every row to the girders. All about you are shining eyes. What a shout when the show opens. There is the lusty thump of a cavalry charge and the trick riders stream out, bobbing in their saddles, open palms held aloft in the same circus salute the Caesars received and when the women riders sweep into the arena and go loping in circles, their curls dangling perilously close to the strumming hooves, shrill cheers pierce your ear drums.

You know those girls are hard-handed, leathery daughters of the chuck wagon. Their cheeks, if you look closely, are a shade too red with rouge, their eyes a dash too harsh with mascara, but, shouting and whooping, straddling their galloping ponies, they go careening about the place and with each revolution 1,000 boyish hearts capitulate. Why these girls are more beautiful than fairy queens or golden princesses!

Pause That Refreshes.

I think, to adults, the charm of the rodeo is unconsciously laid in the sounds and scents. To any one who has lived on a farm—and you would be amazed at the number of New Yorkers who have—the sharp, rugged smell of the horses and steers stirs the mind and sends it floating back through the years. I don't profess to know how the city-born react to the honest odor of the ranch and farm, but I do know that it can not be so very offensive. To come out of the street with its acrid odor of gasoline, its insolent bark of horns, its evil grinding of brakes, is a relief, and then to hear the plaintive "mi-r-r-r" of a round-eyed calf is enough to give the most hardened expatriate pause.

The songs the performers sing in their dressing rooms are the same that were sung along the old Chisholm trail, at the Alamo and at all the old clapboard bunkhouses where the ghosts of Rose Cimarron, Cattle Annie, Little Breeches and Billy the Kid are dim memories.

An Honest Groping.

The Western and hill-billy songs on the radio have a certain charm, I grant, but they are sung with a professional finesse that borders on the artificial. At Madison Square Garden late at night when the crowds are gone you can catch a nasal chorus, a wisp of verse, an honest groping for words that stirs your prairie-born heart.

I remember once, not so long ago, just outside San Antonio, a group of us writers went with John McGraw to a ranch house, where we had been invited to spend the day. It was a dew-splashed spring morning and the blue bonnets were in bloom. We moved along a rutted road of clay past an unpainted shanty—only in the movies are there gaudy haciendas—and suddenly we stopped, for we heard, very sweet and very pathetic, a woman's voice singing a cowboy song.

No Matter the Woman.

It was so very clear it sounded like the bugle call that came floating out of a grove of willows a year later in the cemetery where one of our party of that day in Texas just had been buried. It was a tranquil, fragrant Texas morning, and I remember that tough old McGraw said he was a blankety-blank if that wasn't pretty music. It made no difference that the woman a moment later came upon the porch and proved to be a slatternly soul. We passed in peace.

There is no need, I grant, of romanticizing the rodeo. We are all aware that the cowboy's day is done, but so long as those shining eyes peer entranced at matinees, and so long as prairie songs echo in the garden gloom on autumn nights, I am content to foster the illusion.

Laurel Quells Strike Threat

500 Stablemen Demanded Access to Paddock.

UNKNOWN to the thousands in the stands, a brewing strike threatened to interfere with racing at Laurel yesterday.

Some 500 stablemen demanded that they be allowed to enter and leave the paddock upon presentation of official identification cards. Track officials had limited the presence of stable employes in the paddock to only those in charge of horses in a particular race.

Some men, said to be stablemen, attempted to interfere with the leading of the horses to the paddock for the first race. They were quickly dispersed. Praidnt "Cy" Cummings, of th track, said last night it was up to th owners to have their horses in the paddock at the proper time and to control their employes. He does not anticipate further trouble, he said.

Brcik Everett Signs To Fight for Erwin

Buck Everett, the Hoosier Hurricane, was signed yesterday to fight exclusively under the banners of Jimmy Erwin, local manager of man maulers.

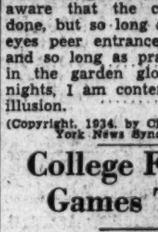
Wilson-Mecadon Bout Interest Tree-Menjous, Shouts Ahearn

By Bill McCormick.

ADVANCE sales and reservations for Monday night's return bout between Bob Wilson and Jay Mecadon at the Riding and Hunt Club already have reached the highest mark in the fistic history of the reformed hoss academy, it was announced yesterday.



AHEARN.

"Over t'ree hunnert reservations and advance sales" exulted Matchmaker Goldie (I Lose Money) Ahearn, in making the announcement. "Over t'ree hunnert advance! We should do t'ree t'ousand dollars, t'ree t'ousand dollars!"

"De interest in de fight is tremenjous, tre-menjous," continued Mons. "I Lose Money," as odds of 100 to 1 were posted in the winter books that he would still be using the crying towel after the bout, even if it did better than $3,000. "Never before have I seen such inthisiasm. Dis fight'll be even better dan de last one, even better dan de last one."

At this point Mons. Ahearn commenced speaking rapidly and fluidly, revolving his arms like a windmill in an Oklahoma hurricane and shifting, weaving and bobbing with all the dexterity that once was his in the ring.

Will Be in Shape.

"He says Wilson wasn't in the best of shape for the last one," explained the translator, "that it will be a great fight, that Wilson will be in shape for this one, that it will be a colossal fight, that the 12-round distance should settle the question of supremacy once and for all and that it will be an epic battle."

Mons. "I Lose Money" was still gyrating at high speed when we ducked. Later in the evening, Mons. Ahearn's press agent called up to inform us that Pete Bevans and Mike Scipio had been signed for a six-round preliminary, Jerry Dunn and George Mackroor for a five-rounder and to remind us that Jimmy Brady was meeting Tony Dominguez in an eight-round semi-final.

All of which struck us as the height of something or other. Imagine a guy like Mons. Ahearn needing a press agent.

Loyalty!

California Team's Coach Makes Explosive Talk.

OAKLAND, Calif., Oct. 18 (AP).—"Disgraceful lack of loyalty and petty malicious influences," Head Football Coach William A. Ingram declared today, "have made good football teams at the University of California impossible the last nine years."

Ingram's charges were made in an address before a club meeting.

"I have been painfully aware of the existence of these petty, malicious influences during my four years as coach, but have hesitated to reveal them because of my desire to avoid any statement that might be taken as an excuse for my showing," he said. The Bears have won three games and lost one, to St. Mary's, this season.

"It may surprise you to know this is the first year since I took over the job I have had absolute loyalty on the football squad."

Maryland Card Freshman Game Shows Former High School Stars.

CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY'S varsity and freshman gridders join forces tomorrow to provide a full afternoon of football at the Brookland bowl. At 1 o'clock the yearlings charge into Maryland's freshmen and at 2:30 o'clock the varsity trots out against Baltimore U.

A bevy of former high school stars just beginning to make their cleat marks in collegiate football will see action in the freshmen game. "Specks" Foley, a Tech graduate, and Bill Connors, from Gonzaga, will cavort for C. U., while Maryland has Jack McCarthy, former Eastern full back, and Bill Bryant, a product of Central, in its line-up.

Others Outstanding.

The young Cardinals' line-up also will include Ed Dunne, whose father was All-America center at Michigan years ago; Leo Katalinas, tackle and brother of the former Georgetown star; Howard Walker and Charley Munhall, all-high school selections in Pittsburgh last season. Dunne seems to have inherited much of his dad's football ability and the others are on par with him.

The freshmen game, it appears, will hold the spotlight tomorrow, since it will provide the fans with an opportunity of gauging the 1935 strength of the schools. Maryland's losses this season will be slight and Catholic's almost negligible, so good sophomore talent next season will mean a 50 per cent increase in power.

Only One Change.

All of the Cardinals who started against Holy Cross last week will face Baltimore at the opening whistle, Coach Bergman has announced, with the exception of Zeke Brown, who replaces George Mulligan at right end. No chances are being taken with Baltimore—not after two successive week-ends of upsets.

Baltimore will rely wholly on its aerial game against the heavier C. U. team, according to Coach Lefty Reitz. Alperstein to Hooker is the Maroon's passing combination.

High school students will be admitted free to the double-header by showing their school athletic cards.

Maryland A. C. Dedicates Field

Irvington Eleven Opposes at Seat Pleasant.

The new stadium of the Maryland A. C. will be dedicated at Seat Pleasant Sunday afternoon with appropriate ceremonies held in conjunction with a game between the Irvington A. C., of Baltimore, and the Maryland eleven. The Irvington crew hold the aMryland State semipro championship.

State Senator Lansdale Sasscer will be the guest speaker and music will be furnished by the Washington Gas Light Band. The stadium will be dedicated to the memory of Lucien Duffy, a charter member of the Seat Pleasant Fire Company and Pinrce Georges Fire Association.

The Maryland A. C. held a stiff workout last night. The locals' power was increased substantially this week with the addition to the squad of Tom Brew, former Mount Saint Mary's star; Joe Alenty and F. Bradley. Tickets are on sale at the Atlas Sport Shop.

Stagg Enforces Training Rule, Ousting Player for Smoking

STOCKTON, Calif., Oct. 18 (AP).—Amos Alonzo Stagg, the white-thatched gridiron patriarch, has dismissed from his College of Pacific squad a star player for an infraction of rules which in many colleges would be viewed as of only minor importance.

To uphold a principle, Coach Stagg probably weakened his team by dismissing Bob Randall, who has proved his worth both as a pass thrower and receiver. Randall broke training rules by smoking.

It is only coincidental the player ordered to turn in his suit was the one who missed the place-kick on the try for point after touchdown that, if good, would have given Pacific a 7-to-7 tie with California's Bears last Saturday. Just as quickly would Coach Stagg have punished Bob Wicker, the boy who ran 70 yards to score against California.

At the start of this season the famed old strategist called his small squad together. He talked to them simply and earnestly, outlining his training rules and explaining what he considered was right and what was wrong in athletic conditioning.

By way of summing up the talk, Coach Stagg reminded his charges he had dismissed one of his University of Chicago players for a rules infraction.

2 Ailing Aces Regained by G. U. Team

TWO HUNDRED AND THIRTY pounds of football player moved back into the Georgetown line-up yesterday, as the Hoyas steamed down the home-stretch of their preparations for the William and Mary game tomorrow at Griffith Stadium. The heavy poundage belonged to Frank Williamson, center, who has been on the sidelines several days with a turned ankle.

With Williamson came Capt. Joe Saverine, who was ordered to bed two days ago as a precautionary move when he suffered a mild touch of influenza. Their return left only little Joe Kelliher, the 160-pound guard, on the casualty list, and even he may recover sufficiently to play against the Indians.

Just as he gave the team a couple of new plays to spring on Manhattan last week, Coach Jack Hagerty has concocted some brand new ones for tomorrow's game. They involve spinner and lateral passing maneuvers, which William and Mary scouts—who have jotted down all other Hilltop plays—have not seen.

Manhattan Driven Back.

Manhattan was unable to stem the goalward surge of Georgetown in the waning moments of the first period and early minutes of the second because it was struck with a trick attack. Joe Saverine was the spearhead in the drive, but Hagerty intimated yesterday that another back will get the leading role tomorrow.

Today's workout will be light, consisting principally of signal and punting drills. There may be dummy scrimmage for the freshmen's benefit, however, as they have a difficult assignment tomorrow in Wyoming Seminary, which they meet at 12:30 o'clock in a preliminary to the varsity game.

The same zealous spirit that enveloped the Hilltop prior to last week's game is again in evidence and will reach a climax tonight when the students parade down Pennsylvania avenue. The football team will be escorted from the Capitol to Georgetown in vehicles of 1890 vintage.

Tomorrow, the school band will parade in snappy new uniforms and cloaks.

Golf Pros to Try Scotch Foursome

Tourney to Be Held Monday at Beaver Dam.

A professional Scotch foursome tournament—something the paid golfing clan hasn't attempted this season—will be sponsored Monday at Beaver Dam Country Club by the Middle Atlantic P. G. A.

Just what kind of a two-man team District and Baltimore professionals will make will be determined in the 18-hole sweepstakes. Cliff Spencer, host pro, said the teams would be chosen in a draw.

Alternate drives and shots will prevail.

Most of the Washington pros, including Al Houghton, George Diffenbaugh, Al Treder, Walter Cunningham, Fred McLeod, Bob Barnett, Danny Burton, Davey Thompson, Tony Sylvester and Mel Shorey, will take part. Baltimore's contingent will be composed of such well-known pros as Glenn Spencer, Ralph Beach, Johnny Bass, Alex Taylor and Carroll MacMaster.

Hockey Season Opens Tomorrow

Colonial, Etcetera Clubs Are Opponents.

Washington field hockey season opens tomorrow with a match between the Colonial Club and the Etcetera Club at 11:15 a. m. on Reservoir Field.

Matches between the clubs of the Washington Association will continue through the season, climaxing with the Southeast tournament, for the first time to be held in Washington.

The match on Saturday is expected to be one of the most important on the schedule, since both teams are made up of seasoned players, the Colonial players being present and past students of George Washington University, and the Etceteras both coaches and girls who have played in college.

Endeavour Completes Return Trip to Britain

Southampton, England, Oct. 18 (U.P.).—T. O. M. Sopwith's yacht Endeavour, unsuccessful challenger for the Americas' Cup, completed its transatlantic return voyage tonight and is expected to dock at Southampton early tomorrow. It will be laid up at Southampton for the winter.

Stocks Decline Three-tenths In Slow Sales

New York, Oct. 18 (AP).—Trading currents flowed sluggishly in financial markets today. Flashes of strength in packing shares and specialties brightened stocks a bit, but the main drift there, as in most other categories was toward slightly lower levels.

Reactionary tendencies in equities apparently had their inception in nothing more than a shift toward the selling side by traders on the assumption the preceding advances justified a change.

News affording glimpses into the financial and business future was meager. Traders turned their gaze on President Roosevelt's forthcoming address, as notably his scheduled speech to bankers at Washington next week, in search for new rays of light on Administration policies.

Stocks idled around the top of the recent narrow trading area. Paced by Wilson & Co. A, which spurted more than 2 points, the packing shares furnished most of the bullish action. Armour of Illinois preferred issues picked up gains of about 3 points. Both the Wilson and Armour issues established new year's highs.

Most groups eased off gently as traders noted the difficulty the market had encountered on its return to levels where an August recovery tapered off. United States Steel, Montgomery Ward, Santa Fe, International Harvester and other pivotal issues yielded only fractional losses.

A further drop of more than a cent in the price of spot silver prompted selling of Cerro de Pasco, U. S. Smelting and other nonferrous metal shares, but losses were moderate.

Safety Razor Trading.

Relatively heavy trading in Gillette Safety Razor, which carried the common up for a net gain of nearly a point, took that issue into the spotlight. Eastman Kodak touched a new 1934 peak and Coca Cola held around its peak, closing a point higher. Other firm spots were Hershey Chocolate, International Silver preferred, Kroger Grocery and Safeway Stores.

The Standard Statistics Co. average for 90 selected stocks slipped three-tenths of a point, to 72. Turnover was a little lower, totaling 655,110 shares, against 662,210 yesterday.

Gossip of inventory appreciation, predictions of higher meat prices next year and reorganization plans in brokerage quarters accompanied the advance of the packing shares. Oil stocks felt the bearish influence of spreading gasoline price cuts. Standard of New Jersey dipped to the lowest price recorded this year, within a fraction of 40, but closed off less than a point.

Copper shares listed a bit as a move by Kennecott to cut domestic production called attention to the industry's current position.

Wool Market.

Boston, Oct. 18 (AP).—(U. S. Department of Agriculture.)—Sentiment was much improved in the Boston wool market as a result of the recent pick-up in sales of greasy combing domestic wools. Inquiries were being received on a wide range of fleece and Western-grown wools. Many bids are still too low to be acceptable, but an increasing number of buyers were coming back with new and higher offers, which secured sizable lines of wool. Much of the current demand was on short combing 64s and finer territory wools in original bags at 63@65 cents, scoured basis.

Goods Markets.

New York, Oct. 18 (AP).—Cotton goods were firm and trading moderate in the unfinished cloth division today. Ginghams, denims, work shirt fabrics and some of the printed lines sold better. Silk fabrics sold moderately with velvets in steady demand in the higher priced lines. More business was offered in staple men's wear, but at low prices. Burlaps were quiet and slightly firmer on spot deliveries. Rayon fabrics and yarns sold in better volume.

Cotton Presents Object Lesson In Effects of Federal Control

By Special Correspondent of The Post.

Speculative activity is at low ebb in the cotton market now. Quotations appear to be fairly stabilized, but at a level below what many regard as a minimum in view of the offer of the Commodity Credit Corporation to lend 12 cents a pound to actual growers of this and previous crops.

Originally, the cotton market expected that the loan offer would be 13 cents a pound. When this expectation was disappointed, the quotation of the staple began a slow and irregular decline which was merely interrupted by renewed rumors of Government price raising and dollar devaluation set in motion by President Roosevelt's press conference of Wednesday of last week. Today cotton lost 5 to 6 points further on the New York Cotton Exchange, the October contract closing at 12.35 cents a pound.

Carryover Still Large Despite Drought.

Despite the Bankhead act and the drought, which cut down this year's crop to an estimated 9,443,000 bales, the carryover of 10,600,000 bales from last year makes available a total of 20,000,000 bales in this country. Most of this not held by growers or the Government is not entitled to loans, and so may have to be sold well below 12 cents a pound—if the demand is lacking.

Faced with this large carryover and dwindling foreign demand, the Government made the loan offer of 12 cents a pound through the Commodity Credit Corporation, to permit actual growers to avoid selling below that price, but this offer, an analysis, proves not nearly as generous as it appears on the surface. It holds only for cotton meeting certain quality and fiber tests on cotton on the farm.

Cotton was quoted in New Orleans at 12.64 cents a pound yesterday. This price, however, holds only for "middling" grade with a staple length of seven-eighths of an inch. The Commodity Credit Corporation, however offers the 12-cent loan on "low middling" or better with a seven-eighths inch staple, and only 11 cents a pound in cotton with a staple of less than seven-eighths of an inch. "Low middling" brings about eight-tenths of a cent less than "middling," while cotton on the farm, before is it shipped to spot markets, is quoted about one-half a cent below the prevailing figures in the major markets. Making these deductions, we find that the farm price of "low middling" cotton, on which the 12-cent loan is offered, is actually around 11.34 cents.

Will Nearly Turn Over Cotton for Loan.

Hence, it is reasonable to conclude that growers of poorer grades of cotton will nearly all turn over their product to the Government for the 12-cent loan. But if lower quality cotton can go below the Government loan offer, may not the same happen with better grades?

The fact, however, is, and this is one of the "jokers" in the whole arrangement, we produce relatively little cotton grading as low as "low middling." Substantially less than 5 per cent of the cotton crop usually falls within this category. By far the larger part of the remainder is in the higher grades.

Higher Grades Bring 4-10 to 1½ Cents More.

These higher grades bring from four-tenths of a cent to a cent and a half per pound more in the open market. Again, a large part of our cotton is longer than seven-eighths of an inch in staple, and, of course, the longer the staple the higher the price. Most of these longer lengths and higher grades, being quoted at above 12 cents in the open market—many of them much higher—are naturally offered to the Government sparingly for loans when they are so offered at all. The Government therefore, unless there is a rather marked change in prices, seems destined to become a very substantial holder of the poorer cottons, but to obtain little of the better class of cotton.

But several other complications arise. The better cottons are even now enjoying a keener demand by reason of the fact that mills ordinarily using poorer cotton are not infrequently finding it good business to buy better qualities not made artificially dear by Government intervention. The mills are, of course, calculating more closely than ever in such matters, for in figuring the cost of their raw materials, they must add 4.2 cents per pound to all their cotton purchases because of the processing tax they must pay.

This year's crop also adds its peculiarities. Apparently it is to be a crop of unusually high grade due to the excellent harvesting weather. It is, however, said to be rather unusually short stape as a result of the drought. There are also said to be unusual geographical vagaries in the staple length and grade of the cotton, again resulting from weather.

When these and other unusual factors are taken into consideration, it is certainly not strange that the speculative fraternity, accustomed to assuming the larger part of the risk attendant upon the marketing of the cotton crop in this country, are now much inclined to resign in favor of the Government.

Bond Market Is Unchanged; At 84.4 Level

Federals Move Downward, Transfers Decline to $11,400,000.

New York, Oct. 18 (AP).—The bond market was somewhat diffident today and prices, generally, milled about quietly over a narrow range.

The majority of U. S. Government listed securities were inclined to slip, but most of them finished only moderately lower and above their lowest quotations of the session. Other prime investment issues were fairly firm. Scattered secondary loans were a trifle heavy at times.

Transfers totaled $11,400,000, par value, against $13,780,000 yesterday, and the Standard Statistics average for 60 domestic corporate bonds was unchanged at 84.4.

To Offer $50,000,000.

Advices from Washington that a private banking syndicate would in the next few days offer an additional $50,000,000 of Home Owners Loan Corporation obligations may have caused some selling in the Federal section.

With the exception of Liberty 3½s and First 4¼s, Treasury 4¼s of 1947-52, Treasury 3¼s and Federal Farm 3¼s, which ended slightly higher, the Government list was off one thirty-second to 9-32ds. of a point.

The turnover in Governments amounted to about $3,450,000, compared with $4,730,000 in the previous session.

There was little news which might have enhanced the activity in the corporation departments. Both Armour & Co. 4½'s and 5's edged up to new highs for the year at 101¾ and 99, respectively. Sheil Union Oil 5's of 1949 also got up ⅜ of a point, to 102⅜, a new 1934 peak, following announcement that the issue had been called for redemption and would be replaced with 3½ per cent notes. The call price is 102.

U. P. Loans Firm.

Union Pacific loans were firm around their 1934 tops, and issues of American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, Goodrich, Morris & Co., Republic Steel and National Steel improved.

Losers of fractions to around a point included some bonds of Santa Fe, Baltimore & Ohio, Central Pacific, St. Paul, Kelly-Springfield, Ohio Public Service, Postal Telegraph, Pure Oil, Southern Pacific, Southern, and Studebaker.

The foreign section was mixed. Mexican bonds appeared for gains of a point or so, and issues of Germany, Denmark and Austria were firm.

Small Losses Predominate In Curb Sales

New York, Oct. 18 (AP).—Small losses predominated at the close of the curb market today. Trading broadened moderately, transfers approximating 161,000 shares compared with 126,000 the previous day.

A number of specialties were resistant. Metals, oils and utilities eased. Quotations were a bit mixed at the start of the day but showed improvement around midday. Movements were narrow in the early afternoon, but the offerings appeared near the finish.

Safety Car Heating rose some 5 points in a meager turnover. National Dairy preferred showed a similar advance, moving into new high ground for the year. Interstate Hosiery got up a point.

American Cyanamid B, Swift & Co. and Hiram Walker were steady. Losses of fractions to around a point were recorded by American Gas & Electric, Creole Petroleum, Lake Shore, Distillers Corporation-Seagrams, Newmont, Parker Rust Proof, Gulf Oil, Pioneer Gold, Electric Bond & Share and Singer Manufacturing.

Wheat Values' Drop Nearly Wiped Out

Notable Rallying Power Practically Conquors Downtrend.

Chicago, Oct. 18 (AP).—Notable buying power showed itself in the wheat market today and practically conquered an early downward trend of prices.

Recoveries were in line with action of foreign markets, especially firmness at Buenos Aires, where the price of wheat and the price of corn became virtually identical.

In various quarters, much attention was given to the fact that the new Argentine wheat crop is at the critical period of growth, and there were numerous suggestions that the quality of wheat at present on hand in Argentina may be somewhat inferior, a circumstance implying likelihood of augmented demand for wheat north of the Equator.

Wheat Closes Steady.

Wheat in Chicago closed steady at the same as yesterday's finish, to ½ cent off; May, 1¼@1¼; corn, ⅜@⅝ up; May, 80⅝@80½; oats, ⅜@¼ down, and provisions unchanged, to a rise of 2 cents.

Wheat went down 1½ cents a bushel before fully recovering poise. The domestic wheat belt had received considerable moisture where needed, and this did much for a while to pull prices down. Buying support developed, however, at 99 cents for May wheat, and upturns from that point formed the rule, European cable advices at hand saying stop-loss liquidation abroad had been well absorbed, and that the outlook at Liverpool was much healthier, with evidence of a good class of purchasing.

Corn Renews Strength.

Renewed strength of the corn market contributed to the recovery of wheat. Husking returns tended to confirm reports that the amount of merchantable corn will fall a good deal below recent estimates.

Corn traders gave special attention also to reports that much corn territory in Iowa and Nebraska presented a miserable appearance. One observer said he saw districts where, standing on high ground, he could survey the whole horizon without finding a single field where the corn was still standing, all having been cut for the little fodder value that it had. Oats followed corn, but met with profit-taking sales.

Waynesboro Apples Overflow Storage Bins

Waynesboro, Pa., Oct. 18 (Spl.).—Apple storage facilities in Waynesboro will accommodate only 60 per cent of the crop in this immediate vicinity, it was announced today by officials of the Waynesboro Ice & Cold Storage Co. Some Adams County apples are being stored here.

The capacity of the storage houses here is 65,000 barrels and by Saturday every available bit of space will have been filled. Some orchardists were being turned away today.

The remainder of the crop unless disposed of at once on city markets will be shipped to distant storage houses.

Banks Shift Earnings Bulk To Investments

Incomes From Loans Drop to 30 Per Cent of Total Revenues.

Earnings on investments for the quarter ending September 28 were shown to be more than 40 per cent of income as against 16 to 22 per cent in 1928-30.

Income from loans, on the other hand, fell in the quarter to less than 30 per cent of the total as against 55 to 60 per cent shown in 1928-30.

Earnings and U. S. Loans.

Bankers in the last three months maintained more than 40 per cent of the total earnings assets in Federal securities.

Since Federal holdings have been large, a sensitive reaction has been noted in banking circles to discussions of Government monetary policies, particularly the much-talked-of proposal for a central banking institution.

But the total holdings of direct Federal obligations were reduced in the third quarter by $113,000,000 to $2,813,000,000 by the New York City reserve member banks.

U. S. Guaranteed Issues.

At the same time the holdings of Government-guaranteed issues were enlarged. This is reflected in the rise of $139,000,000 to a total of $1,242,000,000 in "other securities."

Loans on securities were down $295,000,000 while "all other" loans were up $81,000,000. An expansion in commercial loans starting in August was looked on as a move in line with seasonal trade requirements.

Reserve with Federal reserve banks was up $72,000,000, while cash in vaults dropped $1,000,000. Net demand deposits rose $130,000,000, and time deposits dropped $52,000,000 and Government deposits $134,000,000.

Chinese Take Steps To Stabilize Dollar

Shanghai, Oct. 18 (AP).—The Chinese government today took steps to stabilize the Chinese dollar, after four days of wild fluctuations on the Shanghai market.

An "equalization committee" composed of four or five government officials and bankers will be named, Minister of Finance H. H. Kung announced.

He declined to go into details as to the nature of its functions.

Allegany Plays Martinsburg Eleven

Game May Go Long Way Toward Determining League Champion.

WAYNESBORO, Pa., Oct. 18 (Spl.).—Only one Cumberland Valley Athletic League game is carded for the week-end, Martinsburg High being scheduled to meet Allegany in Cumberland, Md. Dopesters are finding it difficult to pick a possible champion, but the outcome of Saturday's tiff should at least give some idea as to how the race will result. Allegany's defeat at the hands of Keyser, W. Va., last Saturday was an upset, while Martinsburg experienced little difficulty with Davis, winning 37 to 0.

Handley of Winchester, Hagerstown and Waynesboro, other members of the C. V. A. L., are free from league competition this week. Hagerstown plays the Mercersburg Academy Jayvees at Mercersburg, while Waynesboro vies with Chambersburg at Waynesboro in its biggest home game of the year.

Handley's upset of Waynesboro last Saturday placed the league in somewhat of a muddle. The 1933 champions were expected to win and outplayed the Judges throughout the contest. A fumble on the 37-yard line proved Waynesboro's downfall. Ramey, Winchester end, picked up the loose pigskin and dashed unmolested for the score, giving Handley the top position in the race.

Hagerstown suffered a blow in going down to a 27-to-0 defeat at the hands of Penn Avenue, of Cumberland, Saturday, when Ayres, star quarter back, tore several ligaments in his foot. Capt. Smead and Fisher are also on the injured list. All three of Eddie Semler's stars will be back in time for the next C. V. A. L. clash with Handley in Hagerstown on October 27.

The New Deal inaugurated at Chambersburg (Pa.) High with Norman Rines, former Temple U. center, as the "brain trust" is working out effectively. In the three games to date, the Blue and White has been undefeated and unscored on, numbering as it victims Mercersburg Academy Jayvees, Gettysburg High and Scotland School.

The C. V. A. L. standing follows:

Team.	W.	L.	Pct.
Winchester	1	0	1.000
Martinsburg	0	0	.000
Allegany, Cumberland	0	0	.000
Hagerstown	0	0	.000
Waynesboro	0	1	.000

Things Change.

In bygone times the banks were prone to reach for purses lean and lank; however little you might own, 'twere best to put it in the bank. "However small your bundle looks," the smiling cashier used to say, "deposit it, and soon, gadzooks, you'll see how nobly it will pay. We welcome any small amount the humble toiler may bring in; there's nothing like a bank account to help said humble toiler win. The poor man's treated just as well as is the gaudy millionaire; so walk right in where tellers tell, and bank the coin you have to spare." We took the banker's sage advice in those old days, so far, far back; and it was surely mighty nice to have a checkbook in the shack. We paid off all the merchant gents with paper that the bank supplied; we wrote our check for 50 cents with pardonable pomp and pride. We had the pleasant feeling then that bankers viewed us all with pride; our checkbooks made us seem like men who had resources high and wide. But all the landmarks now are gone that once made life a long delight; our goods and chattels are in pawn, and bankers shoo us out of sight. Unless our bank accounts are large, the banks won't touch us with long poles; they talk about a service charge to handle poor men's paltry rolls. "The small accounts," the cashiers say, "are but a nuisance and a bore, they are a frost, they do not pay, we do not want them any more." And so the pleasant customs slide, and one by one they loop the loops; if we have savings we must hide the paltry kopecks in our coops.

Dairymen Meet To Plan Fight On Price Drop

Aid of Independents Will Be Sought to Maintain Maryland Rates.

Westminster, Md., Oct. 18 (Spl.).—Action to obtain cooperation of independent milk shippers, who were blamed for a drop in milk prices in the Baltimore area last Saturday, was taken, and plans for a stabilized price were discussed, at a meeting of 1,500 dairymen in the Westminster Armory last night.

Although the meeting was sponsored by the Maryland State Dairymen's Association, principally for Carroll County dairymen, shippers from Frederick, Baltimore, Howard and Harford counties, aroused over the break in the market, attended.

Pointing out that competition with dealers who were buying milk from independent shippers had forced cooperating dealers to demand a lower price from the association, resulting in a price drop last Saturday, I. W. Heaps, secretary-treasurer of the association, told the dairymen that it was up to them to enforce a higher price for milk because "the Government can't enforce it."

It was stated at the meeting that the break in the market, which lowered the price of Class 1 milk (bottled) from 26 cents per gallon to 22½ cents, and Class 2 milk (fluid cream) from 19 cents to 17 cents, returned the shippers to a July price level, and, unless action was taken immediately, would ruin the average shipper, who at the same time is faced with rising commodity prices.

The dairymen named a committee to secure the cooperation of independent shippers in Carroll County. Similar action was taken at the first of a series of proposed meetings, held this week in Harford County.

Fourteen entries had been received up to last night, and others will be accepted until Monday. The girls will appear in the costumes they expect to wear in the parade, before a committee of judges consisting of Clifford K. Berryman, chairman; Mrs. Edna Knight Gasch, Charles Bittinger, Felix Mahoney and Miss Anne Fuller Abbot. The winner will receive one of 13 silver cups donated for the celebration.

Forum to Hear Brookhart.

Former Senator Smith W. Brookhart, foreign trade adviser for the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, will be the principal speaker tomorrow night at the Washington Open Forum. The forum will be held in the George Washington Inn, New Jersey avenue and C street southeast.
